Japs Threaten to Seize Filipino Hostages

ASIATIC FLEET OF U. S. REACHES 'SECURE' HAVEN

Exodus from Manila Completed Safely.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—Adm. Thomas C. Hart has succeeded in bringing the entire Asiatic fleet, with its warships intact, to comparatively secure waters from which to wage his fight against the Japanese, it was ascertained tonight.

[The United States navy is divided into three fleets—the Pacific fleet, which was based in Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked it on Dec. 7; the Asiatic fleet, until recently based on the Philippines, and the Atlantic fleet with headquarters on the east coast.]

Where the fleet is now located and whether it has found a new base are questions which the navy does not answer. That it probably is in the Netherlands East Indies' area was indicated by the recent arrival of Adm. Hart, now commander of all allied naval forces in the southwestern Pacific, somewhere in that archipelago. A navy spokesman previously had said it could be "assumed" that the Asiatic fleet was coöperating with Dutch and British units in those waters.

Hail Feat of Seamanship.

Belief spread here that the feat of seamanship involved in evacuating the naval base at Cavite, in Manila bay only 30 miles from the Philippine capital, would one day be ranked one of the notable naval episodes of the war.

The navy's sole comment has been the laconic communique, issued immediately after the fall of Manila, that "all ships and naval personnel were removed from the Manila-Cavite area prior to enemy occupation," along with all records, equipment and stores, and that industrial facilities were destroyed.

Save All Auxiliary Vessels.

Not only was the whole combat force—cruisers, destroyers, and submarines—removed from the untenable base at Cavite, but the "fleet train" also was saved. The "train" was the slow-moving collection of supply ships, tankers, cargo vessels, tugs, tenders, repair ships and other auxiliaries essential to the fleet.

There were indications that the Michigan born admiral, a seasoned submarine and cruiser division commander, had moved fighting units out of vulnerable Cavite before the Japanese assault on Pearl Harbor and Luzon Island opened hostilities.

After the outbreak of hostilities some of the warcraft had to reënter Manila bay, it was said, to escort auxiliary vessels to safety.

KING GETS FREE REIN

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today confirmed reports that a major reorganization of the navy department is under way. The move is a result of the shakeup in the naval high command following Japan's surprise attack on Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7.

[Shakeup in British cabinet is foreseen as London hears warning that Singapore may fall. Story on page 5.]

The more important functions of the office of chief of naval operations, held by Adm. Harold R. Stark, are being shifted to that of the commander in chief of the fleet, Adm. Ernest J. King, former commander of the Atlantic fleet, who has the full confidence of President Roosevelt. King will have virtually supreme

Map in Color

A map in full color of the major part of China, Thailand, Indo-China, Corea, and contiguous lands, including that part of Burma from which starts the famous Burma road, appears on the back page of this issue. Chinese areas occupied by the Japanes are shown in a color distinguishable from that of the rest of China. In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will appear a comprehensive color map of Australasian waters, in which the Japanese now are conducting their campaign against the Netherlands Indies.

ALL ENEMY ALIENS IN U. S. ORDERED TO REGISTER 2D TIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—A new registration of all enemy aliens in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands was ordered today by President Roosevelt.

His proclamation empowered Attorney General Francis Biddle to fix a time and place for enemy aliens to apply for and obtain identification certificates. They must carry identification with them at all times. Similar regulations are in effect in other nations at war. The new registration will be more detailed than the previous one, requiring photographs and other data which will enable the government to keep a closer check upon noncitizens.

SALE OF U. S. AUTO STAMPS ON AGAIN AFTER A MIXUP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—The treasury disclosed tonight that the sale of automobile tax stamps is on again after a mixup earlier which threatened to cause postponement of further sales until Jan. 27. The stamps, covering the period until July 1, cost $2.09. For the following full year the cost will be $5.

Officials explained that the cancellation order was issued because it was discovered 23 states prohibited the pasting of stamps or stickers on windshields and the stamps were so gummed that they couldn't be used otherwise.

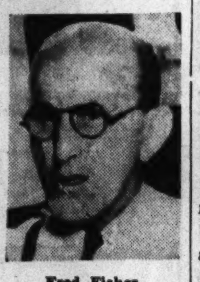
However, the treasury contacted 20 of the 23 states with such regulations and they agreed to waive the prohibition.

SENATE PASSES 1 HOUR DAYLIGHT SAVING MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—Uniform daylight saving on a country-wide scale for the duration of the war, with the clock hands moving forward one hour early next month, was agreed to by the senate today. All that is required to complete congressional enactment of the program is a formal vote by the house, which is scheduled for tomorrow. The measure would then go immediately to the White House.

Fisher, Famed for Song Hits, Hangs Himself

New York, Jan. 14 [Special].—Song Writer Fred Fisher, veteran of Tin Pan Alley and composer of gay melodies that lightened the lives of millions of Americans, such as "Come Josephine in My Flying Machine," was found dead today, apparently a suicide to end the pain he had suffered for years.



Fred Fisher.

The body of the 65 year old man was found hanging in the bedroom of his penthouse apartment. The discovery was made by his son, Marvin, not long after Fisher had breakfasted with his family as usual.

A brief note, which Fisher had scribbled across a memo of medicines he took to relieve pain, said in part: "No one is responsible for my death except myself." Members of his family said he was a victim of an incurable ailment.

Wrote Over 1,000 Songs.

The publisher and composer of more than 1,000 songs, including many of the nation's biggest hits, Fisher was a millionaire at the peak of his career.

His versatility placed him among the few persons qualified for membership in all three branches—writing words, composing music, and publishing—in the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, of which he was one of the earliest members.

Included in his varisided life was service in the German navy at the age of 14 and later in the French Foreign legion, and a brief career as a salesman in India before he finally settled in the United States. He was born in Germany.

Thru good years and bad, Fisher's favorites continued to sell to an admiring public. His greatest success as a lyric writer was "Dardanella," which sold 6,500,000 phonograph records and set an all-time high for sales of popular music.

Among his other hits were "Broadway Rose," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "They Go Wild, Simply Wild Over Me," "Peg o' My Heart," "Auf Wiedersehn," "Fifty Million Frenchmen," "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me," "There's a Broken Heart for Every Light on Broadway," "Any Little Girl That's a Nice Little Girl," "Daddy, You've Been a Mother to Me," and "Ireland Must Be Heaven, for My Mother Came from There."

Admitted Tune Snatching.

Fisher reportedly took pride in admitting that he used melodies from well known composers, and once told a film producer, "When you buy me you're buying Chopin, Liszt, and Mozart. You're getting the very best."

He became president of the Fred Fisher Music company in 1907 and was still head of the firm at his death.

When radio upset the popular music business and caused him sharp financial reverses in the late 1920s Fisher went to Hollywood and wrote songs for musical settings of movies.

WARTIME BICYCLE APPEARS AND IT'S BETTER'N WALKIN'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special.]—Leon Henderson, federal price administrator, introduced a wartime model bicycle to America today and not only suggested but demonstrated how the nation can pedal its way to work after automobiles bog down and tires wear out.

Revealing that OPM officials have arranged with 12 companies for the production this year of 750,000 of these bicycles, which use no copper, nickel or plated work and are equipped with narrow tires made of about 90 per cent reclaimed rubber, Henderson exhibited a sample. The 240 pound price administrator made his demonstration doubly impressive by loading Betty Barrett, comely OPM stenographer from York, Neb., into the handlebars basket before he swung into the seat and embarked on a test run around the block.

The bicycle is a far cry from the bright gadget bedecked models of today. Its wheels are smaller and it weighs 34 pounds compared with the average weight of 55 pounds for the 1,827,000 bicycles built last year.

Flow of River Increased to Clear Stream of Ice

Sanitary district engineers said yesterday that the increased flow in the Chicago river between 4 and 10 a. m. was the result of a request from city engineer that the flow be speeded to carry the ice away.

INVADERS ORDER EXECUTIONS FOR MANY OFFENSES

Millions in U. S. Assets Destroyed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—The same harsh, ruthless practices made familiar by Nazi forces in France have been applied, the war department reported tonight, by the Japanese in Manila and other invaded sections of the Philippines.

Residents of the islands have been warned that any one who injures or attempts to injure a Japanese soldier or civilian will be instantly shot. If he cannot be found, 10 hostages will be taken into custody. The death penalty has also been established for a long list of actions including disturbing the "peace."

Hostages Will be Seized.

Word of the enemy tactics in Manila had been communicated to the department by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. They were contained, he said, in a proclamation signed by the commanding general of the Japanese army of occupation and published in Manila newspapers. It said:

"Warning:

"1. Any one who inflicts or attempts to inflict an injury upon Japanese soldiers or individuals shall be shot to death.

"2. If the assailant or attempted assailant cannot be found, we will hold 10 influential persons as hostages who live in or about the street or municipality where the event has happened.

"3. Officials and influential persons shall pass this warning on to your citizens and villages as soon as possible and should prevent these crimes before they happen on your own responsibilities.

"4. The Filipinos should understand our real intentions and should work together with us to maintain public peace and order in the Philippines."

Sabotage Acts Listed.

"In addition, a radio announcement from Tokio was made which stated that the Japanese authorities in Manila had decreed the death penalty for any of a list of acts detrimental to the security of the Japanese armed forces. The penalty is to be inflicted, irrespective of the nationality or race of the persons responsible. The acts listed in the announcement included disturbing the peace, violation of military orders, espionage, interference with communications, damage to military property, concealment of requisitioned goods and circulation of rumors concerning the Japanese forces.

"The severity of these official pronouncements is in marked contrast to the terms of cajolery used in leaflets dropped by Japanese aviators prior to the occupation of Manila. These leaflets promised the Filipinos freedom from any oppression and assured them of the friendliest of intentions on the part of the Japanese. In these leaflets, the natives were assured that the Japanese soldiers were coming as friends, not as conquerors, and would free them from the so-called oppressions of the white race."

Save Millions in Assets.

It was announced also by the treasury department that American authorities in the Philippines destroyed or removed many millions of dollars worth of assets to prevent them from falling into Japanese hands.

Prior to the evacuation of Manila, the treasury disclosed, President Roosevelt delegated to High Commissioner Francis B. Sayre the sweeping authority of the new war powers act to enable him to dispose of any assets that might be useful to the Japanese.

Sayre was authorized even to destroy currency if necessary and an official statement called this order "the first application of the scorched earth policy which any nation has yet made to this class of valuables."

The war department communique told of two Japanese attempts to crack the MacArthur line on Bataan peninsula. American and Filipino troops repulsed both with heavy losses to the enemy and relatively small casualties to themselves.

The communique also disclosed that the Japs were setting up bases on the southern islands of the Philippine archipelago. These, it said, were intended for use in attacks on Malaya and the Dutch East Indies.

WAR AT A GLANCE FROM WORLD'S FIGHTING FRONTS

Yesterday's developments on all war fronts:

In Burma the allied forces were heartened by the arrival of air and land reënforcements at Rangoon, which gave new hope that a counteroffensive against the Japs might be undertaken.

On the Dutch East Indies front the Dutch reported beating the Japs in a skirmish on the Borneo-Sarawak frontier, and their warplanes delivered telling blows against the enemy from the waters of the Celebes sea northward to the Philippines. Gen. Archibald Wavell, the allied commander in chief in the western Pacific, arrived in the Indies with his second in command, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett of the United States army.

British Retreat Continues.

Still retreating before the Japs on the Malay peninsula, the British announced that only one of the nine Malay states, Johore, remains in British possession. A new British line was formed in lower Negri Sembilan, which borders Johore on the north. Tokio said the Japanese drive had reached Tampin, 120 miles from Singapore.

The United States war department announced that the Japanese authorities in Manila have issued a public warning that the death penalty will be applied to civilians who attack or attempt to attack Japanese soldiers or civilians. If the assailant cannot be found, 10 hostages will be arrested for each offense, presumably to be executed.

Gen. MacArthur's forces again beat back the Japs in two frontal assaults against his lines.

Big Assault on Malta.

Indications that the expected German invasion of Malta may be near were contained in a vast assault on the little Mediterranean island by axis bombers. The small but mighty fortress had 17 air alarms in 24 hours. RAF flyers from the Malta base hammered axis ports and ships on the Mediterranean, including Tripoli, and bombed supply depots and trucks at El Agheila in Libya.

On the Russian front the Red army drove ahead in its push toward the Nazi winter line, taking Medyn, 35 miles south of Mozhaisk, in the effort to encircle the latter town, which is 57 miles west of Moscow. Russian sources said the whole battleground west of Moscow has now been cleared for a war of movement by the breaking of the last German positional zone.

BRITAIN PONDERS PLEA TO RELAX BLOCKADE FOR STARVING GREEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The government today was reported to be considering an application for lifting the blockade to allow food to enter Greece, where the people are said to be starving and many are dying in the streets. It was pointed out that Greek ships and sailors operating with the British merchant marine, are bringing food to Britain. Greece, Britain's ally, was overrun by the Germans in 1941.

A ministry of economic warfare spokesman said lifting the blockade would be a departure from the firmly held principles, but added that "principles of humanity also are involved, and might outweigh, to some extent, the principles of economic war." His view was that there are still Germans in Greece, that reports of starvation may be exaggerated, and that even if food reaches Greece, it would be of assistance to Germany. He asserted it would be possible for Germany and Italy to relieve Greece's suffering.

39 SURVIVORS ARE RESCUED; 1 CREWMAN LOST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15 [Thursday] (AP).—Thirty-nine officers and men were rescued from the torpedoed Panamanian tanker Norness, and only one member of the ship's company remained unaccounted for after an attack off Long Island, navy officials said early today following a telephone conversation with Rear Adm. E. C. Kalbfus, commandant of the naval operating base at Newport, R. I.

Cross indicates scene of torpedoing.

A submarine, unidentified as to nationality, fired three torpedoes at close range as the vessel passed about 60 miles southeast of Montauk Point, Kalbfus reported. Montauk Point is at the eastern tip of Long Island, about 120 miles from New York City, and 110 miles due east of New York harbor.

The attack on the ship, made early yesterday, was the closest approach to America's east coast by enemy warcraft since the United States entered the war.

The ship was still partially afloat, her bow sticking out of the water at the time the admiral reported to headquarters here.

The attack occurred at 12:20 a. m. Chicago time yesterday.

One Seriously Injured.

Only one member of the crew was reported to be seriously injured altho the other survivors were placed under medical care in naval custody, pending action by immigration authorities. All were aliens, Kalbfus reported.

United States naval vessels rescued six officers and 24 men and landed them at Newport at 8:30 p. m., Chicago time, last night. The fishing boat, Malvina, picked up the captain, Harold Hansen, a Norwegian, and eight crew members, and brought them in to New Bedford, Mass. The nine were being transported to Newport by naval automobile.

Most of the 39 men were reported suffering from shock and exposure, and authorities declined to permit interviews and photographs for the time being.

Crew Sighted in Lifeboats.

Earlier in the day reports from Washington said a navy patrol plane had spotted the stricken vessel, her decks awash and her crew bobbing up and down in lifeboats on the wintry sea.

The patrol plane's alarm sent naval aircraft speedily to the rescue of survivors—and presumably on a death hunt with depth bombs.

For hours after the crewmen first were seen there remained some doubt as to the manner in which their craft was damaged—the possibility that it may have been a matter of elements remaining until official announcement of the torpedoing.

The attack on the tanker followed the torpedoing yesterday of a large armed steamship 160 miles off Nova Scotia with a loss of perhaps 90 lives and was reported simultaneously with a navy department warning that the U-boat menace to the Atlantic coast was on the increase.

The Norness was listed in Lloyd's register of shipping as a vessel of 9,577 tons owned by the Tanker corporation and sailing under Panamanian registration.

SENATE REPORT TO DEMAND CURB ON $1 A YEAR MEN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—The senate defense investigating committee has prepared an interim report, committee sources said today, which will demand an end to the practice of employing dollar a year men from big business in federal defense positions.

The report is expected to be submitted to the senate tomorrow by Chairman Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] who said President Roosevelt has approved the work of the committee and asked it to continue.

Persons who saw the report said it terms "undesirable" the placing of dollar a year men in responsible government positions when they have not severed their private business connections completely.

DUTCH BEAT JAPS IN FIRST BORNEO FRONTIER CLASH

U.S. Flyers Aid in Raining Blows on Invaders.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 14 (AP).—Dutch troops successfully engaged the Japanese invader today in a skirmish on the wild and mountainous frontier of Sarawak and Dutch Borneo, and allied warplanes beat strongly at the enemy from the waters of the Celebes sea northward to the lower Philippines.

On the already smashed and blackened waterfront area of Tarakan off northeast Borneo—the Japanese occupied oil producing island to which the Dutch had applied the torch and hammer before yielding it to the enemy—Dutch bombers descended in force and squarely hit at least one Japanese ship.

Bomb Jap Field in Philippines.

Other Dutch airmen ranged far to the north to the southern Philippine Islands, the Japanese base for the Indies invasion, and bombed runways of a Japanese air field and scored three direct hits on barracks.

This jump in the tempo of the allied counteraerial offensive, which was ineffectively answered by unsuccessful Japanese attacks on the oil port of Balik Papan, in East Borneo, and the Rhio archipelago near Singapore, coincided with announcement of the arrival in these islands of the allied commander in chief of the southwest Pacific, British Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

Wavell's headquarters will be somewhere in the Indies. His second in command, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, former chief of the United States army air corps, also has arrived.

18 Foes Killed in Skirmish.

The land action along the Sarawak-Borneo frontier was of preliminary nature, and in the initial fight the Dutch command reported that 18 Japanese were killed to the loss of a single defender. Sarawak, the British-protected area, was overrun some time ago by the invader.

There was no official news of the struggle in the Minahassa area, in the northeastern end of the Island of Celebes, but other accounts told of hand to hand fighting near Lake Tondano in that theater.

The afternoon Netherlands East Indies communique confirmed earlier announcements that the oil facilities of fallen Tarakan had been thoroly smashed and went further to report that the Dutch naval air base on the island had been destroyed.

U. S. Flyers Aid in Attack.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—The army said today three American bombers, fighting with the Netherlands Indies forces, attacked a Japanese naval force near Tarakan, the vital oil island off northeast Borneo that has fallen to the enemy. Full results of the attack are not known, a communique said, but two Japanese lighters were destroyed. The American planes returned to their undisclosed base undamaged.

FRESH BRITISH AIR AND LAND TROOPS ARRIVE IN BURMA

Counter-Offensive on the Malay Front Indicated.

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 14 (AP).—Both air and land reënforcements—the first to reach the British western Pacific in more than a month of war with Japan—have arrived in Burma. More are on the way.

An official announcement said today that these included anti-aircraft batteries for Rangoon and other key points and additional ground crews for Burmese air fields, some of which are hidden in the jungle close to Thailand.

[This dispatch may indicate that aircraft and aviation personnel apart from those making up the ground crews have arrived. Burma's air strength already appears to be the greatest of any British western Pacific possession. Some of the heaviest raids on Thailand have been made from there. It is known to have received aerial reënforcements shortly before the war began.]

Burmese Are Heartened.

Fresh British and Indian troops, equipped for instant action under the Burma commander, Lieut. Gen. T. J. Hutton, heartened the Burmese as they marched for the first time on Burma's soil. They gave new hope that Burma will become the base for a strong counteroffensive against the Japanese in Malaya.

The RAF forces in Burma now include pilots from England, Canada, Australia, and South Africa. American veteran pilots in a volunteer squadron are protecting the Burma road to China.

Rangoon Bombing Fizzles.

The latest and heaviest Japanese air thrust at Rangoon, made in last night's moonlight, fizzled out. Several waves of Japanese bombers tried to hit military objectives in the environs of the city, but they caused only half a dozen civilian casualties. Two of the Japanese bombers arrived with their lights turned on—apparently a gesture of bravado.

Rangoon authorities were doing their utmost to nullify Japanese radio propaganda threatening that Japanese planes will "bomb Rangoon to the ground" in the next three days and warning the native population to flee at least 15 miles from the city.

British Shorten Malay Defense Line Under a Curtain of Rain

SINGAPORE, Jan. 14 (AP).—Imperial troops established a shorter Malayan defense line northwest of this island fortress tonight and authorities disclosed that only one remaining federated state, neighboring Johore, remained under effective British control.

The new British line was formed in a drenching rain. Presumably it was in lower Negri Sembilan state and the adjoining Straits Settlement of Malacca. Both border on Johore.

Two days ago the British troops had held a temporary line above Seremban, the capital of Negri Sembilan, 150 miles from Singapore, but again they withdrew southward.

The British revelation that Johore was the last of nine states not occupied or penetrated by the Japanese came thru a postal order which said mail was being accepted only for distribution in Johore. The mainland state is separated from Singapore by a mile-wide strait.

Biggest Air Raid Toll.

This order did much to awaken Singapore's mixed population to the gravity of their situation. After less than six weeks of war they realized that only about one-fifth of federated territory and one-fourth of its population remains under the British flag.

Increasingly heavy Japanese air raids, however, brought home to most of the Asiatics here the impending battle for Singapore. The ministry of information said that yesterday's Japanese raid resulted in 55 casualties—the highest toll yet announced.

Fifty heavy Japanese bombers, escorted by 20 naval fighters, participated, and the British announced that one was shot down, three probably destroyed, and more damaged.

Only 120 Miles Away, Say Japs.

TOKIO, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Japanese drive toward Singapore today was said by Domei news agency to have reached Tampin, on the Negri Sembilan-Malacca frontier, 120 miles from Singapore.

Domei said Japanese forces operating on the eastern coast of Malaya had "all of Pahang state north of the Pahang river definitely under their control, and reports from advance guards indicate British resistance up to the border of Johore was virtually crushed."

CALL FOR MORE PLANES.

A dispatch from Melbourne, Australia, said invalided airmen reaching there had emphasized Singapore's urgent need for more allied warplanes to cope with the Japanese.

The large number of American made fighter planes on hand at Singapore when hostilities began have a limited range and probably are being held in reserve until the Japanese draw closer.

These broadcasts are coming from both Bangkok and Tokio.

British aircraft were over Japanese occupied territory—presumably Thailand—on reconnaissance today, a combined army and RAF headquarters communique disclosed tonight. The Japanese bombed an airdrome north of Rangoon this morning.

Tavoy, Burmese seaport west of Bangkok at the head of the Malayan peninsula, was bombed this afternoon by four enemy planes, but there were no casualties and no damage.

DUTCH STAND UP UNDER HEAT OF BATTLE—AND OIL

Fought for Isle as Own Fires Singed Them.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 14 (AP).—The heroic last stand of the Tarakan garrison which fought even after being completely surrounded by Japanese, under heavy air bombardment and in the midst of enormous heat and fire from burning oil wells, was told by authoritative quarters today.

The account of the battle, the first to come from the small oil bearing island off northeast Borneo, was made available thru Aneta, Netherlands East Indies news agency.

On Friday, Jan. 9, after preliminary Japanese aerial attacks, a large fleet was observed 15 miles east of Tandjoeng and Batoe, which are islands off the Tarakan southeast coast, the report said. The fleet consisted of six large cruisers, six destroyers, several transports and one tanker.

Dutch Hit Two Transports.

About 5 p. m. that day 14 transports under the cover of warships approached south Tarakan. Dutch bombers scored two hits on the transports, just missed a heavy cruiser and shot down three Japanese planes.

Early Sunday morning the Japanese began to land near Amal, on the east coast of Tarakan, putting troops ashore simultaneously at Tandjoeng and Batoe. The garrison at Amal withdrew with heavy losses after inflicting severe losses on the enemy.

The Japanese then began to march to the oil fields, attacking the Dutch positions and breaking thru. Using reserves, the Dutch threw them back, and by Sunday evening consolidated their front in a semicircle around the town of Tarakan.

Japs Bring Up New Troops.

The Japanese brought up new troops and during the night broke thru again. Meanwhile the order was given to destroy the oil wells, as planned. This operation was completed Sunday morning.

On Monday, after fighting in which both sides had heavy losses, the Japanese encircled the garrison, which was still fighting in groups. Under heavy bombardment from the air and affected by the heat of the burning oil, the garrison finally surrendered, altho a small portion reached the mainland of Borneo.

The enemy forces were overwhelmingly superior, but it is asserted that the purpose of resistance was achieved in preventing the Japanese from getting a drop of oil. Meanwhile Dutch bombers continued to attack Japanese ships, hitting two more transports.

Japs Use Port Arthur Siege Tactics Against MacArthur

Reports from the western Pacific war theater that Japanese soldiers creep along the Philippine beaches at low tide to attack Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces indicate that Nipponese commanders are using lessons learned in their siege of Russia's Port Arthur over 37 years ago.

Port Arthur, then ranked by some authorities as impregnable, was on a peninsula, the narrowest part of which lay about 20 miles north of the city and harbor proper. It was against this point, less than two miles wide, that the Jap forces were first hurled. The Russians, few in number, were strongly posted on a high hill known as Nanshan.

Wade in "Shoulder Deep."

Attacked by more than 10 times their number on May 26, 1904, the Russians resisted stubbornly until their left or western flank was attacked both by a Japanese flotilla close inshore and by a Japanese division which waded shoulder deep in the surf to reach a position on the Russian flank.

This maneuver, plus the fact that their ammunition was running low, caused the Russians to flee. So precipitate was the movement to get away that it became an utter rout and "spread panic in the rear."

Russians Prove Bravery.

Later the Russians proved they were brave and capable soldiers and it was not until the following January that they surrendered. The Japanese had to absorb huge losses and bring up their heaviest artillery to blast the port defenses to pieces.

Thus, by their wading tactics on Luzon Island today, the Japanese apparently seek to duplicate their Port Arthur plunge to victory thru boiling surf. They also copied a trick used at Port Arthur—the element of surprise—which was demonstrated by their attack on Pearl Harbor.

Indian Congress Party Puts Off Parley Because of War

WARDHA, India, Jan. 14 (AP).—The working committee of the All-India Congress party decided today that the party's annual session, which usually comes in April, would not be held this year, because of the war situation. Mohandas K. Gandhi recently was relieved of the party's leadership at his own request because he would not go along with other leaders who favored support for Britain's war effort.

COLONEL FACES COURT MARTIAL FOR CRITICISM

Columbus, O., Jan. 14 (AP).—Evidence gathered during an investigation of public addresses of Col. H. C. Kress Muhlenberg, retiring 5th corps area air officer, has been ordered submitted to an army court martial at Fort Hayes, officers at the post announced today.

Col. Muhlenberg has been confined to his quarters since Dec. 19, a day after an address to the Curtiss-Wright Flying club in which he criticized the American people for adopting a policy of sending military equipment to other powers.

The officer, who was to have been retired next month, formerly was commandant at Hickam Field, Honolulu.

21 NATIONS MEET TODAY TO MAP ANTI-AXIS UNITY

Atlantic Charter to Be Supported.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 14.—On the eve of the third Pan-American conference which meets tomorrow to form a united western hemisphere front against the axis powers these probable results can be forecast:

1. A resolution supporting the "Atlantic Charter" signed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill last summer. Sixteen of the 21 Pan-American republics already are on record in favor of this step.

2. A resolution breaking off all relations between the 21 nations and the axis powers, which probably will be in the form of a compromise to suit Argentina and Chile, whose attitude has been in doubt.

3. A settlement of Ecuador's 100 year old boundary dispute with Peru. Ecuador has been insisting on this as a preliminary to any international discussions, and Peru is believed to be amenable to a compromise agreement.

Compromise for Argentina.

The most important achievement—declaration of unity against Germany, Italy, and Japan—was the subject of numerous discussions today among Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, and various other delegates to the conference. Welles disclosed that Colombia, Mexico, and Venezuela will introduce a resolution calling for the severance of relations by all the countries, and 16 or 17 delegations will support it immediately.

To satisfy Argentina, whose delegate, Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, arrived by plane tonight, it is possible that the break in relations will not be made operative immediately in order to guard against unduly abrupt action. The Argentine delegate gave the impression that such a solution might be acceptable, indicating that his government did not intend to break up the conference or block permanently the passage of a break in relations resolution.

Chile also was said to appreciate this attitude, and the chief question now seems to be what guarantees of immediate protection the United States can give to Latin America, with its long coastlines subject to attack by the axis powers on both sides of the continent.

Seek Declaration of War.

The nine countries which already have declared war on the axis are expected to make an effort to force the conference to act on a proposal calling for out and out declaration of war. Arturo Despradel, foreign minister of the Dominican republic, was slated to introduce this resolution, but with the opposition of Argentina and Chile so apparent it is not expected to get very far.

The Ecuador-Peru problem looked like a monkey wrench in the machinery for awhile, with Tobar Donoso, Ecuadorean foreign minister, stating that he would refuse to take part in the sessions unless a basis of settlement was reached. But tonight negotiations were well advanced and a formula was being drawn up to which Peru can agree. Chile has thrown her influence to the aid of the United States, Brazil, and Argentina, which have been trying to impress upon the disputants that the threat of aggression from without the hemisphere makes a settlement of the boundary problem imperative. Peru has seen this necessity, altho she has not yet reached the point of accepting specific terms.

Welles to Address Meeting.

The 160 delegates will assemble at 2:30 p. m., Chicago time, at the Palacio Tiradentes, when President Getulio Vargas of Brazil will make the inaugural speech for 12 minutes, to be followed by Juan B. Rossetti, foreign minister of Chile, for 20 minutes.

Oswaldo de Freitas Valle Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, then will be appointed president of the conference and the first plenary session will follow immediately with a 35 minute speech by Sumner Welles. It is likely that adjournment will then be taken unless the Central American delegates insist upon putting the view of their nations before the meeting at once. The conference official program comprises 10 sittings.

The Navy Regrets

MISS ELIZABETH ROULET.

Nobody had the heart to say no, but still couldn't say yes, when Elizabeth Roulet, a 20 year old brunette, applied for enlistment in the navy at the Great Lakes Naval Training station yesterday.

So they referred Miss Roulet to Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant. She told the admiral that her father, Alfred L. Roulet, was a naval aviator during the World war "and I want to do my bit now."

Rear Adm. Downes advised her to return to her home at Countryside lake, Mundelein, and await the time when the navy has the authority to enlist yeomanettes for stenographic and clerical work. "If and when we can sign up women you'll be first," he told Elizabeth.

SAY ROGER HYATT WILL GET ALIEN PROPERTY POST

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—It was reported tonight that Roger C. Hyatt, Chicago banker and lawyer, had been appointed a special assistant by Attorney General Francis Biddle to act as alien property custodian. Hyatt left Chicago today for the capital.

He has made several visits here during the last month in the rôle of an advisor on setting up the machinery for the job. Several ofhis conferences were with Leo Crowley, former Madison, Wis. banker, who now is chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and who also had been mentioned for the post of alien property custodian.

Hyatt, 50 years old, is a vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. His home is in Wadsworth, Lake county, Ill. He formerly practiced law in Cleveland, O.

'FIGHT FOR RIGHT TO FIGHT' SLOGAN FOR JEWISH ARMY

More than 200 members of the Chicago Committee for a Jewish Army met last night in the Morrison hotel, and adopted the slogan, "Fight for the Right to Fight." The committee is part of an international organization which seeks to muster 200,000 Jews to fight as a unit against the axis powers.

Speakers were A. Ben-Eliezer, executive director; Irving Taitel, chairman of the midwest committee; Dr. Louis Singer, secretary, and Joseph Rafaeli of Palestine. Rabbi Elijah Berger blessed the meeting.

Rafaeli said that "Jewish statehood is the only postwar solution to the Jewish problem, and thru it Jews the world over will be restored to a position of normal existence in the countries of their residence."

U. S. BLACKLISTS WENNER-GREN AS AGENT FOR AXIS

Friend of Windsors Now in Vera Cruz.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—Axel Wenner-Gren, fabulously wealthy Swedish industrialist and friend of the duke and duchess of Windsor, was placed tonight on the state department's blacklist.

Axel Wenner-Gren.

Wenner-Gren was one of 1,800 individuals added to the blacklist of those deemed by the department to be acting for the benefit of the axis powers, and persons to whom the export of various goods is regarded as detrimental to American defense.

Wenner-Gren's name was carried on the blacklist under the headings of both Mexico and Peru, in both of which countries he has interests.

Had Big Option in Peru.

It was recalled that the Peruvian government was reported last November to have granted him an option, expiring Dec. 31, to form a syndicate for financing a $20,000,000 iron and steel industry in Peru. There has been no announcement that he ever exercised the option.

Wenner-Gren was in Vera Cruz, Mexico, tonight to meet his wife on her return from the Bahamas, of which the duke of Windsor is governor, according to dispatches from Mexico City.

An associate at Mexico City termed the blacklisting a "terrible mistake."

Owns Palatial Yacht.

"Mr. Wenner-Gren," the associate said, "is by no stretch of the imagination an axis sympathizer." [The blacklist makes no mention of sympathies.]

Wenner-Gren is the owner of the palatial yacht, Southern Cross, which has decks of solid teakwood. It was on the Southern Cross that the duke and duchess of Windsor came from the Bahamas to Miami, Fla., in December of 1940 as the guests of Wenner-Gren and his wife. The Wenner-Grens, well known among the smart set of the European capitals, maintain a home, Shangri-La, at Nassau.

In February before the duke and duchess' visit, Greta Garbo and her friend, Dr. Gaylord Hauser, flew to Nassau for a three day visit at Shangri-La and on the Southern Cross.

Gift to U. of Kentucky.

The Southern Cross has taken part in several sea rescues, most notable of which was the rescue of 150 persons from the British liner, Athenia, sunk in the north Atlantic Sept. 3, 1939.

Wenner-Gren gave $155,000 last year for the Wenner-Gren Aeronautical Research laboratory at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, which is now being used for the training of American army engineers.

The Swedish industrialist traveled from the United States to Germany with Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, in March of 1940, when Welles visited Berlin. Wenner-Gren at that time asked Hermann Wilhelm Goering and other influential acquaintances to use their influence toward settlement of the Finnish-Russian war.

In 1937, Wenner-Gren and his wife gave $6,400,000 at Stockholm for the establishment of a peace movement centering around inter-Scandinavian coöperation.

Engaged to Wed

RUTH HUSSEY.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 14 (AP).—Screen Actress Ruth Hussey said today she and Lincoln Fogarty of Kansas City had become engaged but that the wedding probably would not take place until summer, depending upon whether Fogarty is called into military service.

"It is the possibility of this call that makes it impossible to state just when we plan to be married," she said. "However, there will be no elopement."

Miss Hussey first met Fogarty when she was a student of Pembroke college and he was captain of the Brown university football team.

SCHOOL HOUR CHANGE URGED AS TRAFFIC AID

Ten high schools and two city colleges which have a total attendance of almost 45,000 students start their classes at 8 o'clock in the morning and seriously interfere with rush hour traffic in their districts, Ald. Francis E. Callahan [37th], chairman of a special council subcommittee investigating the advisability of staggering working hours to relieve rush hour traffic, was told yesterday.

The information was given to Callahan by City Traffic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson, who with the engineering staffs of the council transportation and traffic committees, has been designated to study the problem of staggered work hours.

"If those schools would start their morning sessions at 9 or possibly 9:30 o'clock, the outlying rush hour traffic would be passed," Sorenson said. "That traffic is in most cases on its way to the downtown district or to manufacturing districts and is gone by 9."

'So Sorry'; Jap Reporters Barred from Rio Meeting

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 14.—Three grinning Japanese who identified themselves as newspaper men today walked into the press propaganda department and asked to be accredited to the conference of foreign ministers of the American republics. Japan, they said, is not at war with Brazil. An official refused to honor their request. They bowed, smiled, and retired.

RED TROOPS DRIVE 25 MILES IN PUSH TO CIRCLE NAZIS

Retake Medyn in Advance Toward Mozhaisk.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15 [Thursday] (AP).—The Russians announced today the recapture of Medyn, 30 miles west of the Moscow-Bryansk railway in a continuing drive toward Vyazma.

This success carried Red troops 25 miles west of Maloyaroslavets in the attempt to encircle Mozhaisk. Medyn is 35 miles south of Mozhaisk, where strong Nazi forces still hold out. Mozhaisk is 57 miles west of Moscow.

The soviet communique said other populated places also were retaken and that 22 German planes were destroyed on Jan. 13 against a loss of eight Russian planes.

CLEARED FOR BIG DRIVE

LONDON, Jan. 14 (AP).—The whole of the bleak and icy battleground west of Moscow was declared by informed Russian sources tonight to have been cleared for a Red army war of movement by the breaking of the last German positional zone in this part of the front.

This positional zone, at Gorokhovo, athwart the Moscow-Mozhaisk highway east of Mozhaisk, had stood for nearly six weeks in the face of the steady pressure of the Russian counteroffensive, stanchly protecting some 100,000 Germans in the Mozhaisk area, 57 miles west of Moscow.

The situation of these Germans has become an increasingly menaced salient with deep Russian thrusts to the south and north of Mozhaisk.

Break Front Across Highway.

Recapture of the Gorokhovo position broke a front which had extended across the Mozhaisk highway to Kubinka, and it laid the Nazi positions in Mozhaisk open to attack by this route.

If the German command is forced to withdraw these Mozhaisk divisions too rapidly there most certainly will be a dangerous scramble westward, because the whole area is wedged between the Russian pincers which approach Rzhev on the north and the main Bryansk-Smolensk railway on the south.

All authoritative Russian sources stressed that the German position in the Crimea was no better than it was on the central front. Russian cavalry units were reported in action there and parachute troops were said to be dropping in the rear of the Nazi lines.

Russian troops still are landing at Theodosia, eastern Crimean port, the German radio acknowledged in a broadcast telling of Nazi air attacks on that place. "The air force bombed continuously large Russian shipping concentrations, disembarking troops, and war materials of all kinds in the port of Theodosia," the broadcast said.

Head for Perekcp Isthmus.

Newly landed Red army men were trying to reach the Perekop isthmus, where axis effectives had buttressed the line to protect the German route of retreat to the mainland.

In the Donetz basin an Izvestia [government newspaper] correspondent reported the annihilation of more than 20,000 German troops in fighting which had taken the Russians within 12 miles of Kharkov.

In the north new soviet thrusts below Lake Ilmen, intended to trap at least part of the German armies on the Leningrad front, have made progress, and Staraya Russa, 10 miles south of the lake, is unofficially reported to be in Russian hands.

Above Lake Ilmen, Gen. Meretzkov's troops are shoving the Germans down the Volkhov river valley. Leningrad was reported to have received fresh food and other supplies, presumably from the southeast.

New Russian Advances Told

Captions on map tell story of further Russian advances reported yesterday.

VITAL FACILITIES REGAINED BY RED COUNTER-DRIVE

Moscow Railway Hub Freed for Use.

[By Wide World News Service.]

Compared with Germany's long strides into Russia to overrun 323,000 square miles of territory, the Red armies as yet are only inching westward again with 32,800 square miles regained. But those inches may be more important strategically than all the territory still in German hands.

Hitler's conquests represented only a minor fraction of Russia's 9,000,000 square miles of territory, but some 60,000,000 of Russia's 183,000,000 inhabitants lived in the occupied area. It contained, too, the Ukraine "bread basket," vast natural and industrial resources, and, more important, the communications keys to Russia's western defenses centering in the Moscow rail and road hub.

Viewed from the communications angle, the Red army's 10 per cent recovery of territory takes on a meaning out of all proportion to its size, because along the 300 mile wide front west of Moscow the Russians have broken or gravely threaten every essential Nazi supply route east of the Dnieper valley. To the north they threaten vital junctions sustaining the whole German northern front from Smolensk to Leningrad. In the south Red army stabs at Orel and Kharkov threaten to undermine the German flank in the upper Donetz basin.

The Red army already has freed the great Moscow road-rail hub for effective use in shuffling forces from front to front; reopened Moscow-Leningrad communications, and ended indefinitely Nazi hopes of early access to oil in the Caucasus.

CANNED BEER SLATED AS AN EARLY VICTIM OF TIN CONSERVATION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—An order banning the use of cans for the packaging of a wide variety of products, has been prepared by the Office of Production Management and will be issued before the end of the week, it was reported here tonight.

The regulation aims at conserving tin supplies. It is expected to hit foodstuffs, including coffee, spaghetti, canned peanuts, and other nuts, and dog food. Canned beer is also on the prohibited list, it was said.

Sauerkraut and many other items have been placed on the list tenatively, it was said, but a final decision regarding their status will not be made until just before the order is issued.

TREASURY TELLS BOND PLAN TO 1,000 EMPLOYERS

More than 1,000 Chicago firms have sent representatives to the United States treasury department office at 105 West Adams street to learn details of the pay roll allotment plan for buying defense bonds, George Huth, co-chairman of the industrial section, said yesterday. Meetings are conducted twice daily.

Sale of defense bonds by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reached $448,576,000 yesterday, A. T. Sihler, vice president, announced, and postoffice sales mounted to $20,680,706, according to Ernest J. Kruetgen, postmaster.

Tribune public service offices yesterday sold $7,180.25 worth of bonds and $188.88 worth of stamps. The totals included a $5,000 maturity bond bought by Mrs. Titus Haffa of 4300 Marine drive.

ENSIGN'S STORY OF SIDESTEPPING DEATH IN HAWAII

Injured Rockford Youth 3 Steps Away.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 14 (AP).—A young naval officer told today of literally sidestepping death as newsmen were allowed for the first time to interview wounded officers brought here after the Dec. 7 attack on Pearl Harbor.

"I saw the bomb that got me," said Ensign R. E. Thomas Jr. of Rockford, Ill.

"It was a good thing I did. After I saw it I ran three steps before I was hit, and four men who were standing on the spot where I was were killed."

All Eager to Get Back.

Ensign Thomas, a 1941 Annapolis graduate, was in a naval hospital bed, his right hand in a complicated traction gear with three fingers suspended by rubber bands to allow him to exercise the hand. His right leg was in a plaster cast.

Thomas, whose father also is in the navy, was one of several young officers with first-hand accounts of how it feels to come close to death.

Some still were weak from injuries. Others were nearing recovery. Each expressed a desire to get back to duty as soon as possible.

Thomas said the battleship he was on was the target of Japanese dive bombers.

3 Bombers Dive at Ship.

"One bomb hit the ship forward and started a fire.

"I worked my way toward the back of the ship. Then I looked up and saw three bombers diving right at the ship.

"I saw a bomb from the center plane dropping and it looked like it was going to hit right on top of me.

"I sidestepped and ran thre steps. It hit. Then I stood there a minute because I felt like my leg was broken. Then with the help of two sailors I got down two decks below."

Chief Boatswain's Mate Ignatius Pozdar, 38, of Chicago, said, "About 15 of us were working on the wounded on the second deck when something whistled thru the air and exploded leaving a twisted mass of ruins.

"My gas mask was blown clear off my head. Four of us groped our way thru the smoke and wreckage and crawled out of a hatch manhole onto the main deck."

Pozdar was writing to his sister, Mrs. Anna J. Repinski, 2217 Thomas street, Chicago, as he was approached by reporters.

Gun Crew Wiped Out.

Ensign Don M. Cable of Kansas City, in a room near Ensign Thomas, suffered a wounded right arm, but it was healing so rapidly he looked forward to returning to duty in three weeks.

"A bomb sliver got me," Cable related.

"I was in charge of a machine gun on a battleship and shrapnel removed the entire crew of the gun about 30 minutes after the first attack. In the meantime eight bombs had hit on either side of the ship. It was a bomb we didn't see that finally hit.

"After I was hit I lay there on the deck until the gunner's mate, who was serving ammunition, came along and carried me down to sick bay."

5 DIE IN CANADIAN RAIL WRECK; 2D CRASH REPORTED

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Jan. 14 (AP).—Two Canadian Pacific freight trains crashed headon today and killed five members of their crews on the main line 53 miles west of this northern Ontario railway town. The engineers and firemen of both and a brakeman were killed. The impact derailed both engines and 30 cars, hurling their cargoes over hundreds of yards and mowing down numerous poles.

Passenger Train Also Wrecked.

Grand Isle, Me., Jan. 14 (AP).—An undetermined number of persons were injured, some possibly fatally, today in the collision of a fast freight and a passenger train of the Canadian National railways at Quisibis, New Brunswick, just over the international boundary. The freight was believed bound for Edmundston and the passenger train for Hamilton, N. B.

[In Montreal, Que., Canadian National Railways officials said they had information of the injury of only two passengers, a conductor and a brakeman.]

PACIFIC DEFENSE CALLED CANADA'S FIRST CONCERN

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 14.—The high commissioner of Canada to Australia, Maj. Gen. V. W. Odlum, said today that, altho Canada has a large force in the United Kingdom, her immediate concern is defense of the Pacific, particularly Australia.

Western Canada, he continued, is alive to the Japanese menace, but recognized that Australia's danger is greater and wants to know if it can do anything to help. He said he is here to discover what Canada can do and to see that it is done. Canada's interest in the defense of Australia was the primary reason for the dispatch of two Canadian divisions to Honkkong, Gen. Odlum said.

America's enormous forces can not be expected to reach full pitch for some time, he declared, so "we must be prepared to put our backs to the wall and fight for every inch until the tide is turned."

BRITISH CABINET SHAKEUP SEEN; LEADERSHIP HIT

Singapore Officials Flayed; Peril to Base Told.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Amid a warning that "we may lose Singapore" and a bitter condemnation of the "mouldy layer" of leadership, it was predicted here today that several changes will be made soon in the British cabinet. Most London political correspondents believe the cabinet will be revised by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as soon as he returns from the United States.

The Evening News political correspondent reported that Sir Stafford Cripps, ambassador to Russia, on his return from Moscow, will be invited to take a high post in the government," adding that this is only one of several likely ministerial changes.

Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard Diarist said:

"There may be a new minister of supply, because it is believed that Lord Beaverbrook wants a change."

Government spokesmen refute press attacks on Alfred Duff Cooper, cabinet member now in the far east, saying his reports have been excellent and that Churchill so informed Cooper in glowing messages of congratulations. It is, therefore, thought that he will be assigned to new duties.

Referring to the necessity for government changes, Lieut. Comm. Robert T. Bower, Conservative member of parliament, described Churchill as "a whale among minnows" and said it was a public duty to rock the boat hard enough to tip out the second rate members of the war cabinet.

He urged that the replacements include dominion representatives and called for better use of the "brilliant younger officers who already have distinguished themselves in war. . . ."

Officials "Cut Poor Figure."

It was the Evening Star which warned that Singapore may fall and condemned the "mouldy" leadership. Assailing Singapore officials, it said:

"Our fighting men have no peers; our factory workers are sweating to supply them; we are solidly united under a great leader; our spirit never has stood higher; we have weathered our worst storm in history," but the "men on the spot, as they like to call themselves, have cut a pretty poor figure since the despised Japanese have shattered their world of bridge parties and Blimpish forecasts that the jolly old raj [Britain] had nothing to fear from the orientals. It is said that the lights were blazing when the first Japanese bombs dropped on the great city around the naval base, built at a cost of scores of millions.

[Col. Blimp is a fat, mustached, bald-headed office nitwit created by Cartoonist David Low to personalize the quintessence of Victorian stodginess and inefficiency.]

"But not all the nonsense is out of the east. There is plenty at home to make the Commando, fighter pilot, or munitions worker grind his teeth. These are the men who know what we are up against and are not much impressed by being sentenced, in absence, to the unreality of the interallied conference at St. James's palace. We have to catch our hares before we cook them and, at this state, the quarry is having much too much the best of it.

[An interallied conference in London, representing eight axis occupied countries and the "Free French," on Tuesday pledged punishment of the Nazi and Fascist conquerors and native traitors who assisted them.]

Hits 'Detachment' in Britain.

"It is all around us, this ill-timed debating, irrelevant argument, having the fatuous appearance of detachment from urgent things of this day and hour. Bishops have leisure to fulminate about quick-time service marriages. The education committee, after grim deliberation, decidest against the Sunday services dance, and the army of toy soldiers goes on swelling.

"There are ships that cannot sail because miners, faced with 30 and 40 pounds [$120 and $160] income tax demands, are not producing coal. More miners have a grievance that cannot be settled without a strike. Profiteers still flourish."

Loosing another blast at Singapore's officialdom, the Star concluded:

"The man who sat in evening dress drinking brandy when the ship went down was not a hero. He was a fool."

Another warning of Singapore's peril was given in Thursday morning's Daily Mail, which said that "if Singapore is to be saved, it has got to have tanks, guns, and planes, in spite of Russia and the middle east."

Seek Voice for Dominions.

In addition to government changes, dominion representation in deciding vital problems of strategy and supply probably will be demanded when parliament reassembles. A large bloc of members of all parties is said to be ready to "revolt" to force a discussion on this question. The critics complain Australia was not given enough of a voice in far eastern strategy and that the dominion and the empire have been misled by official statements regarding the western Pacific situation. They will urge that cabinet "weaklings" be replaced by stronger men from the dominions. However, the government is understood to be considering setting up a war directorate embracing nominees of the dominion prime ministers.

Resentment among Australia newspapers because the public there has not been informed regarding operations in Malaya was admitted today by the British Broadcasting corporation. The papers protest that the Singapore censorship makes it impossible for them to obtain news except from enemy broadcasts. Even the London Daily Express took up their battle, asserting that "never again must the power of censorship be abused to shield incompetence as in Malaya."

Son of Illinois House Speaker Weds

Reception Held

Elmer J. Schnackenberg Jr., son of the speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, and Miss Marie Rietz, 8332 Maryland avenue, were married last night in the Bryn Mawr Community church, Jeffery avenue and 70th street. The Rev. Theodore K. Vogler officiated. Young Schnackenberg is 23 years old, and lives at 6936 Euclid avenue. After the ceremony, a reception to which Gov. Green and other dignitaries were invited was held in the Windermere East hotel. More than 500 persons attended. After the honeymoon, it was announced, young Schnackenberg will enlist in the army air force.

BIG AIR ASSAULT ON BRITISH MALTA LAUNCHED BY AXIS

RAF Bombers Strike Back at Sicily and Tripoli.

(Map on page 8.)

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 14 (AP).—A vast axis air assault in the Mediterranean appeared to be well under way tonight as German and Italian planes battered unceasingly at the British island of Malta, bombed British communications across Libya, and attacked imperial troops attempting to encircle the Nazi Gen. Erwin Rommel.

British planes also were increasingly active, and the future of the battle of Libya appeared to hinge more and more on Malta's ability to stand up under repeated axis air attacks.

Malta experienced 17 raid alarms, a record number, in the 24 hours ending at 6 p. m. today.

The small but mighty fortress is only 60 miles south of Italian Sicily on a direct line with Tripoli, the main African base for feeding Gen. Rommel's troops now drawn up on a 60 mile line between El Agheila and Marada at the gateway to Tripolitania.

More Than 1,200 Alarms.

Malta has undergone more than 1,200 air raid alarms since Italy entered the war, and its defenders claim a total bag of at least 80 axis planes.

Evidence that the RAF still was firmly entrenched at Malta came in tonight's communique announcing British attacks on Catania, Sicily, and Tripoli.

The RAF was believed to have disrupted axis plans for a parachute invasion of Malta early this month when 44 planes, among them 30 big troop transports, were announced destroyed in an eight hour British raid on Castelvetrano airdrome in Sicily.

The Libyan battle was an acute supply problem for both sides. The British were dependent largely on sea borne supplies from Alexandria routed to the Libyan ports of Tobruk and Derna. The German air force bombed those ports relentlessly, presumably from bases in Crete.

The RAF similarly hammered the axis port of Tripoli from Malta, and also ships trying to dash across the narrow stretch.

British Admit a Difficult Job.

The British also acknowledged that axis planes were stepping up their activities at El Agheila to protect Gen. Rommel's troops entrenched in a series of hills.

"It will be a very, very difficult job trying to outflank the new axis line," a military source conceded.

The RAF dumped heavy explosives on trucks and supply depots at El Agheila, and machine gunned ground troops.

Far to the British rear a strong axis contingent still held out on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier at Halfaya [Hellfire] pass. These troops were under bombardment by British artillery, the British navy, and the RAF.

CHARGES BRITAIN REJECTED CHINA'S HELP IN MALAYA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Reports that British authorities rejected an offer by Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to help defend Malaya will be raised in the house of lords when parliament reassembles. Lord Strabolgi, Laborite, it was announced today, will ask the government whether "its attention has been called to the statement in Chinese newspapers that the offer of Chinese troops for the defense of Malaya, made by Chiang Kai-shek, was not accepted."

British Conduct of War Hit.

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Chinese press declared today that the western Pacific situation allowed of no optimism and turned severe criticism upon the conduct of the war.

"British authorities in Malaya have shown themselves wanting in both vision and determination," was the blunt assertion of the Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao.

SOUTH AFRICANS FACE NAZI 'BAG OF TRICKS' AT 'HELLFIRE PASS'

WITH THE SOUTH AFRICAN ARMY AT SOLLUM, Jan. 13 [Delayed], (AP).—Lean and hungry Germans straggled out of the sunless caverns of the rocky Sollum escarpment in surrender today to give the British additional hope that the adjacent axis strongpoint on the Egyptian frontier—Halfaya [Hellfire pass]—might give up without too tough a battle. Halfaya lies smash across the British line of supplies to the El Agheila front over 300 miles westward, and it requires nearly a 100 mile tortuous desert detour to get around it.

During the 10 months since the Germans took Halfaya from the British in the precipitous retreat of last spring they have converted the whole area into a fortress of Gibraltar-like qualities, the South Africans discovered in the taking of Sollum. With rock drills they have interconnected the caves around the coastline. Barely would the South Africans drive them from one cave than they would bob up from another.

The Germans driven from a trench cut in a steep, rocky slope took refuge in a cave immediately below. From there they threw hand grenades back up over the roof of the cave. They were attached to measured strings which dropped them exactly into the trench just occupied by the South Africans.

HISTORIC MALTA MADE POWERFUL FORT BY NATURE

Island's Caverns Become Air Shelters.

Subjected to increasingly heavy air raids, Britain's Mediterranean bastion, the Island of Malta, with an area of 91 square miles and population of 262,000, is looked upon as the newest target for a possible axis invasion such as captured Crete. Malta has been a British possession since 1814.

Located in the narrow passage between Sicily and North Africa, the big British naval base is strategically important and formidable, altho development of bombing planes has made it dangerously liable to attack.

Despite the heavy raids, casualties on the island have been comparatively light, since every one on Malta is within two minutes of a rock shelter. The island is honeycombed with yawning subterranean labyrinths which make it a natural air raid shelter.

Powerfully Defended.

Naturally fortified by nature, Malta's defenses have been given sharp man made teeth. Hidden guns, electrically controled sea mines, and cleverly concealed squads of machine gunners guard the island.

The 9.2 inch guns mounted in Malta during the World war have been replaced by batteries so powerful that they shake windows 12 miles away when fired. Electrified barbed wire girds the vital points of the defense system; anti-aircraft batteries have been scattered thruout the island, and submarine nets have been stretched across the main harbors. Added to these are secret defenses.

Untold supplies of food and munitions have been sealed in the countless caverns of the fortress, while other underground chambers have been turned into air and gas raid shelters.

Has Many Deep Harbors.

In addition to its strategic location, Malta's value as a naval base lies in the island's many deep harbors. As the National Geographic society puts it, "Malta's deep, rock sheltered harbors were built for a modern fleet eons of years before man dreamed of floating one. The island's military importance is symbolized by a built-in battleship. A rocky headland and its crowning castle have joined the British navy. This sturdy white fortress is one of five, all formidable, guarding the Grand harbor [at Valletta]. The double bay on Malta's northeast shore is the finest, but the island has half a dozen others."

While erroneously considered only one island, Malta really is a group of five islands. The one which supplies the family name is larger than the others combined. Two are mere rocky slivers used for target practice by the British fleet. The others are Gozo and Comino.

FALLS TO DEATH FROM ROOF.

Bernard Prusener, 64 years old, 4721 North Avers avenue, fell to his death yesterday while preparing a supply of sand on the roof of a building at 72 East Randolph street. The sand was to be used in case of an air raid.

command of all naval operations, which was not enjoyed by his predecessors.

More Than Stark Could Do.

"This is not indicative of a lack of confidence in Adm. Stark," Knox said. "Adm. Stark's job got to be more than one man could humanly do. We had to divide the responsibilities."

Adm. King's predecessor as commander in chief of the fleet, Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, was removed from command after suffering the greatest defeat ever inflicted on the American navy.

"It is just a division of duties," Knox continued. "It makes it possible for Adm. King to take over the job of operating a fleet at sea. Adm. Stark will be able to devote his time to logistics, administration, and long range planning."

Naval officers later attempted to explain the secretary's remarks. They said he did not mean to infer that Stark will take over the functions of bureaus interested in logistics—a military term for transportation and supply—or war planning from King and other members of the high command.

Rules All Combat Units.

As the navy reorganization plan was unfolded at the department, it appeared that King will take over all duties which relate to the nation's fleets and other combat units afloat.

It was said that the division of ship movements, the intelligence division, inspection division, division of fleet training, division of fleet maintenance and the war plans divisions will function under King. That portion of the naval districts division which handles naval coastal frontier forces also is expected to go to Adm. King.

The naval communications division, the naval reserve policy division, the interdepartmental communication liaison division, and other lesser units will remain under Adm. Stark.

FREE POLICEMAN IN GUN DEATH OF FLEEING SOLDIER

Mount Holly, N. J., Jan. 14 [Special].—John J. McHugh, 33 year old member of the Lansdowne [Pa.] police force, was acquitted tonight of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of one of three soldiers who had escaped from the guard house at Fort Dix last Aug. 22.

The victim of the shooting was Private Theodore A. Mazur, 23 years old, of Passaic, N. J., a member of the 113th infantry of the federalized National Guard.

McHugh was on vacation at Brown Mills, N. J., scene of the shooting. He testified that he offered his services to military police from Fort Dix who were searching for three escaped prisoners. His offer was accepted. He encountered the three, he testified, but Mazur and one of the others fled. McHugh said he called on them to halt, and when they did not, he fired five shots. He insisted he had not fired at them, but that one of the bullets ricochetted, entering Mazur's heart thru his back.

New British Consul Here Greeted by Old Friends

Chicago friends renewed old ties with Wilfred H. Gallienne, new British consul in Chicago, at a tea yesterday. He was transferred here from New York about two weeks ago and will serve under the British consul general, Lewis Bernays. Consul Gallienne, a wounded veteran of the World war, served in the British consulate in Chicago for four years in the late '20s. He now succeeds Consul Robert Ross, who was assigned to Iceland.

KELLY BLOCKED IN MOVE TO CURB LAKE POLLUTION

Other Mayors Fight Greater Diversion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago sought unsuccessfully today to get the United States conference of mayors to aid his city in protecting the source of its drinking water. The move was opposed by Mayor Carl F. Zeidler of Milwaukee, Wis., and by mayors of other Great Lakes cities that have been the historical opponents to Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

Kelly's resolution asked the government to abate the pollution of lakes and streams by armament industries. Zeidler said it was a veiled attempt by Chicago to get permission to violate the United States Supreme court edict limiting the diversion from Lake Michigan by the Chicago sanitary district.

Motive Is to Guard Health.

"My motive," Mayor Kelly retorted, "is to protect the health of the second largest city in the United States. I also want to protect the health of the industrial workers of the Chicago metropolitan area who are producing vital materials for America's war effort. You can't attack those motives."

Zeidler replied that Kelly was attempting to abuse the purpose for which the conference had been called to consider war problems common to all cities. The Milwaukeean succeeded in attaching an amendment to the pollution resolution saying that it should not apply to any change in the level of the great lakes. In this form it was passed.

Pollution Growing Worse.

Oscar Hewitt, Chicago commissioner of public works, said his mayor is much concerned by an increase in the pollution of Lake Michigan by the industries on the south end of the lake.

"These industries, as you know," said the commissioner, "have been expanded tremendously in the last year. They are being enlarged even more. Their contamination of the lake is approximately in proportion to their size. It was bad when they were comparatively inactive; it's worse now; and it will be still worse unless remedial measures are taken. The federal government has jurisdiction."

HONOLULU HAS AIR RAID WARNING 16 MINUTES LONG

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 14 (AP).—An air raid alarm at 11:42 a. m. [4:12 p. m. Chicago time] today alerted the Island of Oahu but the all clear signal sounded 16 minutes later. The entire island sprang into action as the sirens wailed and army fighter planes streaked out to sea. No planes were sighted over Honolulu.

Police halted all except military traffic. Many civilians dove into self-constructed shelters at their homes. Employés in downtown buildings went to basements.

Today's alarm was the first of the new year for Oahu Island, on which Pearl Harbor, scene of Japan's surprise attack Dec. 7, is located.

VALUES STOLEN PROPERTY AT $360.

Jewelry, clothing and household items valued at $360 were stolen from the room of Richard Goode at 26 East Huron street, he told police yesterday.

Periled by Fire

Tuffy, a dog, was credited yesterday with saving the lives of several persons when fire started in the home of Christopher Eck at 6918 Windsor avenue, Berwyn. Tuffy's barking awakened Eck's wife, Anna, and she and her husband rushed outside.

Eck raised a ladder to a rear window of the one and one-half story frame residence, and his daughters, Patsy, 12 years old, and Mrs. Anita Burns, escaped down the ladder, as did Mrs. Burns' husband, Albert John Burns, who carried his son, James Robert, 3, to safety.

Meanwhile Christopher Eck's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alvin Eck, and her two children, Alvin Jr., 2, and Melvin, 14, had been forced to crawl onto the roof to escape the spreading flames. Firemen rescued them. The blaze, which caused damage estimated at $1,500 to $2,000, was believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the pantry.

CHINESE ASSAIL KNOX SPEECH AS PERIL TO UNITY

New York, Jan. 14 [Special]—Sixteen Chinese organizations in this city today denounced Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox for his statement of Monday that Hitler must be defeated first and that full scale action by the United States fleet against Japan in the Pacific can not be expected in the near future.

They begged President Roosevelt, in a telegram sent last night, not to commit "disastrous blunders" by committing the government to such a policy. Reproaching us for selling oil to Japan in the past, they warned there is "a limit to Chinese patience."

"Nothing will so destroy the spirit of unity of America and China as to say on America's part that our great enemy is not Japan."

NAVY'S ONE MAN CENSORSHIP HIT BY SEN. WHEELER

Flays Knox for Treating People as Children.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 14.—Sharp criticism of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox for withholding news of war effort and for not giving people all of the facts of Pearl Harbor was made here today by United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.].

"The American people are not children," Sen. Wheeler said, "and if they are given all the facts they can be depended upon to do their share."

Sen. Wheeler also said that the United States had given away so much of its war material under the lend-lease bill it suffered a shortage of equipment to defend its own possessions in the Pacific.

On Visit to Daughter.

Sen. Wheeler was interviewed while here to visit his daughter, Mrs. Edwin W. Colman, 4059 North Richland court. Sen. Wheeler was one of the nation's leading opponents to entering the European war. Now that the United States is at war the senator has pledged his full support.

"Whatever was right and whoever was wrong before we got in," he said, "we now must do everything we can to win it. We will win the war, altho I fear it will be a long war, unless there is an internal collapse in Germany much earlier than our military experts expect.

"Support of the war does not mean there must be no criticism of our domestic policy or of the conduct of the war. There are some people in Washington who seem to believe the American people are not to be trusted with the facts concerning their own efforts.

Raps Knox 'Ballyhoo.'

"This has been particularly true of Secretary Knox. He has sought to impose undue censorship on the press while at the same time he has been writing for magazines and ballyhooing from one end of the country to the other that our navy was ready to fight all over the world.

"Secretary Knox said the reason we could not do anything more in the Pacific was that our navy was needed to protect us in the Atlantic.

"The reason we cannot do more in the Pacific is that our navy was badly damaged. Secondly, some one was asleep. The army and navy officers are being criticized, and justly. In view of our ultimatum to Japan, the secretaries of war and navy should have ordered the men in the field to be on the alert."

Wants Strength in Pacific.

Sen. Wheeler said he agreed with Sen. Tom Connally of Texas that the United States should not concentrate all its navy and air force in the Atlantic.

"Our own navy should be taken from the Atlantic in sufficient force to protect us in the Pacific," he said. "We had been told we were dependent on the British navy. Secondly, if it is as strong as we have been told, it ought to be able to take care of the Atlantic while we use a part of our fleet that has not been destroyed to defend our possessions in the Pacific."

In blaming the lend-lease program for the shortage of equipment in the Pacific, Sen. Wheeler is repeating warnings he gave before the attack at Pearl Harbor.

Cites Equipment Shortage.

"Before our involvment in the war, I said that we did not have tanks, bombers, fighting planes, anti-aircraft guns, powder, or explosives because we had given everything away under lend-lease. When some of the senators were talking about licking Japan in three weeks, I ridiculed the idea.

"What we had in Hawaii was to a large extent destroyed by the Japs. It was because of this destruction that we could not go to the aid of the gallant marines at Wake Island, or of brave Gen. [Douglas] MacArthur's troops in the Philippines.

Had Plenty of Money.

"Our lack of preparation in this country is not because our congress has not voted the money, because I and every other so called isolationist congressman voted for every appropriation the administration asked—and in some cases I voted to increase appropriations since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

"The brief history of this war already has shown what I have believed for a long time; that instead of spending hundreds of millions of dollars on battleships, this country should have been concentrating on making its air force the strongest in the world."

FIRST SETTLER'S SON DIES.

Cambridge, Ill., Jan. 14 [Special].—William A. Weeks, 76 years old, whose father, John Weeks, was the first settler at Washington, Ill., died here yesterday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. K. Danforth, wife of the Henry county farm advisor.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

15 NEW GENERALS NAMED, 5 OTHERS RAISED A GRADE

New Air Chief in Hawaii Among Those Promoted.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—A promotion list giving the army 15 new brigadier generals, and advancing five brigadiers to the rank of major general, was sent by President Roosevelt today to the senate for confirmation.

Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker of Pawhuska, Okla., named to command the army air forces in Hawaii, in the shakeup which followed the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, was one of those advanced to major general.

Also promoted was Brig. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney of Emporium, Pa., the only active officer on the special commission appointed by the President to investigate the Pearl Harbor attack and fix responsibility for American unreadiness.

Decorated for War Services.

Brigadier Generals Fred C. Wallace, who was born at McMinnville, Tenn., and Fred L. Walker, a native of Fairfield county, Ohio, were promoted to major generals.

Wallace, a field artillery officer who received the Distinguished Service Medal for World war services, commands the 4th division at Fort Benning, Georgia. He is a former executive officer to the chief of field artillery.

Walker, an infantry man, commands the 2d division at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. A former commander of the 15th infantry, he more recently was on the staff of the 2d army at Memphis, Tenn., and at one time was an instructor at the Army War college. For heroism in France, where he commanded a front line battalion on the Marne, he received the Distinguished Service Cross.

Called from Retirement.

Brig. Gen. Lorenzo D. Gasser, also moved up to major general, was retired in 1940 after a brief tour as acting deputy chief of staff, but returned to active duty last year as war department representative with the Office of Civilian Defense.

An infantry officer, Gasser commanded the 16th brigade for a year and later was assistant chief of staff for personnel. His home is at Tiffin, O.

Among the colonels nominated for promotion to brigadier general are Robert S. Olds of Washington, D. C., who heads the air corps ferrying command, and Charles L. Bolte of Chicago.

ATTORNEY DAVIS DIRECTS DEFENSE SPEAKER BUREAU

Philip R. Davis, a Chicago attorney, was named director of the speakers' bureau of the Illinois State Council of Defense by Gov. Green yesterday. He also will serve in an advisory capacity in other matters. Davis said speakers would be available for any group in the state to explain the civilian defense organization. He asked experienced public speakers to volunteer their services for the speakers' bureau.

CENSOR EXPLAINS WHAT 'YOU CAN'T PRINT'—AND WHY

Admittedly Puts Check on Editorial Initiative.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—The Office of Censorship today announced a code of wartime practices for newspapers, magazines and other publications, designed to withhold information of military value from the enemy until officially released.

It was acknowledged that the code will circumscribe reportorial enterprise and withhold information from the public on the conduct of the war, but it was insisted that there will be no complete blackout of news or editorials.

The code was drafted by Byron Price, chief censor, and J. H. Sorrells, assistant director of the Office of Censorship, in response to requests that press practices which the government believes desirable for effective prosecution of the war be listed.

Editor Group to Enforce It.

The administration of the code will be placed in the hands of a small board of editors and an advisory council of the publishing industry, it was said. The groups will be named within a few days.

A number of papers and individuals have been called upon to explain the printing of certain stories, considered as having revealed information to the enemy. No Tribune story has been so questioned by the army or navy. In each case the paper or individual expressed regret and promised to guard against any similar action in the future.

In a statement accompanying the release of the code, Director Price said it is essential that certain basic facts be understood.

Explains Why Censorship.

"The first of these facts is that the outcome of the war is a matter of vital personal concern to the future of every American citizen," he said. "The second is that the security of our armed forces and even of our homes and our liberties will be weakened in greater or less degree by every disclosure of information which will help the enemy.

"If every member of every news staff and contributing writer will keep these two facts constantly in mind, and then will follow the dictates of common sense, he will be able to answer for himself many of the questions which might otherwise trouble him. In other words, a maximum of accomplishment will be attained if editors will ask themselves with respect to any given detail. "Is this information I would like to have if I were the enemy?' and then act accordingly.

Among restrictions imposed are the following:

TROOPS—General character and movements of United States army units, within or without the continental limits of the United States; their location, identity or exact composition, equipment or strength, destination, routes and schedules, assembly for embarkation, prospective or actual embarkation. Any such information regarding troops of friendly nations on American soil. The request regarding location and general character does not apply to troops in training camps in continental United States nor to units assigned to domestic police duty.

Letters to newspaper editors, interviews with men on leave, columns, advertising matter, etc., both as to text and illustration, which will reveal any information ordered withheld.

SHIPS—Location, movements, and identity of naval and merchant vessels of the United States, and other nations opposing the axis powers, in any waters.

PLANES — Disposition, movements, and strength of army or navy air units.

PRODUCTION—Any specific information about war contracts, estimated supplies of strategic and critical materials available, sites and factories already in existence or anything, other than that readily gained thru observation by general public, concerning sites and factories to be established.

WEATHER—Forecasts other than officially issued by weather bureau; routine forecasts printed by any single newspaper to cover only the state in which it is published and not more than four adjoining states, portions of which lie within a radius of 150 miles from point of publication; greatly restricted weather tables.

CASUALTY LISTS—Specific military and naval units and exact locations are not to be mentioned but there is no objection to publication of information about casualties from a newspaper's local field obtained from nearest of kin.

CHOICE OF NELSON AS ARMS 'CZAR' PLEASES CAPITAL

Some Fear F.D.R. Will Not Give Him Free Hand.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—President Roosevelt's selection of Donald M. Nelson to exercise one-man control over production and procurement of war materials for the United States and allied nations fighting the axis powers received general approval in congress today.

Many members, however—among them Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.]—expressed doubt that the President will relinquish enough of his own power to give Nelson the freedom of action he should have to expedite the lagging arms production program.

While there was some disappointment in congress that the President selected a man who has been so prominently associated with the Supply, Priorities, and Allocations board and the Office of Production Management—both recognized failures—those who voiced such criticism acknowledged that Nelson heretofore has not had adequate authority.

Justice Douglas Sidetracked.

It developed today that the President had seriously considered naming a war production czar who would have been far less acceptable to congress than Nelson—Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court. The President, it was learned, was dissuaded from appointing Douglas by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Lord Beaverbrook, British supply minister.

Churchill and Lord Beaverbrook called Douglas to the White House and interrogated him searchingly. Then they informed Mr. Roosevelt that Douglas, tho a bright and charming young man, obviously lacks the experience to qualify him for such a tremendous responsibility.

Presumably Churchill and Beaverbrook approved the choice of Nelson, with whom they conferred repeatedly on American production problems.

Willkie Blast Forestalled.

It also transpired that Mr. Roosevelt's announcement of the Nelson appointment was made prematurely, before his proposed status and powers actually had been determined, in order to forestall a blast against the OPM by Wendell Willkie at a meeting of the United States conference of mayors in Washington last night.

The 1940 Republican Presidential candidate conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House yesterday afternoon, but was told nothing about the proposed selection of Nelson to boss the arms production program. Willkie had distributed advance copies of a speech criticising "debating society" methods and demanding one-man control of the armament program. This part of his speech was eliminated after the White House announced the proposed Nelson appointment.

Only One Task, Says Nelson.

The only public word from Nelson today was a brief letter which he wrote to William S. Knudsen, director general of the OPM; James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, and Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war.

"We have just one job to do—to make enough war material to lick Hitler and the Japs, and to do it in the shortest possible time," Nelson wrote. "Any organization changes that have to be made in order to do this job will be made. The present organization must and will evolve into the most effective possible instrument to do it. Every one connected with production and procurement, in all agencies of the government, must carry on with the utmost devotion and energy."

Ferdinand the Bull arrived in Chicago today with its owner, Herman Mosely, for an appearance in the Wild West Rodeo and Hollywood Thrill Circus opening at the International amphitheater Sunday. Ferdinand, said to be the only trained bull in America, swished his tail and rolled his fascinating eyes at the pretty cowgirls who sprayed him with cologne and held a sweet bouquet to his nose.

"Altho Ferdinand doesn't like to fight," says Mosely, "he weighs 1,800 pounds and he's strong as a bull."

HENDERSON SAYS PRICE INFLATION MEANS 'SUICIDE'

Tells Mayors War Costs Would Skyrocket.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today joined the administration attack on price control legislation passed by the senate by declaring such a measure if finally enacted would lead to national suicide thru inflation.

The United States is better off today than it would be under the legislation, Henderson told the United States Conference of Mayors. Critics of the bill as passed by the senate have declared that it would permit further boosts averaging 25 per cent in farm prices, bringing sharp increases in the cost of foodstuffs which already have risen an average of 57 per cent since World war II. began.

"Automatic Escalator."

Henderson told the mayors that the O'Mahoney amendment is an "automatic escalator" which would permit milk prices to jump 40 per cent, beef 20 per cent, and lamb 28 per cent before price ceiling could be imposed.

The nation already has lost 13 billion dollars as a result of price increases since the defense program first got under way, Henderson asserted. At this rate of increase the war production program will cost 67 billion dollars more than planned, he added.

Henderson said that general wage increases of approximately 10 per cent last spring have been "entirely eaten up" by higher costs of living and that he was "really scared" by the O'Mahoney amendment.

After Henderson's remarks the mayors adopted a resolution protesting adoption of the senate bill in its present form. The house bill also would permit rises in prices of farm commodities, but not as steeply as the senate version.

Larger Production Speedup.

Earlier, Associate Director General Sidney Hillman of the Office of Production Management told the conference that the 1942 war production program must be completed at least one month ahead of schedule, or by Dec. 1 of this year.

"We have only begun to grasp the magnitude of the task that lies before us," Hillman said. "We are facing ing the biggest production program ever assumed by any people in the history of war or peace. It will cost billions of dollars; it will chew up great chunks of raw materials, and it will call for countless tools and machines."

Five million workers were engaged in war production by December, 1941, and at least another 10 million must be added this year, he said.

The conference adopted a resolution opposing the administration's proposals for federal taxation of state and municipal obligations. Such taxes would produce little revenue and only serve to "irritate and disturb" the war effort, the resolution said. Another resolution urged the federal government to eliminate or minimize pollution of lake and stream waters, altho it stated specifically this was not meant to imply any change in the water level of the Great Lakes.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO SURRENDER SOME ROUTINE FUNCTIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special].—Two messages sent to congress today by President Roosevelt asked procedural simplifications involving surrender to the executive branch of functions hitherto exercised by congress.

In one message the President asked that the secretary of war be given authority to pass on applications for construction of bridges affecting navigation. Currently congress must pass a bill authorizing each bridge.

In the other message the chief executive questioned the wisdom of present procedure in enacting claims bills, pointing out that the cost of legislation often exceeded amounts claimed. He proposed that executive departments and independent establishments be authorized to adjust and determine tort claims up to $1,000, with review by the attorney general of awards exceeding $500.

NEW CAR BUYERS AS OF JAN. 2 TO GET DELIVERIES

Henderson Starts Ration Program Feb. 2.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Persons who purchased new cars on or before Jan. 2 but were unable to get them because of the freezing of stocks, will be permitted delivery of cars in the dealers' hands, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today.

Henderson, appearing before the house small business committee, disclosed plans for rationing the 550,000 new cars expected to be on hand before their production ceases Feb. 1 and rationing begins Feb. 2. He also discussed the rationing of tires, warning the driving public to "conserve your tires as if they were gold. You may not get any rubber until the war is ended."

Radio Curtailment Seen.

Meanwhile it was reliably reported that the OPM soon will issue orders curtailing civilian radio production by as much as 30 per cent, and imposing further restrictions on private home construction. Officials admitted both orders are under discussion, but said no figure has been decided on radio production cuts.

The possibility was foreseen that radio production for civilians later might be stopped completely because it requires critical materials. This is not expected to affect their use much, however, because an estimated 57 million sets already are in private homes and large stocks are held by dealers. The housing order would limit the amount of metal available for private housing.

Freeze 130,000 New Cars.

Between 130,000 and 140,000 new automobiles are to be frozen in dealers' storage houses for a year as a reserve for replacements for the military and for the most urgent civilian requirements such as public health and public safety, Henderson revealed.

No new cars can be made after Feb. 1 for the duration of the war, even if the American navy is able to clear the sea lanes for imports from the western Pacific, Henderson said, because the full energies of the motor plants are required for arms production and because of shortages in certain metals.

List Eligible Buyers.

Preliminary information on the auto rationing order covered the following points:

1. A list of eligible buyers will be established including [a] physicians, surgeons, visiting nurses, and farm veterinarians; [b] persons engaged in fire fighting, crime prevention or detection, enforcement of laws relating to the protection of public health and safety, and the transportation of mail; [c] persons who had purchased as of Jan. 2 new cars then in dealers' hands but who had not been able to get delivery on that date.

2. Such buyers, including government agencies needing cars for the purposes listed, will have to secure certificates from local rationing boards permitting them to make purchases. It is hoped that government agencies falling within the eligible classes will anticipate their new car needs for some months hence, thus tending to move the vehicles out of dealers' hands quickly. In this connection the rationing boards will probably be instructed to give consideration to future as well as present needs of such governmental agencies in issuing certificates.

Some Purchasers Exempt.

3. In addition there will be certain "exempt" categories of purchasers who will not have to secure certificates in order to buy new automobiles, but who will be required to supply information as to the use of the vehicle. These will include automobile dealers buying new cars for resale to certified purchasers; the following government agencies: the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the army and navy, the Maritime commission, the Panama canal, the coast and geodetic survey, the coast guard, the Civilian Aeronautic authority, the National Advisory Commission for Aeronautics, and the Office of Scientific Research and Development; purchases for foreign governments under the lend-lease act, and the holders of certain high priority ratings.

Henderson said a maximum price was to be fixed on these new cars. This will include a dealer's profit and compensation for freight and storage charges. With this revenue and with revenue from replacement parts, the administrator said it was hoped that a large portion of the 44,000 dealers would be able to stay in business for service maintenance of the 28 million motor vehicles now on the streets. Other dealers will be helped in liquidating with a minimum loss.

Used Car Rationing in Doubt.

"Do you plan to ration used cars?" a congressman asked.

"I don't like to say 'no' because if it becomes necessary later my answer might be interpreted as bad faith," Henderson replied. "It hasn't been necessary in England, or even in Germany, altho Lord Beaverbrook told me that private car operation in England has dropped to 3½ per cent of peace times, and further restrictions are planned.

"Are you going to fix prices on used cars?"

"If it becomes necessary, yes. We have the price schedule on ice."

"Is there any plan to confiscate privately owned passenger automobiles?"

"No," he replied. "I've been widely misunderstood on that point. Of course, if military or civilian necessity called for more vehicles and there was no other source—but our plans are designed to avoid commandeering."

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

Eight hundred young men will be graduated from the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school in Abbott hall tomorrow. They will be commissioned as ensigns and assigned to active duty with the fleets.

On Jan. 22 a new class of 900 men will go into training at the hall, located on the downtown campus of Northwestern university. Next May 1,250 more midshipmen will begin training there, and next September another 1,250. Applicants for the two latter classes now are being accepted at the naval reserve procurement agency in the Naval Reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street.

Qualifications Listed.

To qualify for admittance, an applicant must be native born, unmarried, and between the ages of 19 and 28. He must be in good physical condition, have 18/20 vision in either eye, and be not less than 5 feet 5½ inches tall.

Educational requirements are that the applicant have a degree from an accredited university or college, and that his college courses include at least two one-semester courses in mathematics of college grade. In addition, he must prove that he has taken a course in plane trigonometry, either in high school or college.

Young men accepted for training will serve one month as apprentice seamen, probably at Great Lakes, learning the rudiments of navy service. Then follows three months as midshipmen at Abbott hall, then an ensign's commission and active service.

College Degree Required.

Only college graduates are now being accepted for training. However, college juniors and seniors may be enlisted prior to graduation providing that they can show they will have the necessary educational requirements upon graduation. They will be kept on inactive duty until they complete their college work, then placed in the midshipmen's school.

Abbott hall is one of two such reserve midshipmen's schools in the United States. The other is aboard the U. S. S. Prairie State, docked at New York City.

QUESTIONS.

T. W. T. writes: "I want to enlist in the air corps as a mechanic. What are the qualifications?"

ANSWER: You must have at least a grammar school education, be between the ages of 18 and 35, and be able to pass the army physical examination. After you are enlisted in the air corps a classification officer will interview you and determine whether you are best qualified to be a mechanic or whether you are better fitted for other duties.

S. I. writes: "Chaplains in the army are commissioned as lieutenants, captains, etc. But, in addressing them, do you use their military title or just how do you do it?"

ANSWER: Chaplains are addressed as "Chaplain" regardless of their commissioned rank. It is wrong to address them as "Lieutenant" or "Captain." A Catholic chaplain may be addressed as "Father."

Mrs. F. J. writes: "My husband is a Swedish alien, a bricklayer. Would he be allowed to work on one of the defense plants the government is building?"

ANSWER: Practically every one of the congressional bills appropriating funds for such construction specify that no aliens be employed in the work. This would make it impossible for your husband to get a job on such a project.

E. S. writes: "I understand that 10,000 selective service draftees are to be transferred to the marine corps. How can I apply for service in the marines instead of going into the army?"

ANSWER: Both army and marine corps officials state that there is no truth to the report that any draftees will be assigned to the marine corps. The corps depends entirely upon volunteers to fill its needs. I suggest that, if you would rather serve with the marines than be drafted into the army, you apply for enlistment immediately at the marine corps recruiting office on the seventh floor of the United States courthouse, 219 South Clark street.

FEMALE FIGURE FACING FATE OF BROADER BEAM

American womanhood is likely to be a bit broader aft for the duration of the rubber conservation program. This became apparent yesterday as government rubber conservation and tire experts discussed rulings for the war problems school of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Stevens hotel.

Unless the Office of Production Management relents and changes the present status before the supply is exhausted, there apparently will be no girdles, foundation garments, or other female gadgets. There also may be some trouble in keeping stockings rigged at the proper altitude.

These and more weighty matters were mulled yesterday while Association of Commerce members questioned A. O. Teckemeyer, rubber specialist in the Chicago office of OPM; John F. Manierre and Thomas Fairchild, attorneys for the Office of Price administration.

It was brought out that until otherwise ordered no person is to consume, use, process, stamp, cut, or in any manner change form, shape, or chemical compound of any rubber except in cases specifically provided.

Pratt and Whitney Plane Plant Blast Kills Three

East Hartford, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP).—Three men died tonight of burns suffered in an explosion and fire at the United Aircraft corporation's Pratt and Whitney plant in which six other men were injured. The dead were Raymond Hatch Jr., 18, of Simsbury, and Alfred Di Baco and Joseph Blanchaud, both of Hartford. Officials of the huge airplane engine factory said the blast, which occurred shortly before noon, was accidental, and that no question of sabotage was involved.

Locomotive Overturns as Two Freights Collide

The locomotive of a Monon railroad freight train was overturned into a 12 foot ditch at Dyer, Ind., yesterday after a rear end collision with another freight train. The engineer, J. R. Tyner, of Lafayette, and his firemen, who went over with the locomotive, were uninjured. A brakeman who leaped from the caboose of the first train also was unhurt.

LA GUARDIA PUTS MILK AND BOMBS AMONG OCD WOES

N. Y. Mayor Gets Control of Defense Fund.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14. — The house committee investigating migration of national defense workers heard a long recital today of the woes besetting the Office of Civilian Defense since its inception and grim warnings of what the war's aftermath may mean to the economic life of this country.

The witnesses included Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, director of the OCD; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President and assistant OCD director, and James M. Landis, New Deal braintruster and newly appointed executive of civilian defense activities.

S. R. O. Sign is Out.

Their appearance had been widely heralded and the chamber was filled. The nutritive value of skimmed milk, the duty on 2,000 incendiary bombs imported from Great Britain for air raid wardens to practice with, living conditions in the capital and the effect of national defense when a child obediently drinks his breakfast milk were among the variety of facts brought before the committee during the lengthy session.

Their connection with migratory problems was not always clear but in the case of Mrs. Roosevelt, at least, John H. Tolan [D., Cal.], committee chairman, left no doubt as to her qualifications to appear before the committee. He referred to her numerous trips across the country and told her she has been termed America's migrant No. 1.

Great Lakes Area Peril.

The committee also heard the following:

1. A declaration by La Guardia that cities in the Great Lakes region may be in danger of sporadic air raids because of their industrial character.

2. Criticism by the New York mayor of the selective service system for its failure to utilize men of military age, despite slight physical defects, as well as his recommendations for a broader deferment basis for agricultural workers needed in providing food for the allies.

3. La Guardia's admission that, as has been charged in congress, the dual rôle of mayor of New York and director of the OCD is a heavy responsibility for one man.

4. Mrs. Roosevelt joined with La Guardia in attacking a proposal to shift direction of the OCD to the war department which was recommended on the house floor last week.

La Guardia Voted Control.

5. Landis urged uniformity of action for civilian defense workers and maintenance of high standards for each type of activity. In contradiction to La Guardia, he said the administration of the program should be vested in state and local authorities.

Meanwhile, a conference committee of the house and senate met today in connection with the OCD appropriation bill and voted to restore La Guardia's control over the money.

In return for a senate agreement to keep the specific figure of 100 million dollars in the bill, the house conferees receded from their demand that the war department administer the expenditures.

La Guardia said he is waiting for passage of this bill and one other, a measure providing compensation for air raid wardens injured in the line of duty, before deciding about his own future.

"I will either give up as mayor of New York and stay with the OCD or give up OCD and go back to New York where I can criticize everything going on in Washington," he said. "Or I might try to do what I did in the last war if I can get away with it."

In the last World war, La Guardia served overseas as an army aviator.

Mrs. Roosevelt emphasized the importance of nutrition and living conditions on civilian morale. Families or groups of people having a hard time, she explained, get a sense of frustration which depresses civilian morale and leads to too poor production.

THE QUESTION.

What good Samaritan deed have you seen or known of that was unusual?

WHERE ASKED.

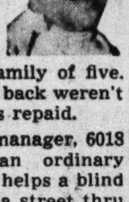
Lawson YMCA, 30 West Chicago avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Ralph O. Majors, pilot, Alliance, O.—I'm sorry I have to go all the way to Peru to recall a deed of that type. I was riding with a truck driver who was taking a trip into the interior when he came upon a native family which seemed to be moving everything and everybody on pack burros. He piled burros and packs and kids into the truck and gave them a 15 mile ride.

Mrs. Robert W. Freeberg, proofreader, 8150 Ellis avenue—There was an old couple in a small town who lived in a very little shack. They never had had electricity or any of the appliances that go with it. Their neighbor, who was only a little better off, had the house wired and gave them a washer and several other electrical appliances.

Reni G. Landuyt, fire marshal, 7241 Prairie avenue—I saw two men take a big chance when they rescued a police dog that had broken thru some thin ice on a river. The dog was exhausted and almost frozen. They bundled him up and took him home and gave him what I bet was the best home he'd ever had.



Russel Cassara, barber, 514 Elm street—Two men who were neighbors had the same kind of a job: just good hard labor. One man hurt his leg while he was working and didn't earn a thing for two months and had no reserve. His neighbor took care of all the grocery bills and living expenses of his family of five. His chances of getting it back weren't so big either, but he was repaid.

Louis A. Lauth, sales manager, 6018 Winthrop avenue—If an ordinary pedestrian helps a blind man cross a street thru heavy traffic I think he's doing a rather kind deed. But I once saw an elderly woman who could have used some help herself take hold of the blind man's arm and safely lead him across the street.

Alfred F. Branon, salesman, 8029 Lowell avenue, Skokie—In one of my cross-country trips from Georgia I saw an old dilapidated car from Oklahoma bang into a nice new shiny car and dent it up. When the driver of the new car jumped out I thought he was going to tell the other man what he thought of him. Instead he handed him a $5 bill and told him to fix up his brakes.

SURVEY PREDICTS CHANGE IN U. S. AFTER THE WAR

F. D. R. Board Planning Post-War America.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—After the war—what?

An attempt to answer this question, so far as the United States is concerned, was made in an 85,000 word report by the National Resources Planning board which was transmitted to congress by President Roosevelt today.

The outstanding decision of the board was that this nation will never again be the America which existed before the Japanese attack on last Dec. 7. While insisting that broader freedoms than ever before will be awarded the people, the report stated flatly:

"We are not going back to the status quo. . . . One of the few certainties in the world is inevitable change."

Communistic Trend Seen.

The planners of postwar America, headed by Frederic A. Delano, relative of the President, steered carefully away from a mention of any change in our form of government. The report stressed that a totalitarian state was not desired. But some pessimists in congress professed to read between the lines of the statement a trend toward communism.

"We do not want the government to run the whole show," the report declared in outlining expansive "new freedoms" which should be enjoyed by the people after the war. "We do not want a totalitarian state."

Nine Freedoms for All.

These new freedoms which the board proposes to give to the nation after the war are an expansion of the four freedoms which Mr. Roosevelt guaranteed to the world in the "Atlantic charter." Nine in number, they are:

1. The right to work, usefully and creatively, thru the productive years;

2. The right to fair pay, adequate to command the necessities and amenities of life in exchange for work, ideas, thrift, and other socially valuable service;

3. The right to adequate food, clothing, shelter, and medical care;

4. The right to security, with freedom from fear of old age, want, dependency, sickness, unemployment, and accident;

5. The right to live in a system of free enterprise; free from compulsory labor, irresponsible private power, arbitrary public authority, and unregulated monopolies;

6. The right to come and go, to speak or to be silent, free from the spyings of secret political police;

7. The right to equality before the law, with equal access to justice in fact;

8. The right to education, for work, for citizenship, and for personal growth and happiness, and

9. The right to rest, recreation, and adventure; the opportunity to enjoy life and take part in an advancing civilization.

Scoffs at Impoverished U. S.

"Every one hears it said," the report proceeded, "that when this war is over, all countries, including our own, will be impoverished. This view is, however, not sustained by past experience. No country need be impoverished if its productive resources [both capital and human] are intact.

"The productive resources of this country will be on a considerably higher plane when this war is over than ever before. A large proportion of our population will be trained to perform skilled and semiskilled jobs. We shall have enormous productive capacities in all the machine industries. And in special consumers' durable industries, where plant and equipment may have become deficient by reason of the war, we shall be able very quickly, with our large basic machine-producing industries, to expand to meet the peacetime requirements."

A higher income than ever achieved before in our history can be produced after the war ends, the report asserted. A postwar boom, such as occurred after the last conflict, is not improbable, it continued.

The great problem faced by the nation when the war ends, the report noted, is the transfer from a system of full employment for defense to a system of full employment for peace without going thru a low employment slump.

The American people will never stand for another postwar depression, the board asserted. And at this point the report took on a tone which led to some congressmen's fear that it favored communistic methods.

"Sooner or later, they [the people] will step in and refuse to let 'matters work themselves out'," the report declared. "In this program [of national planning] the government must take a leading part because . . . it is the one center of responsible coördinating power thru which we can all act together.

"The workers of the United States can produce under a system of full employment 105 to 110 billions' worth of goods and services, once we are organized for it. . . . When we organize for maximum production on the basis of full employment, without being stopped by the costs, we discover, as have other nations, that increased production pays the real costs involved. At last we are beginning to see that finance was made for man and not man for finance. Doing the job pays the bill."

The report discussed a demobilization plan for the army, recommending "dismissal wages" for the troops to enable them to tide over the gap between discharge and the attainment of a civilian job.

Bernard [Knifey] Sawicki, 19 year old slayer of four who is to die in the electric chair early Saturday, met his foster mother, Mrs. Anna Sawicki, in the county jail dispensary, yesterday. Mrs. Sawicki's son, Henry, and a daughter, Jean, accompanied her to see Sawicki, as did the Rev. Leon V. Czyle of the Catholic Youth organization. Mrs. Sawicki wept thruout the interview.

Morton Anderson, assistant public defender, told Sawicki he was "still trying" to obtain a commutation of sentence, but that no word had been received from Gov. Green's office in Springfield.

"Whatever happens, I know you worked hard and I want to thank you very much," Sawicki told Anderson.

800 MIDSHIPMEN BECOME ENSIGNS HERE TOMORROW

The Northwestern university naval reserve midshipmen's school will graduate 800 ensigns, its fifth and largest class, at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Medinah temple, 14 East Ohio street.

After the exercises the newly commissioned officers will receive immediate assignments to active duty with the fleet or at shore stations. Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, will give the commencement address.

Nine hundred men will enter the school Jan. 22. Quotas for succeeding classes will be 1,250 men on May 28, and 1,700 on Sept. 1. The Chicago school is one of two now operated by the navy. The other is aboard the U. S. S. Prairie State in New York City.

Army's Biggest Field Gun Goes Thru City Tomorrow

An army convoy transporting a 240 mm. howitzer, largest field piece in army service, will move thru Chicago's west side streets tomorrow afternoon en route to the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground. The big gun will leave a carriage factory in Milwaukee today and remain overnight at Fort Sheridan. A Friday night stopover is scheduled for Elkhart, Ind. Plans for a public display were canceled by ordnance officials.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1942.

1942 Will Reward Fighters

FIRST THE FIGHTING MEN.

The appointment of Mr. Donald Nelson of Chicago to direct the production and procurement of war materials appears to be an excellent one. Mr. Nelson had high standing as a business executive, and since he has been in Washington has had ample opportunity to demonstrate that he possesses unusual talents. There is every reason to expect that his achievements in bringing order out of chaos will measure up to the country's hopes.

Those who know Mr. Nelson best are confident that he will start with the immense advantage of knowing his rôle and recognizing that it is a subordinate one. It is not his business to run the war but only to manage a subordinate part of it. He and all those who will work under him in Washington and in the factories and mines are the servants, not the masters, of the fighting forces. It is the duty of the procurement staff to find out what the army and navy need and to get it for them as quickly as possible; that and nothing more.

All this Mr. Nelson knows, tho as much cannot be said for a good many others in Washington and elsewhere who are running around in circles playing at war and enjoying every minute of it. Altogether too much attention has been paid to the gyrations of these personages and altogether too little to the desperate situation of our gallant little army in the Philippines. That force is fighting under our flag, for the honor of our country, against overwhelming odds. Our army's plight is as grave as it is because of errors of omission and commission in Washington. What the country now expects of its government is a repentant spirit and evidence of a determination to make amends for its past mistakes and deficiencies.

It is shocking to observe the citizens of this country going about their business and their pleasures apparently unmindful of the soldiers who are dying in the Philippines. Our churches did dedicate a day of prayer to these brave men, but appear to have felt that was enough. It's about time the people of this country began to realize that we are at war, that the war thus far has been going against us, and that all the spiritual and material force we can muster will be needed if we are to have the victory.

THE BRITISH PRESS WAKES UP.

In peace as well as in war British newspapers have generally been amenable to suggestions from official quarters. Thus it was that the British were virtually the last literate people on earth to learn, five years ago, that their king was courting an American woman.

This disposition to print nothing displeasing to those in power had more serious repercussions on the military defense of the British empire than it had on its social system. For years, both before the war and even after the outbreak of hostilities, the most influential portion of the British press minimized or condoned the blunders of the British war office. Disasters were presented to the people almost as victories.

There has been a sharp change, of late, in this attitude. The press in Great Britain is alert. The bad news from Malaya has resulted in sharp criticism of those responsible for the losses there and in demands by the newspapers that matters be set aright.

The American press must learn from the British example that its duty is eternal vigilance. It has a civic duty in time of peace and a patriotic duty in time of war. It is the duty not to condone or console jacks in office, but to expose their shortcomings and demand that they be replaced by competent men.

ROOF OF THE WORLD.

A realization by our military authorities of the importance of the arctic "roof of the world" to provide airways between the United States and Europe and Asia, might revolutionize world military strategy. The potentialities must have occurred to all who studied the arctic map presented in color in Wednesday's Tribune.

At present initiative in the world-wide war largely rests with the axis powers. They hold the initiative because they possess air superiority in theaters relatively close to home. To check our enemies we must have large numbers of fighter aircraft at the front. Americans may feel discouraged when they contemplate the difficulties of crating up aircraft, moving them thousands of miles thru seas which the enemy may command, then assembling the planes, and still expecting that they may get into action while there yet is time.

The roof of the world appears to offer the solution. The planes can be flown from this country across Canada, Alaska, and thence down to Kamchatka in Russia, or into China, by a series of 400 or 500 mile hops, all within the range of a pursuit plane. The same sort of short jump routes lead to European Russia, and thence down to the Black sea, the near east, and the Suez, and North African areas. Big bombers can be flown over these routes in fewer hops, but the principal value will be in ferrying fighter craft, which cannot cross large bodies of water except as freight.

The technical difficulties are less than might be imagined. The bush flyers who operate transport planes to the far north of Canada and Alaska and the engineers who designed the American flying fortress to operate in the extreme cold of the substratosphere have already solved the problems of flight, engine operation, and lubrication in extreme cold. Ferry pilots wearing electrically heated flying clothes and breathing oxygen heated from the exhaust can easily survive the cold.

It was formerly believed that broken ice would prevent landings on the arctic icepack, but this was disproved when Ben Eielson and Hubert Wilkins made several landings on the pack in their flight in 1928 from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen. They reported great fields of ice, as much as 200 miles square, which were as smooth as a billiard table. Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, in a flight in 1927 from Rockford, Ill., landed safely when their fuel was exhausted atop a glacier in Greenland. Hassell said it was the finest landing field he had ever seen.

The principal preparations required to open the routes over the roof of the world for short flights are the development of navigational aids and the establishment of refueling and servicing facilities. Radio directional beams are necessary to guide the flyers to selected bases, and there must be gasoline dumps and ground crews to service the ships. These preparations can be made with little delay.

The German air force, moving as a self-contained unit, has demonstrated that equipment and personnel can be flown into a new area lacking established bases in what is practically an overnight operation. Transport planes have gone ahead, making crash landings where necessary, carrying metal landing mats and small tractors, and in a short time have prepared airports upon which military planes could land.

In the arctic the bases are already there. All that is necessary is to select them at suitable distances and then fly in fuel, lubricants, tools, and ground personnel. In a short time the route over the roof of the world would be in full operation.

THE RUBBER SHORTAGE.

Stories from Singapore in the last two years have told of tremendous amounts of crude rubber at Malayan docks awaiting shipment. The United States government was supposed to have contracted to exchange 690,000 bales of cotton for 85,000 tons of rubber in 1939, and to purchase 150,000 tons in 1940 and 180,000 tons in 1941. If the plans had been carried out, the Reconstruction Finance corporation would have had on hand 415,000 tons. We now have 600,000 tons, according to a statement Monday of Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator. The largest part of this consists of the stocks of rubber of the tire companies. The average annual stocks held by the tire companies for six years before the war started amounted to 300,000 tons, and were above 350,000 in three of those years. Actually, if there had been sufficient alertness to foresee the course of events and enough wisdom to appraise the results of them, the government could have acquired several times 300,000 tons. This rubber here would have accomplished the double purpose of supplying us and denying supplies to Japan.

A principal reason why the stocks of natural rubber are no larger than they are is that during the period when we were free to bring in all the rubber we wanted to the government diverted shipping to other services, in particular in the Atlantic. As indicated by the lend-lease figures so far published, the ships were engaged not so much in carrying weapons of war as in carrying food to England. We are short of rubber because the ships which could have safeguarded our supplies were being used—before Pearl Harbor—to take butter, beans, beef, pork, and lard across the Atlantic, and to bring back Scotch whisky and English china and woolens.

The other possible source of rubber was synthetic substitutes. Some of the largest companies carried on research for years to develop an artificial rubber. When the price of crude was high the experiments were stepped up. Because it had not been found possible to produce a low priced synthetic rubber, the scale of the business remained small. Here was a logical field for government activity, especially if a war was imminent in the far east and adequate supplies of natural rubber were not being acquired.

From time to time it was suggested that the government finance the construction of plants which could, in case of necessity, produce on a large scale. Jesse Jones as federal loan administrator was reluctant to give his consent. After the priorities system was adopted there was a question whether OPM would permit enough steel to be diverted from defense to construct the plants and provide the machinery and tools needed.

It was announced on Monday by Mr. Jones that the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with the approval of the President and OPM, had resolved the question in favor of reducing the quantity of steel for defense in order to provide facilities for making rubber. The synthetic rubber industry is to have a 400 million dollar expansion, which will enable it to turn out 600 thousand tons in 1943. Here is an infant industry for which the war provides protection usually supplied by a tariff.

That is what wars frequently do. American industry received its first great impetus during the Napoleonic wars when European manufacturers were unable to reach the American market with their wares. Something like that may be happening now. At present our manufacturers with the fewest exceptions have no cause to worry about foreign competition. We receive some goods from England, but virtually none from the continent, and of course, none from Japan. No high tariff advocate ever imagined so complete a protection of the American market as the war has afforded.

THE COMFORTE CASE.

Irving Shack, a truck driver for a tobacco company, was slugged last July in connection with the attempt of a labor union of dubious antecedents to organize the employés of the company. He identified as his assailant one Victor Comforte, who already had a considerable record as a racketeer.

Altho Shack repeated his identification on several subsequent occasions, he testified when Comforte was finally brought to trial in the Criminal court that he was not sure of the identification. Judge John F. Haas, with understandable reluctance, dismissed the charges.

The circumstances indicate that what was a case of assault may now have become a case of tampering with the processes of justice. No effort should be spared to find and punish any one who may have influenced Shack to change his story.

SAVING WORDS.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

In these days when so much needs to be saved, from our way of living to waste paper, it would seem that the congress might set a good example by saving words. A case in point is found in the history of the bill to provide safeguards against subversive activities among radio operators—a bill that is now law.

The original house bill, which was an amendment to the communications act of 1934, required eight printed pages and runs to about 1,500 words. Accompanying the bill was a report of nine and a half closely printed pages in which it was pointed out that the framers of the bill had "enjoyed the assistance of representatives of the army, navy, treasury, justice, commerce, and labor departments, the maritime commission and the federal communications commission."

When the bill reached the senate it was referred to the committee of commerce. Sen. Radcliffe rewrote it and his bill has been accepted as satisfactory by the radio operators, the ship companies, and all others concerned. And it was all done in 200 words. Why use 1,500 when 200 will do the job?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

CARGOES FROM THE ORIENT.

The Dutch East Indies, whose rubber and oil are coveted by Japanese imperialism, came into European history as the Spice Islands. When other nations were swashbuckling toward the New World in quest of gold, the navigators of Holland shrewdly voyaged to the far east for spices and showed the greater profit.

* * *

Why an empire was founded on the trade in spices, principally pepper, is something that large-scale historians have not taken the pains to explain. Europe, however, was avid for spices in that period, and cargoes brought fantastic prices. Holland grew rich on the trade. We have invented an explanation that will suit us until some economic historian knocks it into a cocked hat: Europe wanted spices as an aid in preserving its meat supply, especially fish. Note the large array of pickled and spiced fish products that come from Europe today.

* * *

Another vegetable product of the orient that arouses our curiosity is ginseng. It seems to be worth more than its weight in gold to the Chinese. The best ginseng root is grown in Manchuria and Corea, and no doubt the Japanese are making the Chinese pay thru the nose for it. A similar plant grows in this country and in normal times, with export to China an easy matter, a good little ginseng patch was not to be sneezed at as an asset.

* * *

The Chinese use the ginseng root, after careful preparation, as a medicine or tonic. It is believed to restore virility. American science laughs at this Chinese notion and calls it folk-magic. But then, our medical faculties also sneered at the use of powdered toads in Chinese pharmacology until they took the pains, quite recently, to analyze the stuff and found that it contained a powerful heart stimulant.

* * *

Lin Yutang, the Chinese writer who has found many readers in this country, is a firm believer in ginseng. He says in "My Country and My People":

"We discovered the magic tonic and building qualities of ginseng, for which I am willing to give personal testimony as to its being the most enduring and energy-giving tonic known to mankind, distinguished by its slowness and gentleness of action."

TO A WARM FRIEND.

Furnace, O my Furnace,
Be kind to me, I pray!
For an ye fail to serve me now
I perish by the way!
When snow adorns the landscape
As far as eye can see,
Thy livid tongue is all that stands
'Twixt nothingness and me.

O Furnace, haughty Furnace,
I bow before thy might,
And trust that thou wilt persevere
Thru all the doleful night;
I'll feed thee on the purest oils
And harken to thy call,
And in the cellar's dank demesne
Thou shalt be all in all.

O Furnace, cruel Furnace,
When Zero lifts his head,
This time you choose to play me false
And feign that you are dead,
And I must linger frigidly
And send for mighty men
To come and poke you in the ribs
And make you go again.

Where Is the State of Absaroka?

Recently a tanker named Absaroka was sunk off the California coast. When a friend of mine moved into his Highland Park home about a year ago he found in the garage an automobile license plate labeled:

49th—Playground of the Nation—49th. Proposed State of Absaroka. Black Hills, Big Horns, Yellowstone Park.

While this plate is obviously advertising the national parks, it also implies a proposal for a 49th state. W. L. Hudson.

ARTHRITIS DURING THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

FOR some reason, arthritis seems to take delight in attacking women who are going thru the change of life.

As we know, during the menopause, women gradually surrender the child-bearing function. At such a time a goodly amount of physical disturbance may ensue. Glands which have manufactured important secretions undergo readjustment. Physical signs vary from momentary flashes of heat to marked alterations in disposition. The victim may fan herself one moment and don a wrap the next.

In the circumstances we can understand readily that some drop in body resistance may pave the way for illness. Numerous investigators have reasoned—why not restore the gland products which are disappearing and perhaps head off the onset of disease.

Enough data have been accumulated to warrant a vigorous attack upon arthritis, which occurs between the ages of 42 and 46. Sex hormones are employed as well as various supporting measures. The plan has now been followed with sufficient thoroness to justify the statement that if distress is combated in this manner, using all the hygienic measures at our disposal, nearly 90 per cent will obtain relief. But the administration of the hormones alone will rarely prove satisfactory.

Treatment calls for attention to the diet, which should be accurately balanced. More than the average amount of vitamin B will be needed. Emphasis is placed upon fats and proteins, while carbohydrates are restricted to the minimum. The eating of sweets between meals is prohibited. Constipation should be corrected and, if the patient is obese, weight reduction is in order. The taking of fluids [water and fruit juices] is encouraged unless there is some preexisting heart ailment.

Exposure must be avoided. If cold extremities are complained of extra protection may be provided. This calls for proper footgear, with shoes that are roomy enough to allow for heavier hose. Drafts and all sources of dampness should be shunned. Pus producing bacteria are never welcome, and we may well keep aloof from foci of infection.

Then comes the use of an estrogenic substance, such as stilbestrol, which may be taken by mouth or by injection. Artificial fever can be looked upon as a last resort in case the hormone fails to accomplish its purpose. Finally we can save the patient as much emotional distress as possible.

The results of extensive trials are about what we would expect. As the rheumatic exhibitions subside so do all the peculiar manifestations incident to the change. Alertness and energy are augmented. Complications are relatively unimportant. A few will observe slight nausea while others will develop sore breasts. Decreasing the dosage will bring relief.

While this is not the end of the story, success in skilled hands has been so striking that it would be unfortunate if patients presenting this galaxy of symptoms should not have the benefit of the regimen. We should do everything we can to help these sufferers pass the period of middle life comfortably—free from an arthritic tendency.

CLOSING THE BOWLING ALLEYS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The derisive boos that greeted enforcement of the antiquated 1 a. m. closing order for bowling alleys are indicative of public opinion. Many people wind up an evening by bowling a line or two. Early darkening of the alleys will deny a great many people wholesome and relaxing entertainment.

Surely some "society for the prevention of the corruption of morals" can see the merit of keeping people out of night clubs and similar habitats and keeping them in the bowling alleys, and will effectively protest this enforcement.

Eleanor C. Wroble.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—I see by the papers that bowling alley proprietors are organizing to fight 1 o'clock closing. These people should consider the fathers and mothers of this city who have the welfare of their children at heart. I have a young daughter who has turned bowling crazy. She is a good daughter and pays her board and room, but because of the all-night sessions she has twice lost her position. The foreman of one place told me she would fall asleep while at her work. Most of these places serve drinks till 7 a. m. J. Z.

WHO'S TO RULE BRITANNIA?

Chicago, Jan. 11.—When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one nation to unite itself to another for the preservation of its existence in war, a decent regard for the fortunes of war requires that the dependent nation, recognizing its geographical and strategical incapacity for independence, resign its sovereignty and accept the status of a protectorate of the more powerful nation whose indispensable aid it has invoked.

Since the English government has successfully importuned the government of the United States of America to intervene for its salvation from the forces arrayed against it in Europe, Asia, and Africa, it is fitting that the United States take to its bosom the mother country and its colonial territories and assume sovereignty over her, as a dependent protectorate.

In addition to everything else, it was a great inspiration to the large number of recently enlisted marines, now taking a course in aviation mechanics at the naval training school [aviation], Navy pier, who attended and who, in all likelihood, will be before long fighting the battle for democracy in many parts of the world.

OLDER OFFICERS FOR DESK JOBS.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The Tribune's editorial stand on the advisability of younger officers in army combat units has my complete approval; but in the utilizing of competent man power, is there not another side to the question? I refer to the employment of older reserve officers and officers of World war I. in such staff positions as personnel, procurement, publicity, morale, etc. Perhaps my own case will point the moral.

In 1924, five years after my honorable discharge as a first lieutenant of infantry, I joined the specialists section of the reserve. My specialties were publicity, personnel, and morale. In 1926 I was promoted to major and my commission in that rank was renewed in 1931 and 1936.

In December, 1940, I formally applied for active duty—in my specialties—and a physical examination revealed that I had an enlarged heart muscle. I was already aware of this condition, but my civilian doctor had told me that as long as I was not unduly strenuous there was nothing to be concerned about. I know I am able and do put in as long and busy a day at office work as any one.

My nephew, who is 25 and a first lieutenant, is in charge of a supply depot in the east. He graduated from his state university's ROTC as an infantry officer. He expected to lead men. That is his specialty. Isn't it quite possible that there are many youngsters in staff jobs who would be more than willing to turn their desks over to veterans of 50, just as there are veterans of 50 who are eating their hearts out to get back into the war in any capacity at all?

Might I suggest that administering the affairs of a supply depot, important as they must be, do not seem calculated to put undue strain on a heart muscle? Certainly no more than 18 holes of golf.

WHAT ABOUT THE PAINTERS?

Chicago, Jan. 12.—It is quite obvious that John R. PARKING METERS AND DOBBIN.

Alton, Ill., Jan. 11.—From this crotch of the creeks it looks as tho the days of the horse and buggy are coming back, despite F. D. R. and the court packers. If the present program of rationing automobiles and tires is impartially enforced, every Main street in the land is going to see quite a few horses, whitewings, and our little feathered friends, the sparrows. We are all set for the change here in Alton. Our streamlined politicians have just recently completed the installation of several hundred beautiful, shiny parking meters which will serve as dandy hitching posts for the old gray mare and an occasional Rocky mountain nightingale. Jim Mack.

BOTTLES IN THE STREET.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—In this emergency many practices which we have regarded merely with mild annoyance assume the proportions of serious offenses against the common welfare. I should like to call particular attention to the thoughtless, careless [and perhaps malicious] habit that some persons have of throwing empty bottles into streets, along curbings, and other places where they are a menace to automobile tires. I am a traveling salesman and need my car to earn my livelihood. If I were to inadvertently run over one of these bottles and ruin a tire, where and how could I replace this tire? G. A. Engelken.

NEGRO LEADERS PRAISE POLICY WHEEL CLOSING

Grand Jury Will Resume Gambling Quiz Today.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Clergymen and civic leaders from the Negro neighborhoods met yesterday in offices of the Chicago Crime commission for a combination jubilee and wake. They said they were happy that policy gambling was—for the moment—dead; they hoped it would remain dead, and that henceforth "the blindfolds will be taken from the eyes of the policemen who walk beats in our neighborhoods."

Led by the Rev. J. M. Evans, president of the Community Church Ministers and Christian Workers alliance, 30 men and women assembled in the commission's offices at the invitation of Rudolph W. Dvorak, acting director, who had promised to help end the reign of gamblers.

Plan Grand Jury Visit.

Their next move will be a neighborhood meeting Tuesday to be followed by a massmeeting of 2,000 colored persons who want law and order restored on the south side, the clergyman announced.

"One minister received an offer of $10,000 to drop the fight on the policy game," said Frayser T. Lane, civic director of the Urban league. "He has eight children, too, but he declined.

"Our people for a time were discouraged. The policy racketeers controled the votes in some of the wards. Because the people voted for Democrats policy gamblers were permitted to remain in business.

Half Million Paid Weekly.

"Policemen could do nothing about the wide-open gambling that prevailed for many years on the south side. The police were prevented from action by the syndicate to which the policy racket paid $250 per wheel per week and there were 42 wheels in operation until two weeks ago.

"A policeman who couldn't enforce the laws against gambling couldn't enforce any other laws. Consequently the districts ran wild."

"The Negro leaders appealed to the crime commission three weeks ago," Dvorak explained after the meeting. "They said they had complained to the commissioner of police, the mayor, and the state's attorney about policy gambling, and that aid was promised, but the gamblers were too powerful.

"State's Attorney Courtney and Commissioner Allman assured us of their willingness to coöperate. The grand jury has taken up the fight."

The south siders said, on leaving, that they believed great progress had been made. They said they believed the day of the rule of the Negroes by policy gamblers is over.

Leo Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, sent Miss Paula Clare, an employé of his office, to the meeting. It was agreed that in the future relief will be denied to any persons found using relief cash for gambling purposes.

C. H. Tavernier, attorney, who in the past has represented thousands of persons arrested as policy gamblers, and who recently told the grand jury he was hired by the policy ring, was before the grand jury again yesterday, but because of other business the jurors did not have time to hear any further testimony regarding gambling. They expect to resume the gambling inquiry today.

BLACKOUT! LAKE COUNTY TRIES IT TOMORROW NIGHT

The lights will go out in Lake county tomorrow night in the first county-wide practice blackout in Illinois since the war began. More than 120,000 civilians in 18 townships, plus military personnel at Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training station, will attempt to hide the county from imagined enemy bombers in a 30 minute alarm, from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

Fifteen long blasts of the fire sirens or factory whistles—three groups of five blasts each—will signal the alarm at 7 p. m. By 7:10 p. m. a complete blackout is hoped for. One long blast will signal the all clear at 7:30 p. m. Different signals will be in effect in Lake Forest because of instructions mailed to residents a week ago. Six short blasts of five seconds each will sound the alarm, and two blasts of one minute the all clear.

Planes from the naval reserve aviation base at Glenview will observe the blackout and report to Great Lakes officials. Automobiles will be stopped at the Illinois-Wisconsin state line, and the Lake Henry and Lake-Cook county lines.

SLOT MACHINE RAIDS BY DOWNSTATE FORCE UPSET NORTH INDIANA

Policemen in the Indiana state police post at Chesterton, Porter county, were reported still upset yesterday by a sudden raid conducted in Porter county late Tuesday by state policemen from Indianapolis. The Dunes Park post at Chesterton knew nothing of the raid until the visiting policemen drove up with a truck load of seized slot machines, placed them under lock and key in the Dunes Park post and drove away, taking the key with them.

An embarrassing angle to the raids, which were made at five places, was that among them was the Brasus lunchroom on U. S. 20, directly across the road from the state police barracks. Five machines were taken from there. The Spa at Porter, said to be run by one Harry Day, also was visited.

Among the places not visited, however, was a new bookie joint said to be operating in the rear of a tourist camp in Willow Creek, five miles east of the Lake-Porter county line, under direction of Sammy Mullen of Michigan City. Observers said the new spot is doing a land office business since the voluntary closing a few days ago in Lake county of the Big House at East Chicago and the 2800 Club in Ridge road between Hammond and Gary.

Estranged Husband's Death Is Under Police Scrutiny

Cragin police are investigating the death of Walter Witek, 49 years old, a machinist. He died yesterday in the Danish-American hospital of a skull fracture. His widow, Frances, from whom he had been estranged, told police he was injured Oct. 4 in a fall in her home at 5311 Deming place. His daughter, Wanda, said he told her he had been struck. Witek lived at 1643 North Rockwell street.

FOUR PROTRUDING FEET BETRAY A $3 ROBBER PAIR

Two men who identified themselves as Walter Bade, 38 years old, 325 North Leavitt street, and Victor Pawlewicz, 38, of 1242 Diversey parkway, could give no excuse yesterday for being found underneath a parked automobile at Mildred avenue and Wolfram street.

Lieut. John O'Malley of the Sheffield police, who was looking for robbers who took $3 from Melvin Mitchell, of Evansville, Ind., when Mitchell was leaving the home of relatives at 810 Diversey parkway, noticed the men's feet sticking out from beneath the car.

Questioning the possessors of the feet, Lieut. O'Malley obtained only denials that they were robbers. After he took Bade and Pawlewicz to the police station, he said, they confessed.

CALDWELL ALONE HANDLED MONEY, SAY 2 UNION AIDS

Disclaim Knowledge of Any Records.

Two former officers of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks International Protective association, testifying yesterday before Master in Chancery Daniel Covelli, asserted that they never knew anything about the records of the union and that money was never discussed at meetings of the executive board, to which both belonged.

The witnesses were Robert Krueger, president, and Morton Schaps, sergeant at arms. Both were appointees of Max Caldwell, a former Indiana bootlegger who organized the union in 1937 and bossed it until he was ousted last June thru a revolt of the membership.

Accounting Is Sought.

Covelli is taking testimony in a suit filed by the rebels, who have demanded an accounting of $910,000 allegedly collected by Caldwell and the return of any sums illegally spent. Since the removal of Caldwell only $62 of union assets have been found.

Krueger and Schaps, questioned by Attorney Francis Heisler, said that plane travel fares for Caldwell, his family, and friends, which ran into thousands of dollars and were charged to the union, were never approved or even discussed by the board.

They added that they never knew that Caldwell, his wife, and his brother, Michael Pollack [Pollack is the family name of Caldwell] rode about in cars paid for by the union. They said they were never informed what became of initiation fees collected by Caldwell's men.

Admits Signing Checks.

Krueger admitted that he had signed checks as ordered by Caldwell, without investigation, because he "thought everything was all right."

Caldwell, who now is in Florida with apparently ample capital to finance a pretentious night club, has told the state's attorney's office that the union records are in the hands of Michael Savachka, missing secretary. Savachka, who disappeared in June, is being sought by government agents as a draft evader.

ELEVATED LINES PLAN TO ABANDON SOME STATIONS

Harley A. Johnson, general manager for the elevated lines, said at a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday that the "L" plans to abandon several of its 227 stations when the proposed transit unification program is put thru. He did not specify the number to be cut out, but it was understood to be 25 or more.

Johnson's statement was made under cross-examination by Assistant Attorney General William R. Morgan in the elevated road's case for an increase in fares from 10 to 12 cents.

Johnson said no money could be saved by abandoning the stations now, because business might be lost.

MILK... and the war!

Our whole country is dedicated to the winning of this war against aggressors who deny all liberty in the world. We must make every effort and sacrifice to win this war as quickly as possible.

Food—proper nutrition—is one of the first requisites in maintaining the strength of our nation to bring this war to a successful conclusion.

All authorities on nutrition, including the United States Public Health Service, the Department of Agriculture, the Committee on Nutrition, insist that milk is the nation's most important single food.

It is Bowman Dairy Company's business and duty to supply this necessity in sufficient quantities to help conserve and build the health of our people, our armed forces, and the children in our community.

Already the Bowman Dairy Company is supplying local civilian needs, many army and navy camps, and defense factories. We are also manufacturing milk powder and egg powder, two of the most important concentrated foods, for shipment to our overseas forces and to our allies.

With many other members of our industry, we are working with the Government agencies in OPM, OPA, and AAA, to find the best way of safeguarding the supply and delivery of milk.

GUY RICHARDSON HEADS ALL U. S. LOCAL TRANSIT

Chicagoan to Have Great Power Over Lines.

Guy A. Richardson, operating head of the Chicago Surface Lines for 18 years prior to his resignation a year ago, yesterday was named national head of division of local transportation. The appointment was announced in Washington by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Guy A. Richardson.

Richardson, who quit his $60,000 a year surface lines job last February after Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe shook up the management of the company, which is in receivership, said last night that he was called to Washington Monday by Eastman, whom he had never before met, accepted the post, and will return to the capital next Monday to begin his new duties.

"I'm only too glad to be able to do my part," he said.

Will Have Great Power.

Friends said that in his new post Richardson may wield more power over Chicago's transportation than he did as president of the city's street car lines. He can shake up schedules of street car, bus or elevated lines, shift equipment, change routes or make any other change deemed necessary for the efficient transport of defense workers or material. He can do the same thing, of course, in the local transportation field for any section of the country.

Eastman, he said, was especially concerned about the transportation problem at east coast war plants and shipyards, where transportation facilities had failed to keep pace with plant building. Another pressing problem, Richardson said, was how to plan so that when the ban on new tires and automobiles becomes felt there will be other forms of transportation ready for workers.

"We must see that transportation doesn't become a defense bottleneck," he said. "The government agencies will work with local agencies in order to get the most effective use out of the available facilities. In any conflict in the use of equipment the war production effort must come first."

Favors Staggered Hours.

He added that such efforts as are now being made by the Chicago city council and local transportation officials to stagger working hours in an effort to relieve rush hour congestion were very constructive.

Richardson came to Chicago in 1923 as vice president in charge of surface lines operations. Previously he held the same position in the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, and had been associated with street railway operations since 1901. He is 59 years old and lives at 145 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth.

Eastman also appointed another Chicagoan to a government post yesterday. Col. Leon M. Nicholson, real estate and warehouse operator, was named director of a storage division, to facilitate storage of materials needed by transportation agencies.

DEMAND BORRELLI QUIT AS BAILIFF IN SLUGGING CASE

Bailiff Albert Horan of the Municipal court yesterday sent a letter to Bruce [Bud] Borrelli, 32 years old, son and personal bailiff of Judge Francis Borelli, asking him to resign because of his involvement in the slugging Jan. 6 of John Gottlieb.

Gottlieb, head of the Pioneer Motor service, has identified Borrelli and three other men as the sluggers who attacked him and broke his jaw. The incident is believed to have resulted from a combined trucking war and labor dispute.

State's Attorney Courtney said that a second of the four men, Lawrence Roche, 29, of 115 South Seeley avenue, was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary Jan. 22, 1934, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault to rob. He was paroled Dec. 15, 1936. Roche and the other two men, Peter La Barber, 29, of 4439 Jackson boulevard, and James McNally, 48, of 8148 South Winchester avenue, were released yesterday on bonds of $3,500 each. Borrelli was released late Tuesday on $20,000 bond.

The grand jury continued its investigation of the slugging by hearing testimony from a dozen employés of the Keeshin Motor Express company.

J. R. M'WHORTER, FORMER POSTAL INSPECTOR, DIES

Word was received here yesterday of the death Monday in Bartow, Fla., of John R. McWhorter, former postal inspector in the Chicago postoffice area. Mr. McWhorter, who retired in 1939 and went to live in Wauthula, Fla., was 53 years old. He formerly lived in Crystal Lake.

Mr. McWhorter worked on many of the major postal prosecutions in the Chicago area, including those leading to the arrest and conviction of Charles [Limpy] Cleaver and the indictment of the late John [Boss] McLaughlin. He entered the postal service in the Spokane area in 1916.

Surviving are his widow, Elsie; a daughter, Mrs. Miriam Gumprecht; and his father, John McWhorter. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1 North Williams street, Crystal Lake.

U. S. TAX APPEAL OF HUMPHREYS BEING WEIGHED

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday took under advisement a plea by Murray Humphreys, the gangster, for a review of the United States Board of Tax Appeals' decision in his tax lien case. The appeals board recently upheld an income tax lien on Humphreys' property for $74,617.77.

The lien represents interest and penalties in addition to the $35,442 in taxes which Humphreys is accused by the government of evading for the years 1930 to 1932, inclusive. Humphreys, who served 18 months in prison for failure to pay the taxes, asserts that the tax was excessive.

THE Reason FOR A LAIN & SON PREFERENCE

THE steady growth of the preference for Lain & Son, which is now 30 to 1, 30 times the average is not so astounding when you consider the reasons for Lain's leadership. No business ever grew which did not give the public extra values. This is a Lain & Son policy . . . to give you extra services which can not be duplicated. One of these unduplicated services is the Imperial Quartet and organist, another is the beautiful, carefully planned Lain & Son Chapels.

Into every one of their services there goes that care and consideration which has made Lain & Son funerals outstanding.

When you consider the many reasons for Lain & Son prestige and preference, and know that their prices are usually lower, you will understand Chicago's overwhelming acceptance of Lain services.

$678,199 IN CASH, $2,514,198 GOODS STOLEN DURING '41

During 1941 bandits, burglars, and other types of thieves stole $678,199 in cash and $2,514,198 in merchandise from Chicagoans, according to an annual report submitted yesterday to Commissioner Allman by Capt. William Stapleton, head of the police bureau of criminal information.

This did not represent gross profit, however, for police recovered $61,893 of the cash, and $237,330 worth of the merchandise. The merchandise covered all kinds of portable articles, much of it jewelry and furs.

The 1941 record virtually balanced with the 1940 record when more cash —$773,228—but less merchandise—$2,132,931—were stolen. In that year police recovered $54,743 in cash and $276,565 in merchandise.

"Pursuit of a Parcel"

By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull

(Copyright: 1942: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull)

SYNOPSIS.

Cornelius Rossiter, adopted brother of Antony Rossiter, is a spy for both Germany and England. He is known as Cornelius Roos by the Germans, and when a man high in Nazi circles suspects him of his English connections, Cornelius announces he has taken a dictograph of the man's expressions of disloyalty to Hitler and it will be sent to Goering if anything happens to Cornelius. In London, Antony is questioned by Colonel Garrett of the British Intelligence about the loyalty of his adopted brother, and sends Antony to Holland to get secret information about Cornelius. Before going, Antony says good-by to his sweetheart, Delia Merridew, and makes her promise not to mention his errand. A package addressed to Antony is received by Delia's uncle, Philip Merridew, just before a bomb wrecks his office. Emanuel Holt, a clerk, rescues the package, and Merridew, dangerously hurt, makes Emanuel promise to keep the package safe. In Holland, Antony, posing as Piet Maartens, the ne'er-do-well Dutch nephew of Anna Brandt, a tavern keeper, interviews Cornelius and learns about the parcel. In the meantime the Holts have to take refuge in a shelter during an air raid.

INSTALMENT X.

THIEF.

"How would you describe green, Rosie, if you were put to it?" said Emanuel with the air of one who has put a poser and knows the answer.

Mrs. Holt looked up from the air force sock which she was knitting for her sister Emily's second boy.

"Well, it's just green, ducks."

"Ah, but if you were writing a dictionary you'd have to describe it, Rosie."

"Well, I don't see what you're going to say except that it's green. And as to writing, I'm no great hand with a letter, let alone a dictionary, so I shouldn't trouble my head."

"Well, this is what they say—and I must say I should never have thought of it myself—that's why a dictionary is so improving. Here we are. 'Green—adjective and noun. Of the color between blue and yellow in the spectrum; colored like grass, sea-water, emerald, olive, etc.' There! What do you think of that? Clever, I call it."

"If you know what a spectrum is." Rosie's tone disclaimed any desire for such knowledge.

As Emanuel was about to turn to "Greffier—a registrar or notary," there were half a dozen crashes in rapid succession, the first terrifyingly near, the last definitely farther away. Mrs. Holt laid down her knitting, and a comparative silence fell.

"Em—did I turn off the gas at the meter?"

"I don't know, Rosie."

"You didn't see me? Doris—did I turn off the gas?"

"I don't know, Mum."

"Well, I'll just go and see."

Emanuel dropped the dictionary and slid out of his bunk.

"You stay where you are, Rosie! It won't take me a minute—I'll go quicker than you."

The searchlights were all up as he emerged from the shelter. The back door was no more than a dozen feet away. He ran across and slipped in, putting up a hand to switch on the light.

Nothing happened. He let the switch go up, and pulled it down again. Still no light. It went thru his head in quite a matter-of-fact way that the power station must have been hit. He got out the little torch which always went with him to the shelter and discovered that the gas was off. Well, it wouldn't have been like Rosie to leave it on.

He was just going to open the back door again—had in fact stretched out his hand to do so—when, faint but unmistakable, he heard a footstep overhead.

All at once he was afraid. His heart had not quickened when the bombs came crashing down. It struck now against his side with a thudding which made it difficult to breathe. It was a cold night—the lean-to scullery was cold, with its three outside walls and no room over it—but there was sweat on his temples and palms. He stood where he was and listened as well as he could for the drumming in his ears.

The step was not directly overhead. It was very faint. There was nothing over the scullery. Bathroom and lavatory came next, over the kitchen. He thought the sound came from the front of the house, from his and Rosie's bedroom. But that meant a thief—

He began to feel very angry indeed. Mean—that was the only word for it. It was a word which heartened him a good deal. You are angry with mean people, and you despise them. They don't frighten you.

He still had the torch in his left hand. But he wouldn't turn it on—not yet. He didn't need a torch to find his way across his own kitchen and scullery, but he kept a finger ready on the catch.

The door into the kitchen was open. He skirted the table and opened the door into the passage, all without making a sound. Standing there, he listened, and heard what he had heard before, a footstep going to and fro upstairs, moving, and stopping, and going on again. Words and a picture came into Emanuel's mind—"Looking for something"—and the picture of a man's hand holding a torch and flicking the beam of it here and there and everywhere.

In his mind he could see the bright circle of light slide from Rosie's crimson eiderdown to the pillows of the double bed, and from there to the washstand china—poppies and cornflowers on a cream ground—Rosie liked a bit of color. It would pick up Rosie's Bible on the table her side of the bed, and her bedroom candlestick—you couldn't put all your trust in electric light these days. And then what else was there for it to go flicking over and prying at? The old bow-front chest of drawers which Rosie had brought from the farm when she married—the built-in cupboard where she hung her clothes—the old chairs which had come with the chest—a looking glass, and that was all. And you wouldn't have to look long to know that it was all, either. The lull held. He heard a drawer slide out and presently slide home again.

His anger had gone cold on him while he stood there listening. He began to wish that he had clattered thru the kitchen shouting. Of course, he could do it still—but not so easy to clatter and shout in cold blood. And then, while he was wondering if he could screw himself up to it, the lull outside was violently broken by what sounded like three cracking claps of thunder right overhead. The ground jarred under his feet, and the house shook and rattled about him. Something in him—some force, some vehemence—was released. He flung the door he was holding back against the wall and ran towards the stairs calling out at the top of his voice, "Who's there? Who are you? Come down!"

Like the apprentice who raised the devil, Emanuel's command produced more than he had bargained for. A bright dancing light whirled out of the upper darkness, and an extremely solid body came charging down the stairs. The impact took Emanuel off his feet. His hand was wrenched from the newel. He lost his torch and fell flat on the hall linoleum. The front door opened and banged. Amid the roar of the London barrage, now in full swing again, he picked himself up, tripped over his torch, and, having recovered it, felt his way back into the scullery. Groping, his hand touched somebody's face.

Mrs. Holt's scream beat the barrage. It traveled rapidly up a couple of octaves, and held on to the top note.

"Rosie, it's me!"

It was not so much Emanuel's voice, which could hardly have reached her, as his clutch at her arm that stopped the scream. It shut off as suddenly as a policeman's whistle.

"That you, Em?"

"Yes, Rosie."

"Then come along back to the shelter! Whatever have you been doing?"

"There was a thief in the house. He ran downstairs and knocked me over." They were shouting at each other thru the noise of the guns. "The front door wasn't locked. He got away by it," said Emanuel at the top of his voice, and was left saying it in a sudden silence as the guns ceased.

Rosie recovered her ordinary voice.

"Did you lock it after him?"

"I don't think so. He knocked me down and trod on me."

She pushed past him in the dark. He heard her go thru to the front door and lock it. Then she was back again.

"Doris must have left it open. If I've told her once I've told her 20 times. Do you suppose he's taken anything?"

"I don't know."

"There was two and elevenpence in the left hand top drawer under my stockings, and my brooch with the seed pearls and Granny's hair in the handkerchief case. O, Em—I hope he hasn't taken it!"

As they let themselves out of the scullery door, Emanuel said,

"He was looking for something."

"How do you know?"

"That's what it sounded like. What could he have been looking for?"

Mrs. Holt stopped and looked up at the sky. There was silence there—no searchlights, only stars. She turned and said quickly:

"Where's Mr. Antony's parcel?"

"In the shelter," said Emanuel.

ASK FOR BLOOD DONOR TO SAVE LIFE OF BOY, 4

An appeal for a blood donor who has recovered from a streptoccus viridans infection was issued yesterday from St. Anne's hospital, 4950 Thomas street, on the behalf of Douglas McDaniel, 4 year old son of Wallace H. McDaniel, 5449 Pensacola avenue.

The youngster has been in the hospital for 11 days and has had a mastoid operation performed, according to hospital authorities. His blood count is decreasing fast, however, and it is urgently important to save his life that a donor be found who has recovered from the streptoccus viridans infection.

Volunteers should call St. Anne's hospital, telephone Austin 1650, and talk to Dr. Jerome Hayden, the boy's physician, or a nurse in charge of the case.

DENVER FUGITIVE SURRENDERS.

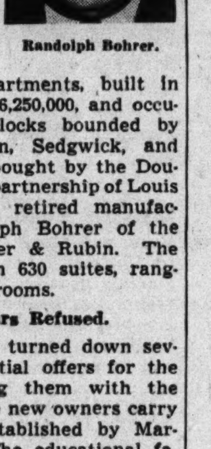
A man who identified himself as Sidney Dorner, 30 years old, surrendered to Chicago avenue police yesterday and said that he was wanted by Denver, Colo., police on a warrant charging embezzlement of $8,000 in a business transaction. He was held.

FIELD ESTATE'S SALES OF REALTY HIT $18,500,000

Garden Apartments Sold for $1,750,000.

BY AL CHASE.

With the sale yesterday of the Marshall Field Garden apartments on the near north side for a reported $1,750,000 cash, the trustees of the estate of Marshall Field have disposed of approximately 18½ million dollars worth of Chicago real estate in the last 3½ years, Ward Farnsworth, manager of the estate properties, said.



Randolph Bohrer.

The Garden apartments, built in 1930 at a cost of $6,250,000, and occupying two city blocks bounded by Hudson, Evergreen, Sedgwick, and Blackhawk, were bought by the Doubleby company, a partnership of Louis H. Barkhausen, a retired manufacturer, and Randolph Bohrer of the law firm of Bohrer & Rubin. The apartments contain 630 suites, ranging from 3½ to 6 rooms.

Higher Offers Refused.

The Field estate turned down several more substantial offers for the apartments, selling them with the stipulation that the new owners carry on along lines established by Marshall Field III. The educational facilities, garage accommodations at reduced rates to tenants, and other social features are to be retained, it was said. Arthur Whiston will continue as manager. The new owners will take possession on Feb. 1.

The buildings, to be renamed the Town and Garden apartments, are said to have a gross income of about $450,000 and a net of approximately $150,000. There were only seven vacant apartments yesterday in the 630 suites—one four-room suite and six five-room apartments.

Ten Separate Buildings.

The garden apartments are in ten separate buildings, of four and five stories, grouped around a central landscaped court two blocks long. There are no elevators.

Among other properties liquidated by the Field estate during the last 3½ years are: the land under the Marshall Field department store, including the men's store, for 15 million dollars, to Marshall Field & Co.; the land under the Mallers building, Madison and Wabash, sold for $720,000; the Rumely building, La Salle and Harrison, and the land at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Madison.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT IN FALL.

One man was killed and another injured yesterday when a scaffold fell as they did sheet metal work on a building at 161 North Sangamon street. The dead man is Jacob Padgett, 51 years old, 3030 North Hoyne avenue. William Sloan, 40, of 2137 Sheffield avenue, was critically hurt.

TAX RATE CUT IN FIVE KANE COUNTY TOWNS, RAISED IN TWO OTHERS

Property owners in five Kane county communities will receive tax bills based upon lower rates this year than last, while in two towns higher rates will prevail. This was revealed yesterday by County Clerk Charles Lowry.

St. Charles will have the highest rate for the county, $5.64 on $100 of assessed valuation, compared with $5.60 last year. In Elgin the hike is from $5.38 to $5.53. The rates in other towns for last year and this year follow:

East Aurora, $5.53 both years; West Aurora, $5.50 both years; Batavia, $4.85 and $4.64; Geneva, $5.60 and $5.40; East Dundee, $5.71 and $5.55; West Dundee, $5.37 and $5.30, and Carpentersville, $5.21 and $5.13.

BURLARY SUSPECTS FACE JURY.

Tony Angelo, 18 years old, 5630 South May street, and Norbert Seifert, 21, of 1508 West 51st street, were held for grand jury action on burglary charges yesterday by Judge Victor A. Kula in Boys' court.

WOMAN KILLED BY DRIVER WHO FAILS TO STOP

Helen Quirk, 40 years old, 6321 Ingleside avenue, a hotel maid, died yesterday in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries received earlier in the day when she was struck by a hit-run automobile at 63d street and Ingleside avenue.

Henry Timmerman, 35, of 5425 Grace street, a carpenter, died in Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, of injuries suffered when his automobile crashed into a tree on the Northwest highway west of Des Plaines.

Robert Smith, 50, colored, of 5206 South Wabash avenue, was fatally injured when he was struck by a truck at 51st and State streets. The truck driver was James D. Beekman, 22, of Columbus, O.

George Benneian, 65, of 737 Madison street, was killed late Tuesday when he was struck in front of 7400 Belmont avenue by an automobile driven by Gustave Sundquist, 38, of 3353 Ozanam avenue.

Peter Hoffman, 57, of 2001 Howe street, died in Mount Sinai hospital, Milwaukee, Wis., of injuries suffered there Dec. 21 in a four car smashup.

Lewis Starke, 81, of 2748 Lincoln avenue, was killed by an automobile in front of 8246 Belmont avenue. The driver was Charles Courtney, 36, of 4251 Irving Park road.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 46 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 33 were killed in Chicago, where 910 were injured in the same period.

HOLDUP SLAYER IS EXECUTED IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Earl Parks, Negro slayer, was put to death in the electric chair in the county jail early today. The execution was carried out with the usual speed. The current was applied at 12:02 a. m. and Parks was pronounced dead at 12:08. He was denied a commutation yesterday by the state pardon board. "I guess that's that," he had said, when notified.

Parks, 26 years old, was sentenced by Judge John Sbarbaro for the holdup murder of Lawrence Murphy, 27, of Gary, in Jackson park last May 21. He also confessed the murder of Gustaf R. Lindblom, 65, of 7111 Langley avenue, on April 26.

AWARDS WIDOW $4,500 JUDGMENT IN AUTO DEATH

Mrs. Hattie Newell, 58 years old, of Kingston, De Kalb county, was awarded a judgment for $4,500 yesterday against Walter Banikaitis, 56, of 3500 South Washtenaw avenue, driver of an auto which struck and killed her husband, Patrick, a pressman. The judgment was handed down by Judge William F. Borders of East St. Louis, sitting in Circuit court. Newell was killed May 8, 1940, at Canal street and Cermak road when a truck driven by Banikaitis struck the car in which he rode.

Woman Saves Purse from Robbers; Watchman Aids

Mrs. Clara Norman, 636 South Marshfield avenue, widow of Policeman Carl Norman, was stopped by two thieves last night as she left the Marshfield avenue L station. They knocked her down several times as she fought to save her purse, then ran as Andrew Traniketa, 703 South Claremont avenue, a watchman for the nearby Presbyterian hospital, ran up and fired at them.

MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE BRINGS YOU GLORIOUS EXTRA RICHNESS

Thrill to the flavor of choice coffees—Medellins . . . Manizales . . . Bucaramangas—tasting as they can only taste in the famous Maxwell House blend!

● There's a superbly satisfying flavor waiting for you—and always the same—in every cup of Maxwell House Coffee.

For this is a coffee blended in the great tradition of Joel Cheek . . . to bring out all the magnificent flavor of our special premium coffees from the highlands of Latin America.

There volcanic soil, tropical rains and sunshine contribute their magic to the perfection of truly great coffees—the rich-flavored Medellin group . . . full-bodied Bucaramangas . . . mellow Manizales . . . vigorous Central and South Americans.

Only limited supplies of these finer coffees arrive in the United States. But fortunately . . . even this year . . . Maxwell House buyers have obtained ample stocks.

So remember—for flavorful upland coffees, plus a matchless blend, ask for Maxwell House!

Guatemala: The first step in cleaning coffee berries.

Choose from these 3 SCIENTIFICALLY CORRECT GRINDS

Naturally, all coffee roasters—including ourselves—would like to put up a single "all-purpose" grind. But clever women know different coffee-making methods call for different grinds.

Therefore, Maxwell House offers 3 accurately correct grinds. Each is ground uniformly by precision grinders. This eliminates crushing, unevenness and waiting involved in store grinding.

Not only do you get better coffee by using the right Maxwell House grind for your coffee-making method, but you may also save money. As the directions on the tins show, Drip and Glass-Maker grinds give you the same richness with substantially less coffee than if you used Regular grind for these methods.

Don't Forget . . .

MAXWELL HOUSE GIVES YOU MORE FLAVOR FOR YOUR MONEY

Because . . .

- There's more flavor in the Maxwell House blend—it's far richer in highland-grown, extra-flavor coffees.
- All the marvelous richness of flavor is brought out by our special "Radiant Roast" process.
- No flavor can escape—it's sealed, roaster-fresh, in the famous super-vacuum, Vita-Fresh tin.
- 3 scientifically correct grinds—Drip, Regular, Glass Maker—assure full flavor by any coffee-making method.
- For extra value, save money and save shopping trips by getting the thrifty 2-pound tin.

W-G-N TO CARRY NIGHTLY REPORTS ON PARLEY AT RIO

Tribune Correspondent to Tell Developments.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The first of a series of nightly reports on the Rio de Janeiro conference of American foreign ministers will be given over the Mutual network at 6:15 o'clock this evening by Capt. Maxwell Corpening, Chicago Tribune foreign correspondent. Capt. Corpening's first report from the Brazilian capital will be rebroadcast over W-G-N at 7:45 p. m. The hour for subsequent reports will be given in the program log.

A rare broadcast by Greta Garbo has been arranged for the night of Saturday, Jan. 24. She has agreed to join in a variety show with a host of other Hollywood notables in a March of Dimes broadcast on that date.

The W-G-N-Mutual Spotlight Band series, which usually comes from New York, will move to the Civic theater in Chicago for a four night stand, starting next Monday. On successive nights Les Brown, Art Jarrett, Eddy Howard, and Jack Teagarden will be heard. A limited number of tickets will be available.

Garry Moore and Ben Grauer, who conduct the Quiz show, Service with a Smile, will visit Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., at 7:30 tonight with WLS as the Chicago outlet. A few days ago they visited Great Lakes Naval Training station. A rehearsal for the show was interrupted by an air raid alert. Later someone asked Will Doty, organist on the program, whether he was scared.

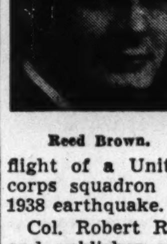
"Not a bit," he replied, "but I've just realized that the 'All clear' signal is one of the world's most beautiful pieces of music."

One minute of prayer devoted to America at war will be broadcast on W-G-N and the Mutual network at 6 p. m. Mondays thru Saturdays for the duration of the conflict with the axis.

Texts for the nightly prayers will be supplied by ministers, rabbis, and priests from every state in the Union.

ENTERTAIN CONSULS OF LATIN LANDS AT W-G-N SHOW TONIGHT

Consuls representing Latin American nations that have declared war on or severed diplomatic relations with the axis powers will be special guests during the broadcast of W-G-N's Americans at the Ramparts program from 7 to 7:30 tonight in studio 1.



Reed Brown.

They will witness a drama depicting the rescue flight of a United States army air corps squadron to Chile during the 1938 earthquake.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will welcome the consuls. Nations to be represented will be Mexico, Cuba, Panama, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua.

Other guests will include airmen from the naval aviation training school at Glenview and flying detachments from the 6th corps area of the army.

In addition to the drama, the broadcast will feature the reading of Sidney Gerson's poem, "Eagle of Wrath," which is dedicated to the memory of America's new hero, Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr. Reed Brown, star of the stage show, "Claudia," will read the poem.

JONAS ASKS HIGH COURT TO RULE ON BENCH POST

Former Judge Edgar A. Jonas yesterday asked the Illinois Supreme court for a writ of mandamus compelling county and court officials to rule that he had a right to the short term vacancy created on the Superior court bench by the death of Judge Walter T. Stanton.

If Jonas' appointment by Gov. Green is supported by the Supreme court, he would be eligible for a pension of $3,750 a year after he reaches the age of 60. Now 55 years old Jonas served on the Municipal bench from 1924 to 1936.

Judge Stanton was reëlected four days before his death. Officials declined to recognize Jonas' appointment, holding that Stanton had an unexpired term of more than one year—the limit for an appointment by the governor. Jonas was defeated along with the entire Republican judicial ticket in the Nov. 4 election.

700 PUPILS ADOPT 18 YANKS; WRITE AND FEED THEM

There are 18 Yanks somewhere in the service who have 700 children collectively. The Yanks have been adopted thru THE TRIBUNE by second to eighth grade pupils in the Barry Elementary school, 2828 North Kilbourn avenue. For the last five weeks the children have been writing to their Yanks and sending them cookies and cakes. In addition, the pupils have been knitting for the Red Cross. They already have completed 15 scarves. The various teachers have instructed them in the art of knitting, according to Miss Josephine Liska, principal.

Potter Palmers' Niece Weds in N. Y. Tomorrow

BY JUDITH CASS.

A WEDDING which is taking place tomorrow in New York City holds twofold interest for Chicagoans, for the bride is a niece of the Potter Palmers and the bridegroom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham of Honolulu. First announcement of the engagement of Miss Constance Shepard to Henry Gaylord Dillingham has just arrived in Chicago from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bulkley Shepard of St. Paul, Minn., and New York, along with word that the wedding will take place tomorrow.

Mrs. Palmer, who is a sister of Mrs. Shepard, has gone east for the afternoon church wedding with the daughter, Miss Pauline. Mrs. Dillingham, too, is in New York. The former Louise Gaylord, who still is remembered in Chicago as a belle during her debut days, has been in this country for several months visiting her daughter, Mrs. Myron A. Wicks Jr. [Betty Lou Dillingham] in Greenwich, Conn.

Miss Shepard a Visitor in Chicago Frequently.

Mrs. Dillingham and the Wickses will be their family's only representatives at the wedding. Mr. Dillinghan is in Honolulu at the family's home, Le Pietra. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell S. Dillingham [Harriet Barbour] and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dillingham II. [Frances Andrews] also will have to send their best wishes from the Pacific island.

Miss Shepard, who has visited in Chicago numerous times, was graduated from the Foxcroft school in 1937 and attended Sarah Lawrence college. She has three brothers, Roger Jr., Blake, and Stanley.

Young Mr. Dillingham was graduated from the Middlesex school and received his degree in 1940 from Harvard university, where he was a member of the Hasty Pudding and A. D. clubs.

Georgia B. Anderson's Engagement Announced.

Miss Georgia Brentano Anderson's fiancé, Dudley Arnold Zinke, is not yet a service man, but he expects to report for duty shortly after his graduation in March from the University of Chicago law school. Their engagement was announced at a small cocktail party on Sunday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Anderson of Geneva.

Miss Anderson was graduated from the Agnes Irwin school in Philadelphia, Pa., where her family formerly lived. The Andersons returned to Chicago last year from Larchmont, N. Y., after a year's residence there. Mrs. Anderson is a daughter of the late Judge Theodore Brentano, noted corporation counsel and one-time United States minister to Hungary.

Mr. Zinke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arno Zinke of Geneva, was graduated from Brown university before entering law school.

Two Will Become Brides of Midshipmen Saturday.

With every graduation from the midshipmen's training school at Abbott hall comes a rush of weddings before the newly commissioned ensigns report for duty to naval bases or destroyers. Two brides of the coming week-end who will be watching their fiancés receive their commissions tomorrow at the Medinah temple are Miss Martha Borland and Miss Betty Mead.

Miss Borland and James M. Willis will be married before their immediate families at 3 o'clock on Saturday in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church. A reception will follow at 4:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland. The Borland home also will be the scene of a family gathering tomorrow night, the only party which Miss Borland and Mr. Willis were able to fit into a crowded schedule.

Mr. Willis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Willis, will be here from Greenwich, Conn., with their daughter, Miss Anne, and son, Robert Jr., who will serve as best man. The bride's sister, Mrs. Barton Plimpton, is making the trip from Framingham Center, Mass., with her husband and two little girls. Deborah and Audrey Plimpton will be their aunt's only at-

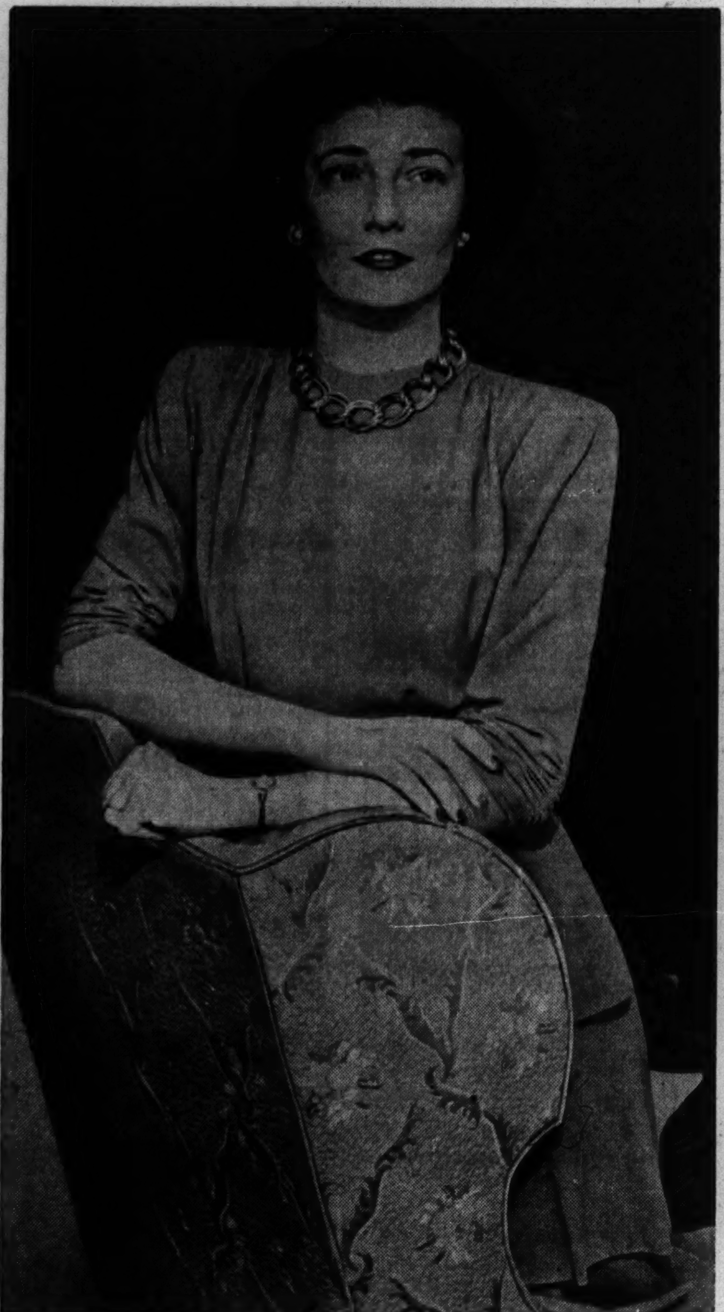
Engagement Announced



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Highlight of the holiday season for Miss Priscilla Korrady was the announcement of her engagement to Robert Edward Blackburn. The announcement was made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Korrady, at a small party in their Winnetka home on New Year's eve. Mr. Blackburn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Adam Blackburn of Evanston.

Shoes Require Brass Tack or Nail Head Trim

BY REA SEEGER.

Brass tacks or the popular nail head accent on all the showings of new footwear must have escaped the priority schemers for present supplies are endless. You'll glitter with nail heads on patent leather, bag or shoes, on pastel colored summer suedes, or street shoes of sturdy calfskin, on play shoes, campus sandals and the giddy ideas heading south.

Hardly an inch of shoe leather or material but shines with polished bits of metal either square, round, or oblong in shape.

If the present fashions go on unhampered by withdrawal orders you'll see the shine of nail head on snowy white summer footgear, on the new tan shoes for spring and all the patent leathers in color. Handbags to match will feature the same snappy accents . . . and if highlights like these won't shine up the dark corners, nothing ever will.

The downtown area is positively tense with the snooping and shopping of women out to snag the available bargains, tempting items annually marked down just for this sort of an appreciative mob scene. Housewives out to bag bargains in fine linen, important sales of towels, and other necessary household commodities specially priced during the days of January, are likewise tempted almost beyond control over literally hundreds of other buys . . . the loop is no place for any one but a veteran shopper unless you come down to watch your excited contemporaries push, shove and buzz over it all.

Silk or No Silk Women's Hosiery Will Be Flattering

Silk or no silk, American women will never want for flattering hosiery.

This was the reaction yesterday of women's hosiery buyers in loop department stores to the announcement that the United States will exhaust its supply of silk yarn within 90 days.

Large supplies of silk and lisle hose are still in stock, they said, and nylons are adequate at present to meet the demand. Despite the fact manufacturers were cut 20 per cent in nylon materials on Jan. 9, future stocks of nylon are insured to buyers, partly by a type of hose combining a nylon base and lisle top. Rayons and silk and rayon combinations, just coming on the market, are the answers to any possible silk shortage, several buyers asserted.

"With the notice of the silk shortage yesterday, we had a rush on hosiery thruout the day," one buyer explained. "But, oddly, the women purchased nylons mostly and the silk stockings, of which we have a large supply, were somewhat neglected. It only goes to show we can make a substitute finer than the original article. I have just finished buying a large supply of rayon hose which are very lovely and will wear excellently."

Good Morning!

How green in my memory will live this picture—"How Green Was My Valley"!

It is, so far as I'm concerned, the first of 1942's "Best Movies."

This adaptation of Richard Llewellyn's best selling novel is rare and lovely, rugged and true. Seeing it is an experience no lover of fine films should miss.

The story's background is a Welsh mining village and adjacent territory. Its characters are strong and simple people who lived happy and bountiful lives, untouched either by extravagance or want before modern complexities—such as wage differences and strikes and unions—came to confuse them and muddle up their clearly defined paths of existence.

In this town dwell Mr. and Mrs. Morgan with their brood of fine sons and a daughter. Father and all the sons except little 10 year old Huw work in the coal mines and are well paid. The family is loved and respected by all, and grand times the members have together as a family.

Comes gentle Bronwen to wed Ivor, to enshrine herself forever in the heart of little Huw. . . . And here you are fascinated by the depiction of quaint courting and marriage customs. . . . Comes a handsome, stalwart, understanding, and godly young minister to love and be loved by Angharad Morgan. A practical saint who denies his love for the reason that he will not subject a wife and children to the threadbare—from a worldly standpoint—existence that he has chosen for himself. . . . Come wage cuts, and disunity, and a broken family, and a wrong marriage for Angharad that has pitiful results. . . . And sad and bitter days for little Huw—thru illness brought on by his heroism in saving his mother from death in an icy river, and thru cruelty encountered in schoolmaster and boys when he is sent to school across the valley.

Pastor Gruffydd refuses to permit Huw to believe that he will never walk again—as the doctor has said—and inspires the lad with faith and determination that result in his complete recovery. . . . The Morgan men see to it that he learns to fight his own battles. . . . The Morgans pick no quarrel with any man—but they DO take care of themselves and their honor. . . .

NEVER in a picture have I had anything "get" me more than did Huw's first day at school. I could hardly STAND it!

The action is freshened by unexpected gusts of humor and warmed by unexpected tendernesses. These lessen the strain and pain of its tragedy.

Sometimes "How Green Was My Valley" is a talking picture. Sometimes it's just plain silent. Sometimes it is silent—and only a narrator's voice [Irving Pichel's I think] is heard—same being, supposedly, that of little Huw, reminiscing.

In the beginning is the beginning—and in the end—is the beginning. For again you see a little boy happy with those he loved in his valley that was so green. Good idea. You feel better, leaving the theater.

There's some ringing music by recruits from the congregation of the Welsh Presbyterian church of Los Angeles. . . . Direction is the last word in something very special.

As for the cast—it's full of stars! And the greatest of these is Roddy McDowall as Little Huw.

See you soon.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

Those Boys Again.

Two flags are crossed beneath a picture of President Roosevelt in the Service Men's center here. One is the American flag. The other is blue with four stars down its center. Guides take pains to explain that the latter is the flag of Chicago, but a visiting lady the other day took explanation unto herself. "O," she cried to her companions. "There's the new Roosevelt flag! One star for each son in service."

Not Togo.

Colleen Moore, now the wife of Chicagoan Homer Hargrave, relays the story written her by Harold Griene, Hollywood interior decorator:

"Togo," a movie star said to the Japanese butler who had been with her 15 years, "If I left my bedroom door open, would you cut my throat?"

"No, madam," Togo responded gravely. "That gardener job. I burn house."

Her Bit for the Boys.

An extremely giggly young thing called our Friend of the Yank.

"I am going to a wedding Saturday night," she began, "and I would like to have a marine about 21 years old to take me. I'd like," she added thoughtfully, "a blond."

When told this was outside journalistic jurisdiction, she pouted audibly over the telephone.

"Well, I declare," came her indignant final remark. "I'd just like to do my bit for the soldiers."

It was Terrific.

Carole Lombard paused briefly in town yesterday in a flurry of mink cape, defense vigor and Hoosier eloquence:

"My old man [Clark Gable] is head of the Hollywood Victory board," adjusting her diamond earrings, "and is it terrific? First unity Hollywood ever had. We're to have from 10 to 25 shows on the road at one time, all the money to go for bombers and things Morgenthau wants. From now on it's sell-a-bond, sell-a-bond, sell-a-bond. You finish a picture and before you get off the lot, it's 'Pittsburgh by 4 o'clock!' and off you go again. It's terrific!"

"Hello, sweetie," to red headed Don Budge, passing thru the W-G-N lobby where she sat. "O, Bobby, dear," to Bobby Riggs who trailed him. "The Mickey Rooney of the tennis court," in an aside. "A terrific lamb. . . . No, I don't expect to take Indiana like Willkie did, but I'm a native, too. Fort Wayne. Left there when I was six. . . . I'm going to raise a flag over the Indianapolis courthouse tomorrow for a war rally, the flag that flew over the White House the day war was declared. No, not 1917. Dec. 8. . . . If they sing The Star Spangled Banner, I'm lost. I'll have to let the crowd carry it. Once I took lessons in voice for six months. I was going to be Carmen, Aïda, Mignon, everything. I'd practice my mi-mi-mi every night. It was terrific! Well, then I sang, and they played it back. It was terrific! I said, 'Are you kidding me? Is that me? Get a double!' The rest of my singing lessons I gave away. . . ."

Name Your Cake, Miss.

We trust the Filipinos in their beleaguered islands have the ingenuity of a Filipino who once worked for a group of young Chicago bachelors. Worried because a guest had not touched her dessert, he tried to ascertain what dessert would please her. Finally she said, "Cake." "What kind?" he pressed. Any kind would do. No, it wouldn't. What did she really like? Well, chocolate. Five minutes passed, and back he came, triumphantly bearing a slab of chocolate cake. He had made the rounds of the Lake Shore drive apartment house, back door to back door, until he found the cake he wanted.

1942 Panhandler.

"Brother, can you spare a dime?"
Used to arouse my ire.
Now I suppose I'll hear,
"Brother, can you spare a tire?" Don Penrose.

And Head First, Too.

Remember when we gave Ford and Firestone credit for having put the nation on wheels? It won't take Leon Henderson long, quips F. H. Gane, Northwestern university economist, to put us back on our feet.

Little Apes of Nikko.

The army officer was discussing insignia—the castle of the engineers, the sphinx of the intelligence, the crossed sabers of the cavalry. He wondered why no branch used the three wise monkeys, the trio with closed ears, lips, and eyes who presumably hear no evil, speak no evil, see no evil. Well, we investigated. They are Japanese.

It Happened Last Summer.

His speech had rugged Elizabethan twists, and he was tending a pre-Revolutionary water mill alongside a dirt road in southeastern Virginia. Neighbors sometimes dropped in to buy his stone-ground meal, he said, but few others ever did.

"You from up nawth?" he continued, his gaze friendly and direct.

"Chicago."

"May be that you know a man named Ben Jackson. Picks up a hundred pounds of meal now and then. Lives in New York."

Red Sun.

There were long gold nail protectors, exquisite robes, long jade hairpins, and a wall full of embroidered fan cases in Charlotte Hill Grant's collection of requisites of court life in ancient China which went on exhibition here this week at a United China Relief tea. But attention was drawn to a wall covered with mandarin squares, those embroidered panels depicting civil or military rank, out of favor since the empire died in 1912. Civil rank was signified by various birds, military by animals, among them a unicorn, leopard, seal, and rhinoceros, all chasing a red sun embroidered high in the background. No one could explain this until a young Chinese woman, busy with tea, looked up, smiled brightly and said, "It's a symbol meaning 'always reach higher.' You see, our sun never sets."

Red Cross Over Million Mark in Its Fund Drive

The first million dollars in any campaign, like the first 100 years in any man's life, is the hardest.

James B. Forgan.

The war relief budget drive of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, stepped over this mark yesterday on its way to a $3,750,000 goal, James B. Forgan, general chairman, announced. A gift of $30,000 from Armour & Co. brought the total contributions to $1,082,674.

Employé donations from business and industrial corporations, which are expected to send the total soaring within the next week, will not start to clear to the emergency headquarters in the Borland building until pledge cards, now being distributed thru workers in the industrial division of the drive, have been signed and returned to the plant team captains, Mr. Forgan said. In some plants, this solicitation is already under way, with the objective "one day's pay from those who are working for those who are fighting," he asserted.

All company subscriptions received to date are exclusive of the employé contributions.

The Mercy Hospital auxiliary, 2537 Prairie avenue, has made application to operate as a distinct unit of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. The group intends to meet once a week in this capacity to roll bandages, make layettes, and do any other chore which can be of benefit to the Red Cross.

One of the first projects of the auxiliary will be a drive to raise funds for a complete mobile unit and a blood bank. A defense meeting to make plans for the campaign will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the hospital.

The complete mobile unit will consist of a station wagon fully equipped for emergency service and will be manned by medical personnel of the hospital. Drivers will be volunteers from the auxiliary who will be trained in special first aid courses.

An eye witness account of "Britain and America in the First Year of the War" will be given by Edward R. Murrow, chief of Columbia Broadcasting system's European news staff, tomorrow evening in Orchestra hall. The lecture will point up similarities and contrasts of the allied forces and will tell of England under fire.

The lecture is being sponsored by the Association for Family Living. Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, will introduce Mr. Murrow and conduct a question period following the talk.

29 Women Begin Learning How to Build War Planes

Twenty-nine women poked their legs into work pants at the Chicago Vocational school, 79th street and Anthony avenue, last night and set out to learn the fine points of electric drilling and riveting.

In two weeks, if they pass the course, they will take their place in the airplane wing assembly line at the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, sponsor of the group. Until then the women will report every day at 3 p. m. and work until 9:30 p. m., with a half hour off for lunch.

Harry J. Smith, employment manager of the Pullman company's aircraft division, said the women were selected from more than 500 applicants. Another class will start the course after the present one is graduated.

"You'll notice there are no flappers here," Smith said. "All are more than 24 years old and all have had some kind of factory or mechanical experience. Young girls, unable to stand strenuous labor, will do more good at civilian defense work or with the Red Cross."

Study will include the use of both hand and electric drills, rivet gun and bucking bar, and pinch riveter. The women will step into jobs left vacant by men workers called to army duty.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

Opera Is Sung by Kipnis with Woman's Band

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The always dangerous experiment of bringing theater music into the concert hall—of exchanging a richly equipped and lighted stage for a bare platform—turned out quite well in the case of the excerpts from Mussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff" which Alexander Kipnis and the Woman's Symphony orchestra presented in Orchestra hall last night under Izler Solomon's direction.

One reason for the venture's success was to be found in the quality of the music—so profoundly original, so overwhelming in its power as to need no stage trappings whatever to make its impact felt.

Another was the quality of Kipnis' singing. At the first notes of the music he became, for all practical purposes, Boris himself. It was not as if he were merely imagining what it must be like to have done a murder and to see in the mind's eye the gory corpse of the victim. Rather was it as if he were actually living the czar's experiences, and learning at first hand of the terror and agony of his situation.

To do this and yet maintain the proper esthetic distance—to experience and to contemplate that experience at the same time—is the secret of the greatest interpretative art.

Anticlimax department: Kipnis' performance evoked so much applause that he added the "Song of the Volga Boatmen" as an encore. It was probably done better than Roxy's has ever heard it.

The concert—the last of the season for the Woman's orchestra—programmed also Joseph Wagner's Variations on an Old Form, Randall Thompson's Second Symphony, and Georges Enesco's First Roumanian Rhapsody.

The Wagner piece, which was new to Chicago, would probably have made a better impression if it had not been placed in such close juxtaposition to the Thompson. As it was, the somewhat unsatisfactory quality of its workmanship [or was it the performance?] stood out by reason of its contrast with the patness, neatness, and unpretentiousness of the symphony.

Family Unity Is Strength for the Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Numerous are the proverbs about unity. And national unity is in our consciousness today as, perhaps, never before.

But unity is needed in home life, too. It is needed for the harmony and beauty of home life. It is needed for the happiness of husband and wife, but it is almost a fundamental necessity in the life of a child.

Children bank on us. We are bedrock. If husband and wife are at odds openly and personally, and if they constantly veto each other in the control of the children, the children will suffer for it.

So many mothers [and occasionally fathers] write me about these conflicts. One letter tells how a son of 11 is behaving: Rebellious, undisciplined, selfish. The letter ends:

"I forgot to mention that his father sides with him in everything, permits him to do whatever he likes, and in every way indulges him. He knows no law, no bounds, for his every wish and whim are granted. How can I change my boy and make him see that the life he is leading is not a wholesome one?"

The last question should read: "How can I change his father?" A mother would have to be a superwoman to be able to neutralize an influence such as the father exerts over his son. To be sure, she might make a little impression, but it would be hard going.

When this conflict in ideas and training exists between a man and woman, and the children are showing undesirable results, the real cure for the children's conduct lies in the conduct of the parents.

Decorators' Aid Sought on U. S. Defense Homes

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

The problem of how to furnish 45,000 defense workers' houses in good taste on a limited budget is being put up to the decorators of the country by the Public Buildings administration.

The American Institute of Decorators, now in convention here, has been asked by the PBA to sponsor a nation-wide competition in an effort to arrive at the best interior furnishings plans for these low cost homes.

Prizes amounting to $500 will be given, and the following authorities on decoration, design, and color will serve on the jury: Nancy McClelland, Gladys Miller, Eliel Saarinen, Spence Wilder, Gilbert Underwood, and Frederick Rahr as well as Commissioner W. E. Reynolds of the PBA.

Harry Anderson, editor of Interior Design and Decoration magazine, will announce the plans for the competition today when the members of the American Institute of Decorators hold their meeting at the Drake hotel.

This evening there will be a cocktail party, preceding a dinner, for the members of the institute in the Tower room of the Drake.

The convention will continue thru Saturday.

Thru the Looking Glass

In this new business of keeping our looks tiptop with the minimum expenditure of energy, time, and money we have a sneaking suspicion that women are going to appreciate the economy of the good permanent. By this we mean the permanent that doesn't take out gloss while it puts in curl.

The bargain permanent—the wave that is ridiculously inexpensive—usually is a snare and a delusion. The wave that is worth having is always the wave that's worth paying for. It isn't exactly a speedy operation, this matter of washing, winding, and curling hair, and it stands to reason that anything that must take so much of a beauty operator's time is going to cost a reasonable amount, because the good operator, like any competent workman, must be paid for her time and skill.

The poor permanent, hastily given and by an operator whose skill is questionable, if not nonexistent, may give the woman who gets it some curls or undulations in her hair for a few weeks, but it also gives her hair problems for months and sometimes for years to come. The bad permanent is a stealthy destroyer of hair health. A few bad ones and the whole purpose of these attempts at beautification is completely destroyed!

The good permanent, with a test curl given beforehand, is the kind you can forget about after you have it. Your hair has luster, the wave is soft—and that's what you want!

Women in War Work

—By India Moffett—

[The Women in War Work department will report on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

The Woman's Athletic club is going all-out in its Red Cross efforts and before long even the swimming pool will be in use by women anxious to do relief work. Life saving, of course, will be the instruction given in that department. Mrs. Earle Zimmerman is chairman of the club's Victory unit and Mrs. Fremont Chandler is vice chairman. Serving with them are Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., and Mrs. John C. Slade.

The solarium is to be set aside every day except Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 until 4 o'clock for members and guests to do sewing, and knitting, and make surgical dressings there. This work will start next Monday. There will be a class in first aid on Fridays from 9:30 until 12:30 o'clock in the ballroom, starting this week. This is a 30 hour class, limited to 50. It is probable that there will have to be a second class, for so many women have registered for this course.

The nutrition class also is limited to 50. It will be held on Thursdays from 2 to 4:30 o'clock starting on Jan. 22. Home nursing volunteer students will meet on Mondays from 9:30 until 12 o'clock starting next week.

Every member of the club is being asked to contribute $2 each towards a series of parties for midshipmen. The $2 given by an older woman will provide dinner for a boy and his girl; the same amount contributed by a young woman will pay for dinner for herself and a midshipman. The club has about 1,000 members.

The Lake Shore club Red Cross unit will hold its first anniversary breakfast at 11 a. m. today. Mrs. R. S. Dean, chairman of the unit, explained that the group only met on Thursday at first, but so many women came to "do their bit" that the women now meet every day except Saturday and Sunday. The junior girls have a Saturday group. Plans are also being made for a first aid class.

This is a column for and about women, but we must broaden its scope enough to report that a chiropodist's donation to the Red Cross is one afternoon a week for the care of en's coördinating committee of the not afford the services of a podiatrist. Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer turned in Dr. A. R. Schwartz's "pledge" card.

Stenographers, typists, filing clerks, and other office workers who can volunteer their services for a full day or more are needed by the women's coördinating committee of the Chicago Commission on National Defense. Mrs. William H. Stanley, chairman, has asked that volunteers send postcards to the office at 228 North La Salle street indicating the day or days they would be available.

Mrs. John P. Cohane is asking for volunteer office workers in the Bundles for Bluejackets headquarters at 333 North Michigan avenue. "We have more than 2,000 women knitting for the Bluejackets now, but we do not have enough office help," she said. A woman may hold more than one membership in the Comfort Kit club, also, Mrs. Cohane explained. The membership fee is $1 a year and this supplies a kit to a sailor. The quota is $60,000, which is necessary to provide 5,000 kits a month for navy men leaving this area for active service.

"Please, we need a sewing machine, could you help us?" asks the chairman, Miss Jeanne Korsell, of a brand new Red Cross unit at the American Conservatory of Music, 25 East Jackson boulevard. The members, all students, are non-Chicagoans, so none has a machine. Consequently an old or unused one would be most welcome as a loan. The Kimball company has given a room to the unit and it will be kept open from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. each day. Webster 0520 is the conservatory's telephone number.

Rosary college girls have given up their junior "prom" corsages for defense. Instead their "dates" tomorrow night will be asked to contribute the same amount of money they ordinarily would spend on flowers to a special fund which will be allocated to a defense project by the junior class. One of the slogans advertising the plan runs:

No corsages shows we're trying
To help our country keep 'em flying.

Miss Virginia Carney, prom queen, not only sacrificed her corsage, but also her floral crown.

Chicago members of the American Institute of Decorators, which is holding a conference in Chicago this week, have volunteered to furnish six company recreation rooms at Camp Forrest, Tullahoma, Tenn. The decorators are working under the direction of Mrs. Lydia Lee, Miss D. Lorraine Yerkes, Miss Mabel Schamberg, Miss Cornelia Conger, and J. Winstanley Briggs. Before the decorators volunteered the recreation rooms were bare except for ping-pong tables donated by the Red Cross. The committee hopes to furnish even more than six rooms,' said Miss Yerkes, and will be grateful for donations of sturdy furniture.

Hildegarde, who is singing at the Mayfair room of the Blackstone, is going to work on Tuesdays with the Red Cross unit in the Drake while she is in Chicago. If we could be sure she'd hum "Jenny" or "The Last Time I Saw Paris" as she rolls bandages, we'd join that unit, which starts operating next week. One of Hildegarde's co-workers will be Mrs. Archibald E. Freer, who has an apartment in the Drake Towers, and who during World war I. gave the use of the ballroom in her Lake Shore drive mansion for Red Cross work. Ah, me, those were the good old days, sigh World war II. workers who learned to do war work almost a quarter of a century ago. The pace is faster and the need more vital today than then, those of us who remember those days must remember.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I tap my typewriter keys gently and with hesitation when I start a column on coffee and coffee making. For it seems that there are a lot of coffee making cranks ready to "talk back" to anything they don't agree with. I'm a bit of a coffee making crank myself, perhaps. What is most annoying to me is careless preparation of coffee. I'll readily admit that there is more than one way to make a good brew, but I won't concede that good coffee may be made by haphazard methods.

The old "heaping tablespoonful" is my pet aversion. Measure a couple of heaping tablespoons yourself some time, and then remeasure them by standard methods. This little test will prove how inaccurate such measurement can be. One "heaping tablespoon" may measure 1½ tablespoons, another a little more than two. The difference can be fatal in making a large quantity of coffee.

If you can honestly say that you make good coffee, and make it good every time you make it, you've no need to read further. But if you're one of the multitudes of women who have their coffee making troubles, there may be a hint in these coffee making principles which will prove the key to your difficulties.

PRINCIPLES OF COFFEE MAKING.

1. Use freshly ground coffee every time. It doesn't pay to buy large quantities of coffee at once, for coffee readily loses flavor and aroma once it's opened. Some persons prefer to grind their own coffee fresh. It is less trouble to buy it ready ground.

2. Use the best quality coffee you can afford, and the proper grind for the kind of coffee maker you use. There's a very fine grind for drip and vacuum pots, a medium grind for percolators, and a coarse grind which is best if you make old-fashioned "boiled" coffee. [But don't actually boil it!]

3. Always measure accurately. Standard proportions are 2 level tablespoons of coffee for an 8-ounce cup of water. Measure ½ cup of coffee [8 tablespoons] for a quart of water, and for 2 quarts of water, you'll need a cupful of coffee, or 16 tablespoons. Remember that many of the modern coffee makers hold 6 or 8, or 10 coffee cupfuls, and don't make the mistake of filling your six-cup coffee maker with water and then measuring coffee for six 8-ounce cups when it measures perhaps only four or five standard cupfuls. Test your coffee pot by accurately measuring the amount of water it will hold. After that, you won't need to measure water every time. But you'll always want to measure the coffee!

4. Don't leave hot water in contact with coffee grounds too long, or you'll extract bitter flavor. With most vacuum pots it is best to turn off heat as soon as the water has flooded the upper bowl, letting the brew drip down naturally. Percolated coffee should "perk," usually, for 10 minutes.

5. Coffee should be made fresh every time you wish to drink it.

New Two-Piece Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' COSTUME.

Nothing equals the two-piece dress for practicality and comfort. The version in this pattern is semitailored, dressy enough for all kinds of informal social occasions, and ideal for business wear. There's a variety of buttoning arrangement possible, and the two pieces may match or contrast in woolen or crêpe.

Style No. 3253 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 54 inch material for dress of one material; 2 yards of 39 inch for blouse with three-quarter length sleeves; 1⅞ yards for skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Your War Job.

A young woman, responsible for the support of a little son, has just returned from Fort Knox, where her brother is stationed. With the picture fresh in her memory of the fine young men called to the service of their country she is disturbed about her own part in the war. She is contemplating giving up her job to find something where she can "help."

Because this same question, "Where can I be of most value?" arises in the minds of so many women, perhaps it might be well to analyze it a bit.

First of all, comparatively few women are in business for fun. You just don't sally forth in rain . . . and snow . . . and sleet; you don't hang on a strap . . . or squeeze on to a street car . . . or lurch back and forth on a bus for the joy of it. You are in business for a reason. [It may not be my reason, or the reason of the girl in the next apartment . . . it's your reason, and that's sufficient.]

Reduced to its simplest form, the reason is security. And, as one writer has said: "The job of providing for your own security, for your person and family, is none the easier now that nations are engaged in a war for security."

Here, then, is the first point to consider: Your job of shouldering your own responsibilities. Equally significant is another point to consider: This is a war of production. Any woman trained in business is a producer. Suppose she doesn't produce tanks, and guns, and ships? If she does her job, men are released who do produce tanks, and guns, and ships.

In the meantime, 11 million persons must be housed, clothed, amused, fed, educated, nursed, transported, and served in uncounted thousands of ways.

So, help in your spare time, whenever you can, in whatever way you choose. But remember that [without a visored cap] you can serve your country in an obscure job [without a uniform] in last year's dress pulled at the seams.

Don't [like the young woman who lost sight of the fact she had a little citizen of tomorrow to support and educate] . . . don't lose sight of your individual job, nor of its relation to the great whole: A nation committed to outproducing and defeating Hitler.

Sweet Words.

Sally says:
"The sweetest words of recompense
"Are these three words: 'Spare no expense.'"

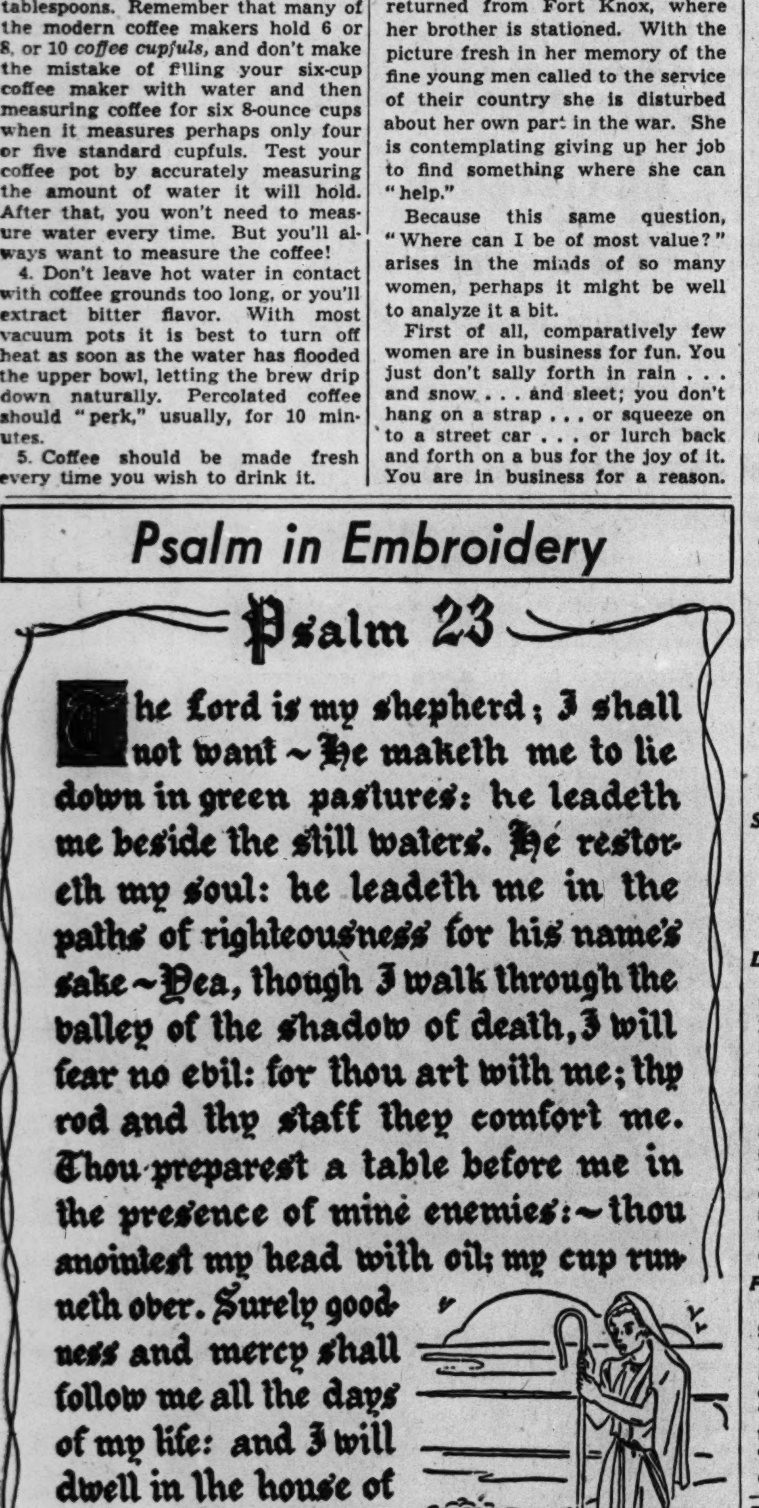
Dead Men's Clothes.

Taking inventory and looking back on last year's sales reminds Dorothy of a slightly grewsome and unsettling incident. Possibly you may not know that some department stores carry a line of "dead men's clothes." They are suits designed for burial, and not, as Dorothy callously quips, for an "active life." Last fall a woman came in the store to buy such a suit. That in itself was not unusual. But—she wanted to buy an extra pair of pants.

Falling in Love.

The statement in a current magazine that business experience on the part of the woman is an ingredient of a happy marriage bears out John Erskine's contention: "The idle . . . the pampered . . . the leisured cannot fall in love. They can only stumble into mischief."

Psalm in Embroidery



BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is the 23d Psalm, which may be embroidered on a white or natural linen background and which, when finished, measures 10 by 15 inches. The hot iron transfer pattern includes detailed illustrations of stitches and complete instructions for making and framing. Started now, it will be ready and waiting for distribution for Easter time.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. E-23, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Housewife

Want to brighten up your kitchen? How about Venetian blinds the slats of which are made of a washable fabric printed in lively designs of little flowers and cups and plates? On white backgrounds, the patterns are in greens, or blues, or reds, and the tapes match. These blinds are easy to manipulate and simple to clean, as the individual slats slip out and can be wiped off with a soapy cloth.

tendants. Ensign and Mrs. Willis will take a southern wedding trip.

Miss Mead's Prenuptial Parties Also Curtailed.

Miss Mead and George W. Merck also found it necessary to limit the parties before their wedding, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock on Saturday in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. Tomorrow night her stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, will give the bridal dinner at the Onwentsia club. The bridal party will return to the Onwentsia the next day for a luncheon which Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Corley and their daughter, Mrs. Joseph C. Sampsell, will give.

Mrs. Sampsell is to be Miss Mead's matron of honor, and Mrs. Howard F. Gillette Jr., Mrs. Garfield King, and Miss Judy Butler will be bridesmaids. Mr. Merck has asked William Cox of Philadelphia, Pa., to be his best man. The bride's brother, Joseph A. Mead, will usher with John Archer of Philadelphia, Howell Murray of Highland Park, and Elliott Dalton of Boston, Mass. Mr. Merck will report for duty after he and his bride have had a 10-day wedding trip.

Miss Jane Talmage Olds to Become Bride Today.

The marriage of Miss Jane Talmadge Olds to Frank Lewis Eldridge Jr. will take place at 4 o'clock today in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church. Later the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter F. Olds, will give a small reception in her home in Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Sr. also reside in the north shore suburb.

The Rev. Samuel D. Harkness will perform the ceremony, and Mellen C. Martin of Winnetka, a college friend of the late Mr. Olds, will give the bride away. Miss Betty Jane Weld of Winnetka will serve as maid of honor. Eugene Eldridge will be his brother's best man. Mr. Eldridge and his bride will drive to Los Angeles, Cal., where they will live.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Thea Ford to John Cother Webb, which is taking place today in Grace church, New York City, is of interest to Chicagoans because Mr. Webb's mother, Mrs. John C. Webb, lives here. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Ford of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., and a granddaughter of the late Mrs. Charles Thea Ford of London, England, and the late Mrs. Inez Dentler of St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. Webb is a grandson of the late John Cother Webb, noted etcher and fellow of the Royal Academy of Arts, and a nephew of Maurice Webb, president of London university.

William B. Renshaws Parents of Second Son.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Renshaw of Chevy Chase, Barrington, are being congratulated on the birth of their second son, John Motty Renshaw, on Jan. 9 at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Renshaw is the former Helen Motty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Motty of Evanston.

Alumnæ of the Dearborn seminary, who always reserve Jan. 17 for their annual meeting, will meet at 12:30 o'clock on Saturday at the Woman's Athletic club.

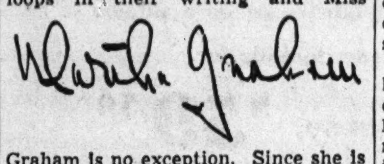
Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Martha Graham's writing has so many interesting points to it that one could use it as an illustration of a dozen or more graphological indications. Dancers invariably have long loops in their writing and Miss



Graham is no exception. Since she is a creative dancer, originating her dances, it is not surprising to find the immense upper loops, also revealing her imagination.

Note the letter "r" whic his larger than any of the other small letters. That tells us that she takes unusual pride and interest in decoration—in jewelry, clothes, backgrounds, etc. Much of her dramatic effect is obtained thru color, too, as shown by the extraordinarily heavy pressure which increases on the curve of the lower part of each stroke.

The swelling on the curved part of a stroke, when the pen point spreads and the ink leaves a wide stroke, always indicates sensuousness—an artist's response to those things which stimulate the senses, beauty or luxury.

Chicago Red Cross Chapter Organization

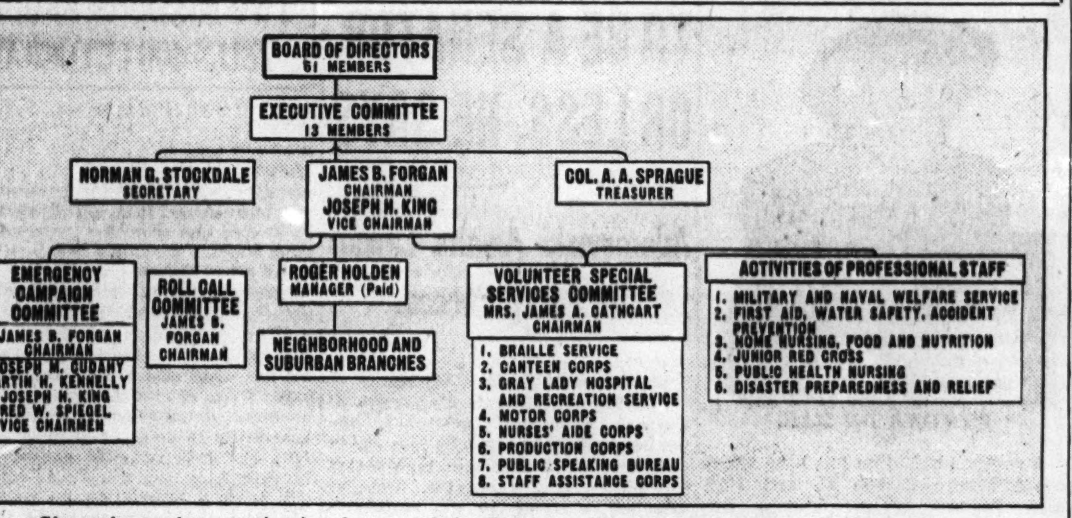

Chart shows the organizational setup of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, which includes Cook and Du Page counties and the southern half of Lake county. The chapter is conducting a drive for $3,750,000 as its share in the national campaign for $50,000,000 for war relief.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Altho duplicate is a splendid game and, over a period of time, a good test of skill, there is no denying that peculiar things can happen. Some of the results shown by the traveling score sheet are hard to reconstruct. On the hand shown below, East and West felt that they had done extremely well in making a nonvulnerable sacrifice against the opponents' four spade bid. To their astonishment they found themselves below average. Almost every South player had reached four spades, right enough, but had failed to make the contract.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 9 6
♥ K J 10 2
♦ 7 5 4
♣ K 10 3

WEST

♦ 10 9 6
♣ J 9 8 5 2

SOUTH
♠ K Q 10 8 5 2
♦ Q
♣ A 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 diamonds	2 spades	3 diamonds
4 spades	5 diamonds	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

West felt that five diamonds, not vulnerable, should be cheaper than permitting the opponents to play their vulnerable four spade contract, and inasmuch as he went down only one trick against the defense that was offered, felt that he had probably taken a "top." Examination of the North-South hands convinced him that four spades, or even five, was virtually a laydown. He was told later, however, that many of the South players "guessed" the heart finesse wrong.

Let us consider how much of a guess the heart finesse really is. The opening lead is, of course, the king of diamonds, followed by the ace. South ruffs and lays down the spade king, West discarding a diamond. East has no reason to hold up the ace, since he has only one more diamond with which to pump the declarer. He wins and leads this diamond. Declarer ruffs again, and is now on an even trump basis with East. He cannot draw the trumps since he may lose the heart finesse and East may have another diamond. But surely there are not two ways to take the heart finesse. If declarer loses the heart queen to East while a trump remains in dummy, no great harm has been done. East cannot return any suit that will injure declarer; a heart return, for instance, cannot be ruffed since West has been shown to have no trumps.

The same cannot be said for a heart finesse taken in the opposite direction. If declarer leads to the king and lets the jack ride on the return, he can see quite clearly that if this loses to the queen another heart lead may be ruffed by the defender who has been shown to hold trumps. Surely this is not a "guess."

Wedding

The marriage of Miss Jean Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Phillips of East 84th street, to Lieut. Robert E. Cassells of Hinsdale will take place at 5:30 o'clock today in the Church of the Messiah. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents. Lieut. Cassells is stationed at an army post, where he and his bride will live.

Chicago's Unit of Red Cross Largest in U. S.

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, the largest chapter in the country, includes Cook and Du Page counties and the southern half of Lake county. Founded June 18, 1915, the chapter today has approximately 270,000 members. James B. Forgan has served as chairman since 1927. He also is an elected member of the central committee of the National Red Cross.

Serving as chapter officers with Mr. Forgan are Joseph H. King, vice chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer, and Norman G. Stockdale, secretary. Roger Holden, appointed manager on Nov. 11, 1939, organizes the neighborhood and suburban branches according to the size of the community. The officers handle the regular finances, but a permanent emergency campaign committee collects funds for disaster and war relief.

Mrs. James A. Cathcart has been reappointed chairman of the volunteer special services committee for 1942, with Mrs. Darrow Fulton and Mrs. Leland K. Neeves as vice chairmen. Heads of the volunteer services follow:

Braille—Mrs. William E. Gimbel, chairman.

Canteen corps—Mrs. Mabel Stern, chairman; Mrs. Martha Von Henke, vice chairman; Mrs. Henrique Crawford, chairman of emergency canteen service.

Gray lady hospital and recreation service—Miss Gladys Cable, chairman; Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Orville Taylor, vice chairmen.

Motor corps—Miss Harriet McLaughlin, chairman; Mrs. Alan Dixon and Miss Marie Swift, vice chairmen.

Nurse's aid corps—Mrs. Irene Sidley, chairman; Mrs. Julia Adams, Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps, and Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor, vice chairmen.

Production corps—Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman.

Public speaking bureau—Mrs. King Mitchell, chairman; Mrs. Lester Abelson, vice chairman; Mrs. Charles Krutckoff, chairman of production corps speakers; Mrs. Ruth Ruvell, chairman of Junior Red Cross speakers.

Staff assistance corps—Mrs. Farwell Winston, chairman; Miss Margot Atkin and Mrs. Lee McCue, vice chairmen.

Only the manager, the roll call and public information staff, and the professional staff in charge of chapter activities receive salaries. Directors of these activities are Philip W. Dodd, roll call; Miss Marie Youngberg, military and naval welfare service; D. Melville Carr, first aid, water safety, accident prevention; Mrs. Estelle Weltman Blatt, home nursing, food and nutrition; Miss Ethel Benson, Junior Red Cross; Mrs. Holden, disaster preparedness and relief.

Public health nursing is limited to Oak Park and River Forest, in accordance with Red Cross policy not to duplicate existing services. Dr. Harry John Stewart is volunteer chairman of a staff of paid nurses.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

"Ten to one your guests haven't met this before," says Mrs. E. C. Chittenden, 428 East Chicago street, Elgin, Ill. Her prize winning recipe is a grapefruit and crabmeat cocktail, and it is different. A $5 prize is Mrs. Chittenden's reward for sending the recipe to the Tribune's daily contest.

Send your own best recipe to Recipe contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Maybe it, too, will win a $5 prize!

GRAPEFRUIT AND CRABMEAT COCKTAIL.

[Serves six.]

1 can grapefruit sections
1 small can crabmeat
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons catsup
1 drop tabasco sauce

Chill grapefruit and crabmeat in cans. Drain fruit and flake fish. Alternate the two in cocktail glasses. Mix other ingredients and pour a small amount over each cocktail just before serving.

Save this for your scrapbook.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

Our nation's Victory Program necessitates good nutrition. You can do your part by cooking meats in such a way as to conserve their full food value and flavor. To keep precious juices from evaporating, cook meats at low temperatures. Wilson's GelaSeald fresh beef, lamb and veal have all their freshness and juiciness sealed in with a thin coating of crystal-clear edible gelatin. This protects meats as they cook—keeps them juicy and flavorful, and ends by enriching the gravy.

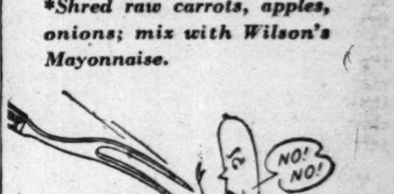
THRIFTY ROAST OF GelaSeald VEAL

Have pocket cut in a 4-pound piece of breast of Wilson's Gela Seald Veal. Season inside with salt and pepper, stuff with your favorite stuffing, and skewer. Rub outside with a paste made of 1 tsp. sage, 1 tbsp. each of sugar and prepared mustard, 3 tbsp. vinegar, 2 tsp. salt and ¼ cup water.

Place on rack in open roasting pan. Add 1 cup hot water to pan, for basting. Roast uncovered at 300° F., for 2 hours. Make gravy of pan drippings.

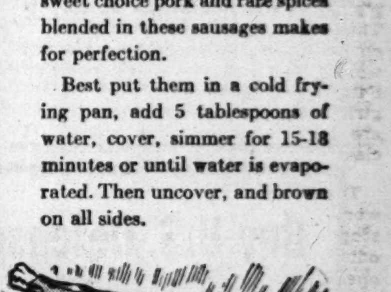
Shred raw carrots, apples, onions; mix with Wilson's Mayonnaise.



DON'T DO THAT TO SAUSAGES!

Don't have pan hot. Don't prick sausages. Don't expect to find in any other sausage the rich flavor you get in Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausages. I know my sausages! And the sweet choice pork and rare spices blended in these sausages makes for perfection.

Best put them in a cold frying pan, add 5 tablespoons of water, cover, simmer for 15-18 minutes or until water is evaporated. Then uncover, and brown on all sides.



GELASEALD FRESH LAMB
You can tell Wilson's Gela Seald meats by the sparkling, transparent coating of gelatine that seals out dust and dirt and seals in freshness.

You'll find all Wilson GelaSeald meat—fresh beef, lamb, and veal—extra juicy, extra delicious. The gelatine protects the meat as it cooks, enriches the gravy.

• • •

Rector Recommends the following cuts from Wilson's GelaSeald Lamb: shanks, neck slices, stews—all good sources of B vitamins, proteins and minerals.

See you next week. G. R.

SENATE PASSES HEALTH AND TIRE THEFT MEASURES

Legislature Is Expected to Adjourn Today.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15 [Thursday].—Legislation decks were almost cleared early today for sine die adjournment of the legislature's special defense session later this morning.

The senate completed work at a postmidnight session, and the house will convene for the last time later this morning.

Final action in the senate included approval of three bills, two constituting what remains of the Green administration's health program, and would permit establishment of special health zones near cantonments and punish handlers of germ cultures who use them harmfully.

The third measure approved provides a 1 to 10 year penalty for persons convicted of stealing auto tires.

All Votes Unanimous.

All three bills were passed by votes of 37 to 0.

Administration forces took their final defeat in the house, failing to pass the $625,000 appropriation which would have provided money for the defense zone health departments near cantonments. Only 69 of the 102 votes necessary for passage were mustered.

This action, coupled with senate defeat of Gov. Dwight Green's $3,000,000 contingent fund measure late last night, swept the last important bills in the administration's program from the calendar. A $50,000 appropriation for the Illinois Aeronautics commission remains for consideration by the house.

Leaves Two Major Gains.

The final blow to the governor's plans leaves him, however, with two major session accomplishments—doubling the Illinois reserve militia, which now has about 5,000 officers and men, and a $750,000 appropriation for the state council of defense.

As a prelude to adjournment, Lieut. Gov. Hugh W. Cross loosed his verbal guns on the Democrats last night, charging that their opposition to a substantial part of the administration constituted sabotage.

"Gov. Green asked for unity and all out preparedness," Cross declared. "A substantial part of his program was sabotaged. Let us hope that no emergency may arise and that life and property within the state may not be jeopardized. If one single life is lost in Illinois as a result of the defeat of the governor's program, public opinion will hold accountable those who opposed this program."

Assails Petty Politics.

Cross reviewed Green's telegram to President Roosevelt after Pearl Harbor when he pledged the entire resources of Illinois toward the war effort and in support of the President. Speaking of the call for the special session, the lieutenant governor continued:

"It seemed that there could be no politics with a Republican administration in Illinois seeking to cooperate with our President. Nevertheless, from the hour that the session was convened, petty party politics was injected by the Democratic party to a degree that has been seldom witnessed in legislative halls.

"The Democratic party, in order to save face, may allege that by the defeat of a part of the program they saved the people of Illinois millions of dollars. However, the record is written. The record shows that monies asked for by the governor were limited specifically for public health, for the protection of life and property in the war defense program, and for expenses if disaster, epidemics, or calamities should arise."

Elgin Editor Announces Candidacy for Legislature

Walter T. Woodcock, editor and publisher of the Elgin Tribune, a weekly newspaper, last night announced his candidacy for state representative of the 14th senatorial district on the Republican ticket. The 14th district covers Kane and Kendall counties, including Elgin and Aurora. Woodcock received 33,000 votes two years ago when he ran as an independent for congressman in the 11th district.

Seeks a Writ

WINONA DU ZAN.

A contempt citation has been asked by Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker against Duane DuZan, 27 years old, a salesman, who last Saturday took his two children, Duané Jr., 5, and Daniel, 1, from the home of his estranged wife, Winona, 23, of 829 Lawrence avenue.

Mrs. DuZan filed suit for divorce Nov. 21, charging cruelty. DuZan subsequently took the children into Indiana despite a legal order that he not leave the jurisdiction of the court. He was arrested shortly thereafter while telephoning his wife near her home, and Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch ordered him to surrender the children, which he did.

Last Saturday he got them in his wife's absence on pretense that he wanted to take them for a walk. Sunday Mrs. DuZan received a letter informing her that she would "never see them again." Her attorneys asked Judge Lynch for a writ of attachment for DuZan's arrest. Judge Lynch issued this, setting bond at $5,000, and also set a hearing on the contempt petition. DuZan has been living at 1402 Carmen avenue.

Mrs. DuZan's attorneys said also that they will seek an immediate divorce and will ask that Mrs. DuZan be given full custody of her children, with DuZan being denied any rights to their care.

PAROLEE FACES THREE CHARGES; FOURTH OFFENSE

The grand jury wasted no time yesterday on Lawrence [Willie] Johnson, 49 years old, who was reported named in three true bills charging robbery and burglary, with habitual criminal counts, only a few minutes after he had been held for jury action by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court.

Johnson, a thrice paroled convict, whose criminal record dates from 1914, was seized Dec. 24 with stolen goods in his possession. On Dec. 29 he escaped from the Englewood police lockup. He was recaptured Tuesday in a lumber yard at 45th street and Emerald avenue.

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Englewood station told Judge Dougherty that Johnson picked his cell lock with a hairpin, and that he had boasted he could escape from any jail or prison. Judge Dougherty ordered him searched.

DOUGLAS WILLING TO BE A SENATOR, OR LESS, HE SAYS

Adamowski Awaits Lineup of Party Forces.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Ald. Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago economics professor, announced yesterday that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Douglas attached a string to his announcement. He will withdraw, he said, if a better Democratic candidate enters the field. This leaves the way open for a strategic retreat or, as war dispatches say, a movement to prepared positions in the rear.

Benjamin S. Adamowski, former floor leader in the house at Springfield, yesterday confirmed rumors that he is eager to enter the same race. Despite his youth [he is 35] Adamowski is well versed in politics and there was no coyness in his refusal to make a formal declaration of candidacy. Regular Democratic organization support probably will be necessary to win and Adamowski in times past has battled the Kelly-Nash group.

Depends on Local Situation.

"I'm as anxious as any one in the state—more anxious—to be the Democratic candidate for senator," he explained. "I'll say that I'm very available. However, my plans will be governed by the local situation and everything else."

Adamowski, who teamed up with former Gov. John Stelle in the 1940 race for the senatorial-gubernatorial nominations, met defeat then.

But Douglas' announcement, since he has no promise of organization support, does not affect Adamowski's plans, the former legislator said. Both of these Democrats have vociferously supported the Roosevelt foreign policies, and both regard that as a point in their favor.

Douglas received a delegation headed by Edwin Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, as the lever for his start. They asked him for permission to circulate nominating petitions in his behalf [which has been going on for several days] and he assented.

Willing to Serve Elsewhere.

"If it should seem that another can fill the place of senator better, or that I can serve more humbly but no less effectively elsewhere, I know you will want me to do that," the alderman told his callers. "If you believe I can do best as a senator I am happy to let you try to make me one."

State's Attorney Courtney was not moved to comment by these developments. He still is regarded as a possible entrant in the senatorial campaign.

Denison B. Hull, architect and organizer of the Chicago branch of the Fight for Freedom committee, said yesterday that he will send out an announcement of his candidacy as an opponent of Rep. Stephen A. Day for the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large.

AMERICA AT WAR HAS TWO MISSIONS, BROOKS TELLS 400 LUTHERANS

The United States at war has twin missions: to see that victory is achieved and to make sure that the liberties of the citizen, many now given of necessity to the government, will be returned intact. This view was expressed last night by Senator Wayland Brooks, speaking before 400 lay and clerical delegates to the Lutheran Augustana Synod in the Immanuel church at 1510 Elmdale avenue.

"The question is whether we can win and hold the kind of government we have had and loved," the senator said. "We cannot complain of government domination in war time. The thing to do is to guide it, if we can, not criticising it except when necessary, so that when war ends we will have a foundation on which to continue the progress made in the past.

"Our people, facing their greatest ordeal, are more united than ever before. We are one in our love of the kind of government that lets us worship as we please and stand equal before the law. Our people came from the four corners of the earth in search of liberty and now we are setting out to establish that liberty in all the world."

G. O. P. SUPPORTS C. H. THOMPSON FOR HIGH COURT

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14 [Special].—Sen. Charles H. Thompson of Harrisburg, a candidate for the Republican nomination for justice of the Illinois Supreme court in the first [southern Illinois] district, was endorsed by his Republican colleagues in the state senate today. In a resolution adopted in caucus, the GOP members commended Thompson to the first district electorate as "the type of man who is needed upon the supreme bench of Illinois."

The resoluation was signed by Sen. Simon E. Lantz, Congerville, chairman of the caucus, and Charles F. Carpentier, East Moline, secretary, as well as by Lieut. Gov. Hugh W. Cross, president of the senate. The first district is now represented on the high bench by Justice Paul Farthing of Belleville, who was elected in 1933 and is completing his first term.

Gets 2.72 Carat Diamond with Bogus $1,792 Check

Mac D. Mallen, a jeweler at 55 East Washington street, reported to police yesterday that a young man came to his store on Dec. 23 and selected a 2.72 carat diamond ring, saying he wanted it for a young woman. He returned the next day, tendered a check for $1,792 marked certified, and received the ring. A few days later the check was returned to Mallen as no good.

GREAT LAKES DEFEATS NORTHWESTERN, 47-38

PERRY BEATS KOVACS FOR 1ST VICTORY; RIGGS WINS

FRED DROPS SET, THEN RALLIES IN PRO MATCH

Bobby Whips Budge Before 4,500.

BY WILLIAM FAY.
(Picture on page 23.)

Forty-five hundred fans last night saw more good tennis, and entertaining tennis—the professional brand—than they ever had seen before in Chicago Stadium—even in the old days when Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and Henri Cochet were making their professional debuts. Last night's cast in order of appearance:

Frank Kovacs, the smiling hero.

Fred Perry, the villain who beat the smiling hero in the opening match, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4.

Don Budge, the heavy, at 200 pounds, plus.

And Bobby Riggs, the little man, who beat Budge, 6-3, 6-3, and increased his lead in the pros' 80 city round robin tour.

Riggs' victory was his ninth against four defeats. Kovacs holds second place with seven triumphs and five losses, followed by Budge [6-6] and Perry [1-8].

Perry's the Best Fighter.

The best player of the court last night was Riggs, the 1941 amateur champion. Bobby had everything—direction, depth, and, when he needed it, speed that approximated the power generated by Budge's backhand. But for fight you have to award the evening's honors to Perry. Fred hadn't won a match in eight tries when he went out against Kovacs—and there was nothing in his play in the first set to suggest his ninth evening was going to be any different from the previous eight.

But Perry finally got his slap forehand working in the second set. He opened a 3-1 lead and that gave him confidence. Soon his backhand—never his strongest weapon even in the days when he swept the American and Wimbledon championships—was winning points, too. Not in boom-boom Kovacs fashion—Perry couldn't slam the ball away from deep court—but Fred scored again and again with short, angled backhands that left Kovacs stranded.

Scores Decisive Point.

One point in the decisive ninth game of the third set really won the match for Perry. Fred smashed on game point but the ball spun crazily off the wood of his racket and fell just over the net in Kovacs' court. Back spin carried the ball almost in the net, but Kovacs dove and dropped the ball at Perry's feet. Fred lifted a shallow lob over Frank's head for the placement which broke Kovacs' serve. Perry then held his own delivery to win.

Riggs and Budge battled evenly to 3-3 in the first set, then Bobby began to get better direction in his cross court backhands. He repeatedly pulled Don in close, then drove deep placements to Budge's forehand corner to win 6-3.

Riggs Outsteadies Budge.

Budge might have won any or all of the last three games had he smashed with more finality. He dumped two overheads into the net at crucial moments—and they weren't particularly difficult overheads, either.

The second set was an encore. Riggs outsteadied Budge from back court and, when Budge tried to carry the offensive into the net, Riggs dropped soft backhands at Don's feet. Bobby broke Don's service in the eighth game to lead 5-3 and went out on service with the loss of only one point, 6-3.

Perry and Budge teamed in the windup doubles to beat Riggs and Kovacs, 6-1, 7-5.

9:30 p. m.—Hoppe vs. Rubin.

Ralph Greenleaf of New York, many times pocket billiard champion, making his first bid for world three cushion honors, complicated his task last night by losing his third tournament game to Earle Lookabaugh of Chicago, 50 to 38, in 46 innings. Greenleaf had won his first two starts in the tournament which is being conducted in the Morrison hotel.

Fitzpatrick Beats Rubin.

Greenleaf's loss dropped him to fourth place and gave exclusive rights to first place to the Mexican star, Joe Chamaco, who won his third straight game in the afternoon at the expense of Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 30, in 35 innings.

In the second game last night Art Thurnblad surprised Jake Schaefer by winning, 50 to 48, in 45 innings.

The opening contest of the afternoon went to John Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles, who rallied in the late innings to pass Arthur Rubin of New York. Fitzpatrick won, 50 to 44, in 50 innings.

Greenleaf Off Form.

Greenleaf was the heavy favorite over Lookabaugh last night, Earle having lost his first three matches. It soon became evident, however, that Greenleaf was playing below the par of his first two games.

HIS MOTTO FOR SILVER SKATES IS TRY, TRY AGAIN

Allen Becker Is Out to Win in Midget Division.

Allen Becker believes in the adage of try, try again. Last year this youngster from the George F. Barrett Skating club fell a few feet from the finish line. Instead of becoming champion of all boys under 12 years of age, he was second.

Becker was then only 10 years old so he's still eligible for the midget race. This time he believes he'll come thru the preliminary races Saturday and continue on to win a pair of Silver Skates in the championship race Sunday afternoon.

Arrangements have been completed for the races which will be held on the Garfield park lagoon. Ice is nearly 18 inches thick in places or practically double the thickness required for safety so that moderating temperatures this week-end cannot prevent the 25th Derbies from being held.

Four Preliminaries Saturday.

Preliminaries will be held Saturday in four age classes which comprise more than half of the 2,900 entries. Races will be held in the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, boys' junior and girls' junior age classes. All these contestants are under 16 years of age.

These skaters will report to the clerks Saturday between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. The first preliminary race will start at 2 o'clock. Each contestant will receive a bronze souvenir button and each winner of a preliminary race will be given a gold medal.

Preliminaries in the other four Derbies — boys' intermediate, men's senior, girls' intermediate and senior classes—will be held Sunday. These contestants may report between 10 a. m. and 12 o'clock. The first race will start at 1 p. m. Qualifiers from Saturday's races also must check in with the clerks. By midafternoon semi-finals, if necessary, will have been completed and the first of the eight championship races will be held.

Close Battle for Trophy Ahead.

The battle for the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy is expected to be closely fought with the Northwest Skating club and the CYO in the lead. One of the leading rivals of Becker in the midget group is Arthur Conroy Jr., 10 year old son of a former Silver Skates winner. Conroy Sr. won the boys' junior and intermediate championships. He scored his victory in the junior Derby in 1927 and two years later won the intermediate race. Young Arthur hopes to better his dad's record.

He's Determined

Minnesota to Fete Bierman on Departure

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 14 (AP).—The pace of sports champions toward the war front, stepped up by Joe Louis' joining the army, is about to be further accelerated from this sector.

The coach of the nation's top football team—the University of Minnesota—takes off late this week and baseball's batting champion is set for a quick call.

This is one way of saying that Bernie Bierman, Minnesota's head coach, checks in at Quantico, Va., marine barracks Sunday, and that Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox's king of batsmen with a 1941 average of .406, already has passed his physical examination preparatory to army duty.

Dinner for Bierman.

Veteran of the first World war, Coach Bierman faces a flurry of excitement and ceremony before he leaves Saturday night. A victory testimonial dinner, set for Friday night even before the Pearl Harbor challenge, assumes more significance than mere jollification over Bierman's gridiron glory and a 17 game Minnesota winning streak.

This event, originally scheduled as the last and greatest of the round of dinner celebrations since the football season ended almost two months ago, thus provides opportunity for a final toast to the man the United States marines decided they need. Bierman, who served with the marines in the first World war, has been a major in the reserves.

An hour before the Minnesota coach departs he formally will receive a champion's honor. On behalf of the Gophers Bierman will accept an award emblematic of the national football championship. This honor, based on the Associated Press poll, oddly is being presented for the first time by the University of Minnesota thru its "M" club.

Off to the Wars.

After the presentation before 15,000 or so basketball fans in the Minnesota fieldhouse, it'll be off to the wars for the gray thatched coach. The marine call specifies active duty. Bierman already has passed a preliminary test. More exacting examinations will follow at Quantico.

Bierman's summons marks another gridiron coaching loss for the duration. Other coaches previously called include Maj. Bob Neyland of Tennessee, Maj. Emory [Swede] Larson of Navy, Maj. Lawrence [Biff] Jones of Nebraska, and Maj. Pat Hanley of Boston university.

CALIHAN LEADS SAILOR FIVE TO 14TH TRIUMPH

Victory Dedicates New Drill Hall.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Bob Calihan, a Chicago lad who wrote basketball history at the University of Detroit, led a sailor quintet which torpedoed Northwestern university last night, 47 to 38, at Great Lakes. Thus the naval training station squad, in winning its 14th victory in 16 games, made the evening a complete success for 5,000 sailors who watched the dedicatory contest in the new drill hall and gymnasium in Camp Barry.

Calihan, with eight field goals and three free throws, was the offensive star, but the Wildcats' defeat can't be charged in any way to Russ Wendland. The sharp dribbling Northwestern guard almost held to Calihan's pace with seven field goals and one free throw.

Just What Navy Ordered.

The game was just what the navy ordered for such an auspicious occasion. Northwestern opened an early lead of six points, but trailed 19 to 17 at the intermission. Then the advantage changed six times before the Sailors forged ahead, 26 to 25. Even then the Wildcats were very much in the game until the final three minutes when a scoring burst by Ernie Andres, one time Indiana star; Frank Baumholtz of Ohio university, and Calihan placed the decision beyond reach.

The Sailors whooped it up all the way. While Coach Dutch Lonborg and the Wildcat players, K. L. Wilson, Northwestern's director of athletics, and the other members of the Wildcats' staff of coaches may not have relished defeat, the whole added to a celebration none will ever forget.

Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the station and the 9th naval district, spoke briefly between the halves. His remarks ranged from sincere thanks to Northwestern for participating in the ceremonies to brief appraisal of the contribution athletics has made to the nation.

Traces Confidence to Sports.

"The spirit of team play," Adm. Downes concluded, "the sportsmanship, courage, and confidence in victory can be traced to sports and fair competition."

Adm. Downes was introduced by Capt. T. D. Witt Carr, executive officer of the station.

Wendland opened the scoring from under the backboard after a short pass from Henry Clason, but Frank Baumholtz tied it immediately for the Sailors. Then the Wildcats drove ahead to a 13 to 7 lead. Otto Graham, leading scorer of the Big Ten, got one of his two field goals during this time.

Navy took time out and replaced Dick Klein and Baumholtz with Calihan and John Lobsiger, former University of Missouri star. Calihan, Andres, and Forrest Anderson, Stanford university, smoothed the Sailors' attack and earned a tie at 13 to 13. The lead alternated and the score again was tied at 15 all before the half time mark of 19 to 17 in favor of the Navy.

Wildcats Take 20-19 Lead.

Graham counted a point on George Rung's foul to open the second half and Henry Clason's side shot sent Northwestern ahead 20 to 19. Klein was back in the Navy lineup at forward and he and Calihan matched field goals with Clason and Wendland until Calihan scored three times in succession for a 28 to 25 lead for the Sailors.

Northwestern later was behind 37 to 34 when the Sailors' sharpshooters put on their brilliant scoring exhibition in the closing minutes.

Among the civilian guests at the dedication in addition to newspaper men were George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, and Mrs. Halas; Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference, and Mrs. Griffith, and Nick Kearns, Big Ten official.

NAVY AIR CORPS DEFERS MICHIGAN TRACK CAPTAIN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 14 [Special].—Alfred [Bud] Piel, captain of the Michigan track team, said tonight that he had been given an extension of time by the navy department and as a result will not have to report for active duty tomorrow.

Piel, a senior from Indianapolis who joined the navy air corps last fall, had previously announced he would be sworn in tomorrow in Chicago. However, the new orders make it possible for him to complete his college course and compete in both indoor and outdoor conference track meets this year.

MAXIN IS READY FOR BECKWITH BOUT TOMORROW

Joe Seeks 12th Victory in 13 Matches.

Joe Maxin, Cleveland sharpshooter, yesterday was pronounced ready for the second biggest test of his one year professional career—a 10 round bout with Booker Beckwith in the Coliseum tomorrow.

Maxin, who gained recognition as seventh foremost light heavyweight contender following his defeat on Dec. 1 of Red Burman, concluded workouts yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium by going two rounds with Henry Leslie, west side amateur heavyweight.

Won 11 of 12 Bouts.

Maxin has won all except one of his 12 appearances as a money fighter and is supremely confident of dealing Beckwith his second defeat in 18 starts. In making this prediction Joe maintains he possesses more experience than Beckwith despite his brief pro campaign because he started boxing when only 12 years old. That would be in 1935, when he told AAU officials he was 16 years old, the minimum age for an amateur boxer.

Joe opened his career as a flyweight and then fought as a bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight, welterweight, middleweight, light heavyweight, and heavyweight. Thus he has competed in eight weight division. Three of the Cleveland youngster's victims are heavyweights. These are Burman, Oliver Shanks, and Bill Petersen. For Shanks, whom he knocked out in five rounds, Maxin weighed 178 pounds, three more than the light heavyweight limit.

Wins AAU Trophy.

Before entering the pro field 12 months ago, Maxin was awarded a trophy by the Ohio association of the AAU as the best of all the amateur athletes of 1940. This recognition was given the personable Italian American lad because of his ability to win four championships that year—the Cleveland Plain Dealer's Golden Gloves sectional 160 pound title, the Chicago Tournament of Champions medal, the National AAU title, and the New York-Chicago intercity Golden Gloves medal.

During his six years as an amateur, Maxin participated in 140 bouts, few of which he lost. During 1939 and 1940 he scored 69 consecutive victories. This string was snapped by Charley Hayes, who was eliminated in the 1940 Tournament of Champions competition, in a match in Detroit.

Wednesday Is Golden Gloves Entry Deadline

Entries for the Chicago Golden Gloves tournaments will close next Wednesday at midnight. This applies to all boxers, for both novice and open division contestants will appear in the two sectional meets.

The deadline Wednesday will be followed by the final preliminary examination Friday evening, Jan. 23, in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. From this examination, and the two preceding it, will come the list of contestants for the bouts in the St. Sabina gymnasium and in Loyola university gymnasium.

The south side tournament will be held Jan. 26, 27, and 28. The Loyola tournament is scheduled for Jan. 28, 29, and 30. At the conclusion of these bouts there will be novice and open division champions at both centers. These will meet for Chicago titles in the Coliseum Feb. 12.

Reserved seats for the 16 Chicago championship bouts may be ordered now by mail. Tickets are $1.65. Address requests to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

De Kalb Takes Hialeah $5,000 Opening Stake

Miami, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP).—William Hirschensohn's De Kalb streaked to a surprise victory by a length in the $5,000 Inaugural handicap today as a brightly garbed crowd of 16,533 set an opening day attendance record at Hialeah Park.

Breaking on top under the skilled handling of Jockey Basil James, De Kalb barely outlasted the closing rush of Maxwell Howard's The Chief. Sheriff Culkin, second favorite, took third place over Sweet Willow, the public's choice.

De Kalb Pays $13.30.

The triumph, achieved over a six furlong distance in 1:11 4-5, was worth $13.30 to those who put $2 on De Kalb to win. Place and show prices were $7.90 and $6. The Chief returned $11.20 and $6.70, while Sheriff Culkin's performance was measured at $4.70 for a show ticket.

The gay throng was startled by the defeat of Louis Tufano's stake performer, Market Wise, in the secondary feature—a $1,500 seven furlong event for older horses. The conqueror of Whirlaway finished a fast closing fourth to Allesandro, which won by a length over Aboyne with Llanero third. There were nine in the field.

Record Opening Day Crowd.

The crowd—exceeding the previous opening day high of 16,294 in 1941—was larger than even Hialeah officials had anticipated. Miami's other track, Tropical Park, which closed a 21 day meeting yesterday, felt the pinch of the war and other disturbing influences and had a drop from last year both in attendance and betting. Tropical Park's attendance totaled 146,477 for a daily average of 6,975, against an average of 7,898 during the 16 day meeting a year ago. The average daily betting total dropped from the $281,688 of a year ago to $268,965.

LOGAN SQUARE BUICKS TAKE 1ST IN WOMEN'S MEET

The Logan Square Buicks became candidates for medals and the team title by rolling a 2,680 scratch total last night in the women's city bowling tournament at Queen recreation. Their handicap gave them 2,845, or third place. Schamberger Schlitz took second place with a 2,865 total including handicap.

The leaders [scores including handicaps]:

REGULAR DIVISION—Teams: Joe Higgins' tavern, 2,946; Schaberger Schlitz, 2,865; *Logan Square Buicks, 2,845; Lincolnshire Country club, 2,844; Clark Bowling Shoes, 2,837. Singles: Rose Pluzinski, 548; Blanche Lacey, 530; *Evelyn Grunland, 524; Avian Reinemeyer, 523; Nina Matthews, 517.

*Rolled high scratch totals.

The Eden Insurance team rolled the league's record game and series when it fired a 3,251 total on games of 1067, 1120 and 1064 in the Ted Lyons Major league last night. Incidentally it won three games from the Holly Red Hots. Fred Fikejs led the Edens with a 224, 243, 235—702 count. Ad Plunge had 657, Rudy Konar 654, Barney Grogan 623, and Alex Arvia 615. The Schneider Funerals cut the Phil Smidt's lead from six games to three games by winning three from the leaders.

LOUIS THERE, BUT SOLDIERS CHEER JOE, THE BAKER

Camp Upton, N. Y., Jan. 14 [Special].—Joe Louis played second fiddle to a cook named Joe Vernucio today as far as the troops stationed at this army induction center were concerned.

Scores of them milled around outside the receiving depot where Louis and several hundred other recruits were being welcomed into the army and detailed to their respective companies.

Suddenly, the cry went up: "Here comes Joe! Here he comes, gang! Here's Joe!"

You would've thought he was Gen. MacArthur, or some other conquering hero come home, the way the boys received him and so a soldier near by was asked, "Who is that?"

The soldier replied, "That's Joe. . . . Joe Vernucio. . . . The best dam' cook in the whole army!"

Louis came out shortly afterward and somberly trudged off to fall into line with 14 other colored recruits in front of the next building, labeled "Opry House." An M. P. marched alongside him, and that might've been the reason why very little comment was heard from the troops who lined his path. There was one cry: "Look out for the hook!" meaning Joe's left, but that was all.

COURT REFUSES TO HALT ZIVIC, ROBINSON BOUT

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valentine today denied a motion for a temporary injunction to restrain Promoter Mike Jacobs from holding the welterweight fight Friday between Ray Robinson and Fritzie Zivic at Madison Square Garden.

The injunction was sought by Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, who contended that Robinson agreed to fight Marty Servo for him before appearing in New York.

CAMP GRANT AND FORT SHERIDAN BOXERS CLASH

Meet in Return Amateur League Match Tonight.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

A Camp Grant team will meet Fort Sheridan representatives in a Chicagoland Amateur Boxing league match tonight in the post gymnasium at Fort Sheridan. It will be a return meeting, Camp Grant having beaten the soldier fighters from the far north side, 5 to 3, in a previous interclub show at Camp Grant on Nov. 17 after a bitter struggle.

Because only two of the contestants who participated in that event are scheduled to appear in the encore this evening, the result may be different. The two who fought on the earlier league card are Jack McClintock, Fort Sheridan lightweight, and Ralph Lopez of Camp Grant. On that occasion McClintock scored a close decision. They will meet in a return engagement tonight.

Other Camp Grant Battlers.

Other Camp Grant standard bearers are Wayne Balcon, flyweight; Richard Vaccaro, featherweight; Johnny Cyb, lightweight; Corp. Arnold Thumlert, welterweight; George Hackie and Corp. Jesse Swan, middleweights, and Tom Partridge, light heavyweight.

In addition to McClintock, Fort Sheridan's representatives are George McLaughlin, James Holliday, Sergt. Walter Fuchs, Martin Lev, Corp. Stanley Bator, Sergt. Fred Cinereski, and Sergt. Arnold Terbush. The card includes the following:

Fuchs vs. Cyb, Holliday vs. Vaccaro, McClintock vs. Lopez, Bator vs. Hackie, Cinereski vs. Swan, and McLaughlin vs. Balcon.

Camp Grant will be fighting for a share of the league championship with Catholic Youth organization, only unbeaten team in the league and now in undisputed possession of first place. The army boxers from Rockford are second because of a defeat they suffered at the start of the league season three months ago at the hands of the CYO. If Camp Grant wins tonight its squad will retain a chance to share the trophy.

Battle to 4 to 4 Draw.

For this to result, however, the CYO must lose to Savoy Athletic club in the final league card in CYO center gymnasium tomorrow. These rivals battled to a 4 to 4 draw in an earlier match. The Savoys are in third place as a result of having scored three victories and one tie, while losing two decisions.

Camp Grant has gained four triumphs, two deadlock decisions, and one setback, while the CYO has registered five victories and two ties.

Prizes for entrants in the 11th Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament in the IAC gymnasium, 112 South Michigan avenue, have been announced by Johnny Behr, IAC sports director. The event will open Jan. 20. Semi-finals and finals will be held Jan. 21. The eight 1942 champions and runnersup will receive wrist watches. Other awards include a team trophy to be presented to the club scoring the most points. Each winner will record 5 points, each runnerup, 3, and each losing semi-finalist 1 point. Application blanks may be obtained at the IAC, the CYO, and the Central AAU.

BERG'S LINGUAL TALENTS TURNED TO COUNTRY'S AID

Inter-American Affairs Get Diamond Scholar.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 14 (AP).—Major league baseball lost its most famous student, linguist, and world traveler to the government today when Morris [Moe] Berg received his unconditional release from the Boston Red Sox to join the staff of Nelson A. Rockefeller, coördinator of Inter-American affairs.

Master of nine foreign languages, Berg will assume the rôle of a good will ambassador to Central and South America, where his fluencies in Spanish and Portuguese and his keen grasp of Pan-American problems will be utilized best.

Berg, who has been hailed as professor by his diamond colleagues for years, never has ceased being an enigma to most of them, for most of his nonworking habits were in direct contrast to theirs.

He Prefers Baseball.

When he was not attending to his New York law practice during the off season he was studying some intricate international problem in some far part of the world.

Many times since he was graduated with high honors from Princeton and broke into baseball as a shortstop with the Brooklyn Dodgers, he has received attractive business and legal offers which he rejected because, he explained, "I would rather be a ball player than a bank president or a judge."

Berg was studying at the Sorbonne in Paris in 1924 when the Brooklyn club invited him to its spring training camp. He accepted by cable, for he planned to use his baseball earnings to continue his studies.

Bought by White Sox.

After being shipped to the minors by Brooklyn, Eddie Collins, then manager of the Chicago White Sox, purchased him for that club. Berg did not become a catcher until 1927, and that was by accident, for he was the only available prospect when all three of the White Sox catchers were injured on successive days.

Berg also played for Washington before joining the Red Sox in 1935. He became a coach in 1940, but was taken off the inactive list for a short time last season when Frankie Pytlak was injured.

One of Berg's most amazing linguistic feats was gaining a working knowledge of the Japanese language while traveling to the orient with an all-star team in 1932. Two years later, on a second trip to the far east, he was so fluent that he was able to reply in Japanese to a welcoming address made to Connie Mack's baseball tourists.

He Impressed Japs.

Before leaving Japan for the second time, Berg had the unique distinction of lecturing to a group of Kieo university students. He made such a deep impression that he was invited to remain as an instructor of languages.

Today, as he quit the game he loved so dearly, Berg suffered a tragic blow in the death of his 71 year old father at Newark, N. J., after a long illness. The elder Berg also was a master of foreign languages.

DUROCHER WORRIED

New York, Jan. 14 [Special].—Indications that the signing of Leo Durocher to a 1942 contract as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers may not prove the matter of formality that President Larry MacPhail has intimated it would be came to light today when Durocher arrived from Florida.

Leo, who piloted Brooklyn to its first National league pennant in 21 years last season, declared he was eagerly looking forward to a conference with MacPhail, that the matter of signing his new contract was a matter he would like to have completed in the near future and that he wanted it to be a player-manager document.

Fights Salary Cut.

Apparently the question whether Durocher is to be signed as a player-pilot, or as a bench manager, has become a point at issue that may develop into a serious bone of contention.

As a bench master mind Durocher would not be able to command as much salary as he would if he signed as an active player as well. Durocher was understood to have received $25,000 for serving in the dual rôle in 1941.

Hopes for Meeting Today.

Ostensibly in town to attend the presentation of an award to Mrs. Durocher, who is a fashion designer, Leo said he hoped to get together with MacPhail tomorrow.

MacPhail declined to be drawn into a discussion on whether he planned to sign Leo as a player-manager or bench manager, stating this was a matter he first wanted to take up with Durocher himself. He declined to say when he expected to meet Leo.

GEHRINGER IS THRU

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP).—For the first time in 19 years, the name of Charles Leonard Gehringer is missing from the Detroit Tigers' team roster.

Gehringer, 38 year old second baseman, was not among 34 players ordered by the management today to report for spring training next month at Lakeland, Fla.

While admitting that Gehringer appeared to be at the end of his playing career, Tiger officials said they hoped he would remain in baseball as an aid to Manager Del Baker, presumably to be ready to give assistance at second base if needed. He would fill a coaching job vacated by Bing Miller, former Philadelphia Athletics outfielder, who was not rehired.

To fill Gehringer's post, the Tigers nominated Jimmy Bloodworth, acquired in a winter trade with Washington, and Lambert [Dutch] Meyer, one time Texas Christian university football player who was purchased from Knoxville of the Southern association two years ago.

THE GUMPS—FAMILY "SCARE-LOOM"

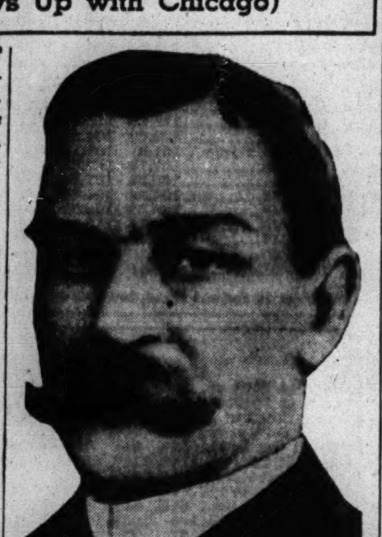
A City and a Sports Department

(The Tribune Grows Up with Chicago)

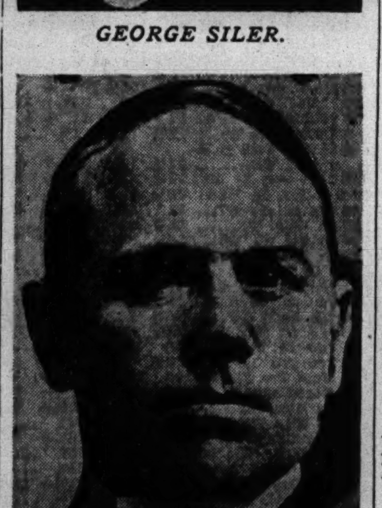
[This is the twelfth of a series of articles on the highlights of the development of sports in Chicago, with especial reference to the part The Tribune played in reporting them from pre-Civil war days to the present time.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

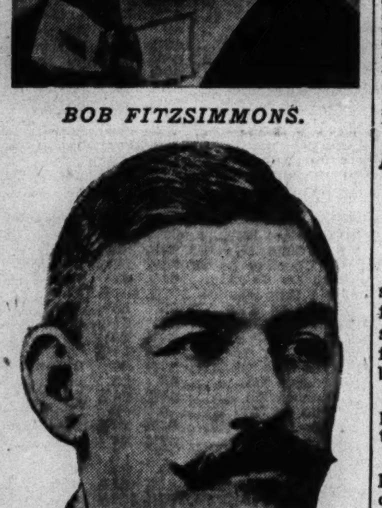
A FEW years before No. 374 [Private Joseph Louis Barrow to you] was inducted into the nation's armed forces, as of last Monday, THE TRIBUNE was carrying reports of boxing matches. In fact THE TRIBUNE was reporting, by a remote control method, the fistic doings of such bygone stalwarts as John Heenan, Tom Sayers, and John Morrissey. No, they weren't in quite the same league as Private J. Louis Barrow, or Buddy Baer, or Jim Braddock, or Tony Zale, or Billy Conn. As a matter of fact these stout fellows operated in the '50s and '60s of the last century.



GEORGE SILER.



BOB FITZSIMMONS.



JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

The feats of Messrs. Sayers, Heenan, Morrissey, and their rivals were recorded in THE TRIBUNES of those days in rather an odd fashion. Let's say they would come to taw with bare knuckles, as Heenan and Sayers did on April 25, 1860. THE TRIBUNE'S account of the bout, decided at a Canadian point, north of Buffalo, N. Y., with a great deal of secrecy, was picked up from the report carried by the Buffalo Courier.

Five days later The Tribune sports columns carried a story as long as the actual story of the fight, bent on detailing the ungentlemanly behavior of the young men who had attended the fight, on their ride home from the contest. This unseemly conduct involved copping free rides on the train and threatening the conductor if he became finicky about asking for tickets [the threats being reënforced by what modern crime writers have identified as a Roscoe or cannon]. The tone of this latter story indicated that boxing, or prize fighting, as it was then more commonly known, was the object of a looking-down-the-nose attitude.

George Siler Was the First Tribune Boxing Authority.

As the years went on THE TRIBUNE continued to carry regular, if belated, accounts of prize fights. One John L. Sullivan, the Boston Strong Boy himself, was one reason for this. Among others who gave boxing a definite niche in THE TRIBUNE were Jake Kilrain, a San Francisco bank clerk named James J. Corbett, and a freckled Cornishman named Bob Fitzsimmons, who died in our town and is buried in Graceland cemetery.

First Tribune boxing authority was the late George Siler. Like many another Tribune man, he had a personal background in the sport which he was detailed to. Even as Walter Eckersall was acknowledged the leading football referee of the country, so was Siler the top man in his field thru the '90s and the early part of this century. George had been a boxer himself, and because of his ability officiated at many an outstanding match in the early days of boxing. One of these was the first so-called "Battle of the Century," in which Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett in the 14th round of an argument at Carson City, Nev., on St. Patrick's day, 1897. [Sure, and that would have been a fine day for a Fitzsimmons and a Corbett!]

Tex Rickard First Appears as a Boxing Promoter.

Mention of Carson City and Nevada brings up the name of one George Rickard. He never was called George. He was just plain Tex Rickard, the man who conducted several important bouts in Nevada and California before he reached the stage where he could bring himself east. Ultimately, he brought to Chicago's Soldiers' field the return fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey on Sept. 22, 1927. That became THE Battle of the Century in more ways than one. It packed the huge lake front stadium at a $40 top and it produced the historic long count.

Siler's writings in the late '90s and the early part of this century were accorded a generous space and prominent position in THE TRIBUNE. Yet George would have been astounded could he have seen THE TRIBUNE coverage of that battle between Gene and Jack on the morning of Sept. 23, 1927. We shouldn't say morning, for the teamwork of the editorial, mechanical and circulation department enabled this paper to present the story of the fight to the huge crowd before it ever had left the stadium. Quick, concise, and accurate reporting, combined with mechanical speed in the composing room, and the use of speedboats and motorcycles made the evening one of THE TRIBUNE'S greatest publishing successes.

How the Tribune Covered Second Dempsey-Tunney Fight.

Mr. Siler, of course, had to work most of his stories alone. The Dempsey-Tunney bout was covered by one of the most complete and able staffs a newspaper ever sent to an event. The late James O'Donnell Bennett wrote the page 1 story. The late Walter Eckersall did the blow-by-blow account, and the late Harvey T. Woodruff indited the expert analysis of the fight. Don Maxwell, sports editor, did a column on the long count. Westbrook Pegler's assignment was a combination of the crowd and the personalities in it. Genevieve Forbes Herrick covered the women spectators in the crowd. Edward Burns and Irving Vaughan of the present staff had their jobs, too. Ed did the dressing room stories, while Irv coontributed a unique piece on the fight as seen from the $5 seats on the rim of the stadium.

In 1928 the writer, who then was editing the Little Trib, employés' magazine of this paper, asked Mr. Woodruff to do a roundup story on The Tribune sports department. His comment on George Siler follows:

"George Siler [Good old George Siler!] was a former boxer and referee of many championship fights. George was a referee of the old school whose life was threatened numerous times to influence his decision, but he was a man fearless and of sterling integrity, such a man as one wishes he would see more of in the ring today."

CUBS' MEETING JUST FOLLOWS THE OLD PATTERN

Discussion of the financial status and election of officers made up the program of yesterday's annual meeting of stockholders of the Chicago National league baseball club, otherwise the Cubs. P. K. Wrigley, controlling shareholder, remained as president, Charles [Boots] Weber as vice president, Earl Nelson as treasurer, and Margaret Donahue as secretary. The same board of directors was renamed as follows: Chairman, P. K. Wrigley; Ada E. Wrigley, Frank Ellis, Paul Harper, George Frazer, Gilbert Scribner, George T. Getz Jr., Charles Weber, and James Gallagher.

Drake Relays to Go On; Field May Be Smaller

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 14 (AP).—The annual Drake university relays will be held next April 24-25 despite the war "altho they probably won't be as star-studded as last year," Director Bill Easton said today. "Some schools from long distances may not send teams, but we'll have the relays and they'll be good," he promised.

Piercetown vs. Claypool.
Mentone vs. North Webster.

Wells scored its second consecutive victory in the west section junior race of the Chicago Public High School Basketball league by defeating Washburne, 50 to 30, on the latter's floor yesterday. The visitors led, 13 to 4, in the first quarter, 22 to 16 at the half time, and 35 to 20 at the conclusion of the third period.

It was the only game yesterday in the City league, but five junior and 12 senior contests are slated for today.

BRUIN DEFEATS END AT 7; BEAT TOLEDO, 53 TO 31

The Chicago Bruins snapped a seven game losing streak and emerged from the cellar of the National Professional Basketball league as they defeated the Toledo Chevvies, 53 to 31, before 2,500 in the Coliseum last night.

In a preliminary game the champion girls' team of Mexico defeated the Ducky Sloan girls, 20 to 17.

The Mexican girls and the Sloans play a return game tonight at 8 o'clock in the South Chicago YMCA, 91st street and Houston avenue.

PEDENS TO RIDE IN SIX DAY RACE BUT NOT AS TEAM

The Peden brothers, Doug and Torchy, will ride in the six-day bike race opening in the Coliseum Jan. 25, but they won't ride as a team. The reason, according to Manager Harry Mendel, is that Doug wants to prove that he can beat Torchy.

Doug, Mendel goes on, points out that he and Torchy have won six races together and finished second in the Milwaukee race last year, but that Torchy gets all the credit when they win and he—Doug—all the blame when they don't win.

Accordingly Doug will be paired with Cecil Yates, Chicagoan, who won the race just finished in Milwaukee. That victory ran Yates' total to 14.

Three Musketeers of Tennis

Pro tennis' brightest stars were in Chicago and at the Stadium last night. Three of them were, left to right, Fred Perry, Bobby Riggs, and Frank Kovacs. Perry beat Kovacs in the opening match, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4.

Hawks and Americans Meet Tonight

Games Tonight

Toronto at Montreal.
Chicago at Brooklyn.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks are in New York for tonight's engagement with the so-called Brooklyn Americans, to be played, as usual, in Madison Square Garden, which, as you probably know, is not in Brooklyn nor near Madison Square. The Hawks, before leaving Chicago, announced that names mean nothing to them. All they want is a sheet of ice and a National league team to beat. They'll be accommodated a second time before coming back home as they meet the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

This courageous stand, perhaps, is the result of reflection on 5 to 1 and 6 to 5 victories in their last two games and a faculty to forget that before that they lost six straight. And then, too, they had heard about the way the Rangers chased the Americans all over the rink Tuesday night for a 9 to 2 victory.

Tho tonight's game will be the first in the second half of the Hawks' league schedule it will be their fifth meeting with the Americans. Of the Hawks' 11 victories this season, three have been attained at the expense of the Americans.

Phil Hergesheimer, for two and one-half years a member of the Hawks, recently traded to Kansas City for Kenny Stewart, and who on Tuesday refused to report to the minor league club, has asked for a ruling by the league board, which meets tomorrow in Montreal. Hergesheimer was quoted as saying he would rather return to his home in Winnipeg than play hockey for a minor league salary.

Hergesheimer later called President Al Sutphin of the Cleveland Barons and asked Sutphin to try to buy him from the Hawks, it was reported from Cleveland last night.

3 ST. SABINA GAMES.

Three games will be played in the Metropolitan Amateur Basketball league this evening, Jan. 15th, in St. Sabina gym.

Hogan Favored to Win Oakland Open Golf Meet

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 14 (AP).—Firing in the $5,000 Oakland 72-hole Open golf tournament gets under way tomorrow with Ben Hogan as the favorite and two notables listed as last minute withdrawals, evidently army-bound.

The absentees are Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., national P. G. A. champion, and Jim Turnesa of New York. They're en route home to report to local draft boards for physical examinations, after competing in the Los Angeles Open.

Hogan, best golfer in the country last year both from a money-winning and low scoring standpoint, pocketed first prize in the Los Angeles event yesterday in a playoff with Jimmy Thomson.

More than 160 pros and amateurs will tee off tomorrow on the par 70 Sequoyah course. The field will be reduced to approximately 75 after 36 holes. The two final rounds will be played Sunday.

SAILORS TO PLAY NOTRE DAME IN STADIUM FEB. 9

Notre Dame will get a chance for revenge on Feb. 9 when it plays a return game with the Great Lakes basketball team in Chicago Stadium, navy officials announced yesterday. The Irish, who absorbed a 52 to 46 defeat by the sailors Dec. 3, requested the return game as Notre Dame's direct aid to the Navy Relief fund. Profits will go to Navy Relief, which cares for families of navy personnel in the midwest.

NORTH CENTRAL BEATEN, 38 TO 31, BY LAKE FOREST

The Lake Forest college basketball team defeated North Central, 38 to 31, in Lake Forest last night. North Central held an 18 to 17 lead at the half. The Foresters, led by Center Bill Bell, came back strong to pull out in front and never be headed. Bell scored 16 points. The loss was North Central's first in the Illinois college conference race.

Cancellation of Indoor Net Meets Asked

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Holcombe Ward, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, said today he would ask the organization's executive committee at a meeting Saturday to cancel the indoor championship meets for 1942 and combine the national outdoor singles and doubles tournaments at Forest Hills.

Ward said the move would be the first in line with a policy adopted by the USLTA to adjust its program to the requirements of wartime.

Seeks More Players.

In place of concentrating on tournament play and activity among the top ranking players, Ward said, the national association will try to get more persons to play tennis as a recreation, "to get people out of the grandstand and on to the courts."

The national indoor tournament was moved from New York to Oklahoma City in 1941 and earlier plans had called for presenting the meet there again this year.

Longwood to Coöperate.

In past years the singles championships have been held at the West Side Tennis club's Forest Hills stadium and the doubles at the Longwood Cricket club in Brookline, Mass.

Ward said the Longwood officials had offered to relinquish the doubles meet to Forest Hills this year to coöperate in the planned readjustment and because the West Side club will be celebrating its 50th anniversary.

University High Swimmers Beat Hyde Park, 41-24

University High defeated Hyde Park, 41 to 24, in a senior swimming meet yesterday in Bartlett pool. Dick Houcek led the victors with 10 points, winning the 40 and 220 yard crawl events.

TRIAL OF NINE ON MAIL FRAUD CHARGES BEGUN

Witness Describes Offer to Split Millions.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

An offer to cut him in on a secret 2 million dollar profit—in return for his silence—was described yesterday by the first witness against nine officers and associates of Resources Corporation International who are on trial before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe and a jury on charges of mail fraud.

W. E. Packard.

The nine are accused of having fleeced hundreds of midwest investors of between 7 and 9 million dollars, promising them large profits on Mexican timberlands. It is the biggest mail and securities fraud trial in the history of the Chicago Federal court, officers said.

The witness who described the mushroom growth of R.C.I. from its beginning was W. E. Packard, 57 years old, agricultural consultant, of Berkeley, Cal.

Employé of Mexico.

He became acquainted with the heads of the corporation, then known as International Syndicate, in 1928, when he was an official of the national irrigation commission of Mexico and they were seeking investment opportunities there, he testified.

The late Harper S. Hoover and his associates in the syndicate employed Packard to help them obtain land options and as an expert on Mexico, the witness testified.

Thru a steady stream of objections by Floyd E. Thompson, chief defense counsel, Packard then described the launching of a 10 million dollar stock selling campaign. He said the asked price for the land on which options were held was less than 3 million dollars even after commissions and engineering fees were added.

When Packard insisted that all investors should be declared in on the 7 million dollar difference Hoover and his nephew, Bruce L., offered to divide a secret 2 million dollar profit with him, Packard testified.

Suspended by SEC.

The government charges the corporation actually paid only $152,919 for its holdings. This was brought out in 1938 at hearings before the Securities and Exchange commission after which the SEC suspended the corporation's stock from registration.

Packard testified also that attempts were made to involve him in promotion and sale of the stock. He never received the full salary promised to him, he said.

In July, 1929, after repeated protests that the scheme smacked of embezzlement, Packard testified, he resigned. In 1931 the syndicate's name was changed to Resources Corporation International.

The trial is expected to last for six weeks. The government will put on 65 witnesses, including accountants, timber experts and investors, according to William J. Connor and Thomas B. Hart, assistant district attorneys in charge of the prosecution.

The Nine Defendants.

The nine defendants are W. L. Kellogg, a former president of the company; Arnold Joerns, a former president; George E. Howard of San Antonio, Tex.; William D. Durland, New Orleans, La.; Attorney Leonard L. Cowan, 10 South La Salle street; Ray Solwell, auditor for the company; John J. Jennings, Detroit stockbroker; Franklin A. Hofheins, a cutting contractor, and Bruce Hoover.

H. S. Hoover was killed in an auto accident before the indictment was returned. However, he is named a conspirator.

Packard began by telling of his first meeting with Kellogg and H. S. Hoover in the spring of 1928 aboard a train bound from Monterrey to Mexico City. Learning Packard's official position, they asked his advice on Mexican investments and on the next day he introduced them to Mexican officials and attachés of the American embassy and United States Chamber of Commerce, he testified.

In September of 1928, Packard testified, Hoover, Cowan, Kellogg, and a party of 15 went by private railway coach to Mexico and looked at some of the properties Packard had discussed with them. Early the next year, H. S. and Bruce Hoover returned to Mexico.

Offered $15,000 a Year.

They had talked in San Antonio, Tex., with Dr. Harry Gray, holder of options on land in Mexico, and to Edward Hartman, who had given them maps of tracts in Durango, Jalisco and other places. The Hoovers then offered a job to him as their representative at $15,000 a year plus future commissions, telling Packard there could be no contract; that he must trust them. He then resigned his Mexican government position.

In Chicago, on June 28, 1929, Packard continued, the Hoovers told him they had 2 million acres under option and drew up an agreement whereby H. S. Hoover was to realize 2 per cent of the profit after purchase and resale of the land. The Hoovers then asked Packard to help prepare a prospectus, he said.

This pamphlet, headed "International Syndicate," contained timber pictures not taken on the tracts under option, Packard testified. On July 9 Packard asked Cowan why it was necessary to be so careful in preparing a second document, a "bond circular," to be signed by H. S. Hoover.

Cowan explained, Packard testified, that the syndicate was merely a group of individuals entering into a trust agreement with H. S. Hoover as trustee and that this was not permitted under the Illinois blue sky laws. Cowan added, the witness said, that a member of the blue sky commission was "incensed" that a way had been found to evade the law.

Cowan also was quoted as having said he would advise Hoover to buy out any interest unit holder who might complain. Packard then urged that the pamphlet be changed to read that investors would share equally in any money left over after the Mexican property had been paid for.

It was at this time, Packard said, that he observed the pamphlet mentioned 10 million dollars as being subscribed for purchase of the land.

Disturbed by Facts.

"I then asked what the 10 million was to cover," Packard testified. "Mr. Cowan said it would cover the purchase price. I was disturbed by these facts as developed in Chicago and said the purchase price, plus all commissions and engineering fees, would not come to 3 million and that they were planning to collect 10 million. I wanted to know what would become of the remainder and repeated there should be a paragraph about the investors sharing equally in the surplus.

"Bruce Hoover then said it would cost about 4 millions to raise the proposed 10 million, that 1 million would go into a reserve fund and there would be 2 millions profit. Because I was the only outsider who knew the real cost of the land, Bruce Hoover said he, Howard, Kellogg, and H. S., would split the 2 million with me as tho I were an insider.

"H. S. Hoover then entered the room and Bruce Hoover repeated the offer. H. S. Hoover agreed and said, 'You are an insider now.'"

Psychology Build-up Used.

At a later meeting before 110 prospective investors, Packard said, Hoover addressed them as "fellow subscribers," explaining later that each one of the audience would think all the others had invested and would hasten to get in.

On July 11, 1929, Packard testified, he told Attorney Cowan the Hoover plan "looked like embezzlement" to him, but that Cowan defended both the Hoovers and the 7 million dollar spread.

On cross examination Attorney Thompson asked Packard if he had not tried to shake down Hoover and his associates for $100,000. The witness denied this heatedly even as Connor and Hart shouted objections. Judge Igoe ordered the questions stricken. Thompson then introduced a letter written by Packard to a relative saying he had been advised to ask Hoover for a $100,000 settlement for past services and commissions.

Steel Industry Pushes Efforts to Meet Growing War Needs

Materials for the construction of the 185,000 planes and 120,000 tanks sought for the nation's Victory program are the subject of a wide search by industry, the magazine Iron Age said yesterday. The special types of steel required particularly will call for expanded production.

The 1942 goal of 42,000 tanks, plus other combat units, will require an increase in monthly production of cast iron from 28,000 tons to 59,000 tons, or 708,000 tons for the year. The output of rolled armor will have to be increased to 77,000 tons monthly, or 914,000 a year. The 60,000 planes which are to be built this year will require 809,000 tons of alloy ingots, of which 213,000 tons will be for frames and 486,000 tons for engines.

Urges Scrap Allocation.

Tho indicating that no war work has suffered from lack of scrap, the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., recommended yesterday that the government curtail use of scrap in making steel for nondefense consumers. It suggested broadening of government-directed allocations of scrap to expedite delivery to steel mills engaged in war production.

Edwin C. Barriger, executive secretary of the institute, said the reported shortage of scrap seems "preposterous" in view of the continued high rate of steel production. He stated that the automobile graveyards thruout the country are filled with wrecked cars but said some auto wreckers are slow in selling them to scrap dealers. He said reported scrap shortages in some areas apparently were the result of poor distribution.

CLOSE FOUR FURNACES.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 14 (AP).—The Youngstown district steel output is at the lowest point in 18 months—about 84 per cent—as a result of suspension of four more open hearth furnaces for lack of scrap. Republic Steel corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube each suspended two, leaving a total of 14 idle here.

Sacrifice "Just Begun."

Iron Age commented that the heavy demands of war mean that civilian sacrifices resulting from diversion of materials have just begun. Persons who have been wondering about the destination of steel which formerly was used to build peacetime automobiles will find out soon, Iron Age said.

For instance a huge amount will go to the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company for the assembly of 340,000 cargo truck bodies for military use.

Meantime, the national rate of steel production dropped a half point to 96 per cent of capacity, according to the Iron Age estimate, largely as a result of small declines in the two largest producing areas—Chicago and Pittsburgh.

WPA TO DIG UP STREET CAR RAILS IN SEATTLE AS STEEL MILL SCRAP

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 14 (AP).—The federal government thru the WPA is getting ready to dig up asphalt streets for thousands of tons of scrap steel. Seattle has 16,000 tons of abandoned street car rails and Bellingham 12,000 tons under asphalt. The WPA will remove the rails and is expected to resurface the streets. The cities will donate the steel.

CANDY MAKERS TOLD THEY MUST SIMPLIFY LINES

The confectionery industry is strong enough to devise methods of meeting the requirements of the public and still comply with Office of Production Management restrictions on materials, Harry Chapman, Boston, Mass., past president of the National Confectioners' association, said yesterday.

Chapman spoke at a meeting of midwest candy manufacturers, held under sponsorship of the national organization, in the Palmer House. He advised manufacturers to simplify their products as a means of adhering to the government's policy of conserving materials.

C. O. Dicken, of E. J. Brach & Sons, Chicago, who conferred recently with OPM officials in Washington on the candy makers' place under sugar restrictions, said that in all probability a new OPM order would be issued by Feb. 1 which "will correct many of the inequalities and hardships resulting from the present OPM order covering allotment of supplies and deliveries."

Steel Plant Workers Plan Scrap Drive to Protect Jobs

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP).—A plan to enlist Great Lakes Steel corporation workers in a drive to obtain scrap to keep the furnaces operating on defense orders was announced today by Stanley Cook, local Steel Workers' Organizing committee president, and Orval Kincaid, regional director. They said George R. Fink, corporation president, had accepted the offer immediately.

LIGHT HOGS FALL MORE; HEAVIER KINDS ADVANCE

Report Many Farms Are Overstocked.

Another wave of selling of light and underweight hogs swept prices for stock weighing 170 pounds down 25 to 50 cents lower yesterday, knocking the kinds that recently brought a premium substantially below all other weights in the market. Most other hogs maintained a firm basis, with many of the medium and weighty butchers 10 to 12 cents higher.

Farmers and managers of live stock shipping associations on the market with stock said that many farms are overloaded with hogs, many carrying more than can be properly cared for.

Average 10 Cents Higher.

As a result some farmers have been sorting off some of the lights and underweights that did not do well and shipping them to market.

The $11.60 a hundred pounds top was paid for 200 pounders. The average for the session, at $11.20, indicated 10 cents gain.

Price trends in other meat animals were mixed. Steers, yearlings, and heifers sold strong to as much as 25 cents higher. Beef cows, canners and cutters declined 10 to 15 cents.

Fewer Cattle on Feed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—The department of agriculture reported today 3 per cent fewer cattle were on feed for market in the 11 corn belt states on Jan. 1 than a year earlier. No estimate on the actual number on feed was given, however.

For the country as a whole, the total on feed was said to have been down slightly from last year.

The number in the corn belt states on Jan. 1 as a per cent of those on feed a year ago, included: Illinois 90, Ohio 93, Indiana 92, Michigan 80, Wisconsin 92, Minnesota 96, Iowa 93, Missouri 96, South Dakota 115, Nebraska 110, and Kansas 122.

5 PENNSYLVANIA UTILITY UNITS SEEK TO MERGE

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 14 (AP).—Counsel for five subsidiaries of the Associated Gas and Electric company proposed today that in the interests of operating economy and better service they be permitted to merge into one firm to supply 130,000 consumers in western Pennsylvania.

The proposal was submitted to the Pennsylvania public utility commission by the Pennsylvania Gas and Electric, Erie Lighting, Solar Electric, Clarion River Power, and Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric companies. The commission immediately took it under advisement.

W. A. Davies, treasurer of Pennsylvania Gas, asserted the consolidation would release more money for improvements and acquisition of new property.

ARGENTINE BUTTER UNDERSELLS HOME PRODUCT; PRICES FALL

New York produce dealers reported yesterday that a large shipment of butter just received from Argentina was selling in the eastern market at 34 to 34½ cents a pound, compared with 36¼ cents for best domestic grades. The report had an unsettling effect on futures prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange and the market declined more than ½ cent under profit taking.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation reported it had bought more than 1¼ million dozen eggs, the largest purchase since last July. January and February futures contracts advanced .2 to .3 cent a dozen, with the February delivery at a high of 31.7 cents.

The FSCC paid 37¾ to 39¼ cents for the eggs, compared with a top price in Chicago of 34¼ cents. The wholesale market was firm.

MORRELL & CO. SALES FOR YEAR TOP ALL MARKS

Iowa Meat Packer's Net Income Is Pared.

Sales of John Morrell & Co., Ottumwa, Ia., in the fiscal year ended Nov. 1 totaled $121,697,637, marking the first time in its 114 year history that the meat packing company has sold more than 100 million dollars' worth of products within a year, President T. Henry Foster reported yesterday. The total was 22 per cent larger than the $99,361,767 sales of the preceding year.

The dollar sales increase, Foster said, "is primarily attributable to high commodity prices." He said tonnage output was 822,159,000 pounds, only a fractional increase over the 810,648,000 pounds in the preceding year.

Pricing Change Cuts Net.

Foster reported a net income for the year of $1,706,261, or $4.38 a share, compared with $1,994,905, or $5.12 a share, in the year before. The decline was shown because the company switched to the "last-in, first-out" method of pricing inventories as permitted under the 1939 revenue act. Under the company's former inventory valuation system earnings of the 1941 fiscal period would have appeared at $2,815,000 or $7.23 a share, a substantial increase, he said.

The company's live stock purchases totaled $85,418,135, compared with $65,944,094 in the preceding year, yet the number of animals slaughtered in the company's plants declined 321,998 to 3,516,013.

In commenting on the year's operations Foster declared the company "supported its products and its salesmen with the largest advertising program in its history" and said "the results have been gratifying and our products are meeting with increased customer acceptance."

Taxes Cut Reynolds' Net.

Sharply increased federal and state income taxes brought a 2 million dollar decline in the 1941 net income of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, Winston-Salem, N. C., altho its net sales soared to an all-time high. This was disclosed last night by President James A. Gray in the first annual report from a major industrial corporation covering the calendar year 1941.

Net earnings totaled $23,239,386, or $2.32 a share, on combined common and class B stock, compared with $25,548,424, or $2.55, in 1940.

Federal and state income taxes, including $4,909,195 for excess profits taxes, totaled $18,492,479, a $7,598,756 increase over the $10,893,723 provided to meet these assessments in 1940.

Net sales totaled $323,020,113, compared with $292,039,070 in the preceding year.

Walt Disney Productions reported for the fiscal year ended Sept. 27 last, a net loss of $789,297, against a net loss of $1,259,798 for the preceding year. The loss is computed after provision of $1,000,000 for excess cost of features over estimated income. A similar provision was made in the preceding year.

A. OF C. PICKS ONE NEW OFFICER AND RENAMES OTHERS

David B. McDougal, vice president of the Northern Trust company, was the only new officer chosen yesterday at the annual election of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He was named treasurer to succeed A. R. Floreen of the City National Bank and Trust company.

Reëlected for 1942 terms were A. H. Mellinger, president; Holman D. Pettibone, first vice president; Lawrence H. Whiting, W. H. Stanley, C. J. Whipple, Paul Moore, Guy E. Reed, Gerhardt F. Meyne, and William Bachrach, vice presidents, and Joseph E. Magnus, general secretary.

The directors elected are C. A. Bethge, Avery Brundage, H. E. Christiansen, John F. Craddock, Edward J. Doyle, F. B. Ernst, Newton C. Farr, Wade Fetzer Jr., James B. Forgan, Frank A. Hecht, John Holmes, William J. Kelly, Martin H. Kennelly, Walter P. Paepcke, George Richardson, H. A. Scandrett, William P. Sidley, C. D. Southard, and Fred T. Whiting.

WARNS TOBACCO JOBBERS AGAINST INFERIOR GOODS

Tobacco jobbers were cautioned yesterday against yielding to the temptation of using shoddy or inferior goods to replace customary merchandise lines eliminated or curtailed by government conservation measures.

Speaking at the 10th annual convention of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors in the Palmer House, Joseph Kolodny, the association executive secretary, said:

"It is sounder policy to suffer reduced volume and less profit, rather than to clutter the retail stores with merchandise that lacks merit, character, and consumer appeal."

Discussing the war's effect on the wholesale tobacco trade, Kolodny said that as a result of the tire rationing program salesmen in urban centers will be forced to walk their territories and carry their samples and order books.

GRAINS MOVE UP AS DEALERS BUY MORE FROM U.S.

Storage Space Shortage Curbs Purchases.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Grain prices after an early dip yesterday advanced around ¼ to a cent a bushel as dealers disclosed further purchases of government owned wheat and corn from the Commodity Credit corporation. Only the lack of storage space held down the size of the purchases, the dealers said.

Brokers in the Board of Trade corn pit estimated that hedging sales had been made on more than three-quarters of a million bushels of corn purchased from the corporation during yesterday's trading session. The expansion of interest in corn futures, as represented by the number of new contracts opened on the exchange, indicated an equal amount of corn had been hedged the preceding day.

Predict Federal Price Boost.

The grain men said they anticipate an advance in the price of the government owned corn from 82 cents in Chicago to 83 cents a bushel. They said this accounted in part for the latest purchases. Commodity Credit corporation officials said the rumor that such an advance was contemplated originated in Kansas City while any change would have to be announced from Washington.

Much of the corn is going to manufacturers of starch, syrups, sugars, and other corn products. The nation's 11 big refiners consumed 8,578,885 bushels in December, the Corn Industries Research foundation reports, compared with 8,652,724 bushels in November. The grind in December, 1940, was 6,018,325 bushels.

Credit corporation officials said the flour mills had been buying large quantities of government wheat the last few days. Flour sales have been substantial this week and the miller's activities have been reflected in the action of the futures market.

Rye Leads Grain Upturn.

Wheat closed ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel higher with grain for May delivery selling at $1.31⅛. Rye led the advance in grain prices, finishing 1 to 1⅛ cents higher with May contracts closing at 85¼ cents.

Soy beans and lard reflected the increased activity in the export markets for fats and oils, the bean market closing unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher and lard unchanged to 2½ cents per hundredweight lower.

Trade in the grain futures was not heavy, dealers preferring to await the outcome of the congressional conference on the price control bill today.

BROWN, RUSSELL ELECTED HARRIS BANK DIRECTORS

Prepared for War, Says Chairman.

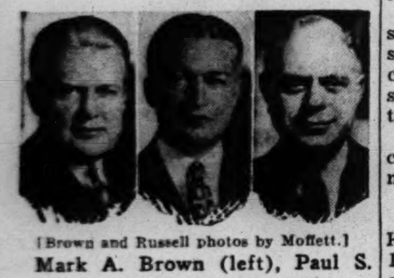
Mark A. Brown and Paul S. Russell were elected to the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank at the annual meeting of shareholders yesterday. Both new directors are vice presidents of the bank. A. W. Harris, the 74 year old chairman of the board, presided at the meeting, attended by about 15 stockholders.

"There is little that can be said about the business outlook," Harris told the group. "A year ago we foresaw the war and now we are in it. We are prepared to meet future developments as they occur."

Termed Younger Officers.

Announcing the election of Brown and Russell, Harris described them as "two of our younger officers" who will take the place of men who have served on the board for many years. Brown joined the bank as a vice president in 1928. Russell has been with the bank since 1916 and was elected a vice president in 1930.

The new board members replace Bowman C. Lingle, a director since 1913, and H. Haddon MacLean, who has been on the board since 1926.



[Brown and Russell photos by Moffett.]

Mark A. Brown (left), Paul S. Russell, and Fred J. Greenebaum, named to new bank positions.

Lingle and MacLean, both vice presidents of the bank, will retain their executive positions. Seventeen other directors were reëlected.

George S. Allen was elected an assistant cashier of the bank at a meeting of directors which followed that of the stockholders. Other officers were reëlected with the exception of Harry E. Weese, treasurer, who retired Jan. 1.

Other Banks Name Officers.

A number of other banks announced changes in their boards and executive personnel yesterday.

Fred J. Greenebaum was elected a vice president of the Central National bank, Roosevelt road and Halsted street. He is a member of a family active in Chicago banking for many years and was at one time associated with the Greenebaum Sons bank and the First National Bank of Chicago.

Herman E. Lacy, president of Helmco, Inc., Chicago maker of electrical appliances, was elected a director of the Mid-City National Bank of Chicago, Madison and Halsted streets. Walter O. Schultz, cashier, was named a vice president; F. A. Groenwald, assistant cashier, was elected a vice president, and M. K. Moussa, assistant cashier, was named cashier.

Three promotions were announced by the Mutual National Bank of Chicago, 7844 South Halsted street. Lawrence V. Meyering was named assistant trust officer, and John W. Adams and Charles Christensen were appointed assistant cashiers. Albert Inlander replaced the late Robert Anderson as a director.

Directors' Fees in Defense Stamps.

Directors of the First National Bank of Cicero voted, for the duration of the war, to accept defense stamps instead of regular fees for attending board meetings. Officers and directors were reëlected.

Shareholders of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank reëlected the directors, who are scheduled to meet today on the appointment of officers. Directors of the Chicago Title and Trust company reappointed all the officers. Because a quorum was lacking, the meeting of directors of the Industrial National Bank of Chicago was postponed to Jan. 28.

John R. Heath, an attorney, was elected a director of the Riverside State bank to replace the late George Morton, and other officers and directors were retained in office. The Winnetka Trust and Savings bank continued its present slate of officers and directors.

Senate Votes Compromise Version of Housing Bill

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—The senate approved today a compromise version of the 450 million dollar defense housing bill. Previously passed by both houses in different form, the bill requires final house approval to send it to the White House. It would authorize expenditure of 300 millions for housing and 150 millions for community facilities in areas where a shortage has been created by an influx of defense workers.

National Tea's December Sales Increase 31 Per Cent

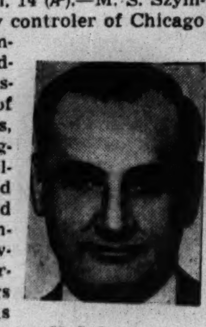
Last month's sales of the National Tea company totaled $7,387,437, a 31 per cent increase over the $5,637,484 in December, 1940, the company reported yesterday. Sales for the 52 weeks ended Dec. 31 totaled $72,182,-442, a 16.5 per cent increase over the $61,919,453 of 1940.

Increase in Living Costs Smaller During December

Living costs wage earners and lower salaried clerical workers in the United States rose .5 of 1 per cent during December, the smallest increase in three months, the National Industrial Conference board reports.

Price Rule, Tax Boosts Urged by Szymczak

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—M. S. Szymczak, former city controler of Chicago and now a member of the federal reserve system's board of governors, tonight suggested price ceilings accompanied by rationing and taxes or government borrowing against current earnings of individuals as methods of preventing inflation.



M. S. Szymczak.

Szymczak, estimating that government expenditures for the fiscal year beginning next July may reach 60 billion dollars, told the National Retail Dry Goods association convention:

"Against this, present federal taxes may be expected to bring in perhaps 18 billion dollars in the next fiscal year so that even a very large increase in taxes will leave a tremendous gap to be filled by borrowing. The inflation potential ahead is tremendous."

Two "Lines of Attack."

As an alternative to inflation, which he said would interrupt the war effort and tend to disrupt economic life now and in the postwar period, he offered two "broad lines" of attack.

"Fix price ceilings on many or all goods and supplement these ceilings by rationing the commodities whose prices are controled," he suggested.

"Adopt an aggressive fiscal policy, supplemented by monetary controls sufficient to divert from current income enough funds to keep consumers from demanding more goods than are available at present prices.

"There can be no doubt that increased taxes are one of the means necessary to ward off inflation."

Price Ceilings Defended.

Edgar J. Kaufman, president of Kaufman Department Stores, Inc., Pittsburgh, and OPA retail consultant, told the convention that textile price ceilings had been imposed only after voluntary efforts to keep prices down had failed.

"These [formal] ceilings were imposed after direct consultation with members of the industry so that normal methods of business might be observed and production allowed to continue to expand.

"At no time were ceilings established which would discourage needed production. I believe that the expanding importance of the war effort, now greatly accelerated, has made it necessary to make price control more and more detailed."

Another OPA representative, James F. Bogardus, price executive of the consumers' durable goods section, said price control was necessary to stem inflation and protect honest business men from "chiselers."

ANNOUNCE PLANS TO SPEED AUTO WAR PRODUCTION

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP).—A nine point program to speed America's war production output was announced tonight by Cyrus Ching, chairman of the new OPM automotive management and labor subcommittee, following an all day conference here.

Ching said all representatives agreed upon these points:

1. The seven day week with a swing shift.
2. Upgrading program to meet skilled labor requirements.
3. Training program for production workers.
4. Survey of labor potentials, men and women, by industrial communities.
5. Migration of labor.
6. Agency or means for interchange of methods and processes.
7. Plans to assist in speedy machine-tool manufacture and to simplify new machines.
8. Cataloging of critical machinery to make the jobs find the machines.
9. Planning of the tooling program on an industry-wide basis.

Besides Ching, those present included Edsel Ford, C. E. Wilson, and Walter P. Reuther, Richard T. Frankensteen, and George F. Addes.

Approve General Finance Listing on Chicago Board

The executive committee of the Chicago Stock exchange announced yesterday it has approved the application of General Finance corporation to list 196,854 shares of $10 par 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock, which will be admitted to trading upon official notice of registration under the securities exchange act.

BUICK'S PLANE ENGINE PLANT IN PRODUCTION

Making Completed Bomber Units.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With airplane engines sending up a mighty roar in test cells in its huge Melrose Park plant, the Buick division of the General Motors corporation is now in mass production of engines that soon will be sending Uncle Sam's bombers thundering against the nation's foes, it was announced yesterday. The first engine went into a test cell last Thursday.

Buick's Chicago area factory is one of the first major automobile company contributions to the nation's air strength to go into action. It took only 200 days from the time the project was commenced for production of parts to start and another 43 days brought a completed engine.

One of Largest in World.

The 41 million dollar plant is one of the largest aviation engine factories in the world. Ground was broken only last March 17 for the main structure which contains some 1,320,000 square feet of floor space and additional space in the 46 test cells at the rear of the main building.

About 25,000 persons are to be employed when full production gets under way by Buick on Pratt & Whitney type 1,200 horse power air cooled engines. Of this number 10,000 each will be employed at the Melrose Park and Flint, Mich., plants on the making of engine parts and another 5,000 will be working in Melrose Park assembling the engines.

"Banks of parts, produced under the exacting requirements of precision and high quality necessary to wartime aircraft engine performance, are being built up after having passed rigid requirements, Harlow H. Curtice, president of Buick, said yesterday.

Assemblies Accelerated.

"Meanwhile, assembly of engines, which commenced with the completion of pilot line machinery and equipment, is going forward at an accelerated pace in an expanded manufacturing program that encompasses continuous 24 hour operations."

Curtice said that Buick's whole technical and production resources have been made available for the accelerated aviation engine program as well as for other large war projects in which it is taking part. When the aviation engine division alone is in full production the company will employ substantially more persons than at any peacetime peak.

While the Melrose Park plant is entirely new from the ground up, most of the facilities at Flint consist of existing automobile factories which have been converted to arms work.

EX-CHICAGO BROKER CONVICTED IN EAST ON FRAUD CHARGES

Newark, N. J., Jan. 14 (AP).—A jury in federal court today convicted J. Overton Paine, 72 years old, stockbroker who headed the former Paine Statistical corporation of Newark and Chicago, on a charge of using the mails to defraud in stock sales and failure to register the company with the SEC. Paine was placed on probation for three years and received a suspended jail sentence of six years.

FORMER "BOY PLUNGER."

Paine, known as a "boy plunger," during the 1890s, maintained a branch office for his statistical service at 30 North La Salle street The office was closed a few months before his arrest in New York in December, 1937, on charges of embezzling $640,000 from investors who had subscribed to his service in Chicago and Newark.

Paine was convicted of embezzlement in New Jersey and sentenced to 18 months in prison in February, 1938. At the time of his arrest, authorities said his corporation circularized investors urging them to give the corporation power of attorney to speculate for them.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—4.

A simplified, precalculated income tax return form was introduced in 1941. Its use is optional. The taxpayer may use the precalculated form if his gross income for the taxable year is $3,000 or less and is received solely from wages, salaries, and other compensation for personal services, rents, interest, dividends, annuities, and royalties. Income from a business, gains from property transactions, or income from partnerships and trusts cannot be reported on this form. Estates, trusts, and nonresident aliens are not eligible to use it.

The precalculated form lists the amount of tax due on income of various sizes. Taxes for single persons and married persons [or heads of families] are set forth in separate columns. The taxpayer finds the amount in the table corresponding to his gross income and opposite that figure is the total tax he must pay. If there are dependents for whom credit is allowable, the gross income is reduced by $400 for each dependent.

If a husband and wife file separate returns the gross income of each must be $3,000 or less if they wish to use the optional form. If a joint return is filed, the $3,000 maximum applies to their combined gross income.

The precalculated form, while convenient to use, is necessarily arbitrary. Taxpayers should compute their taxes both by the optional and regular methods since the results are not always the same. Whichever method results in the lower tax may be used.

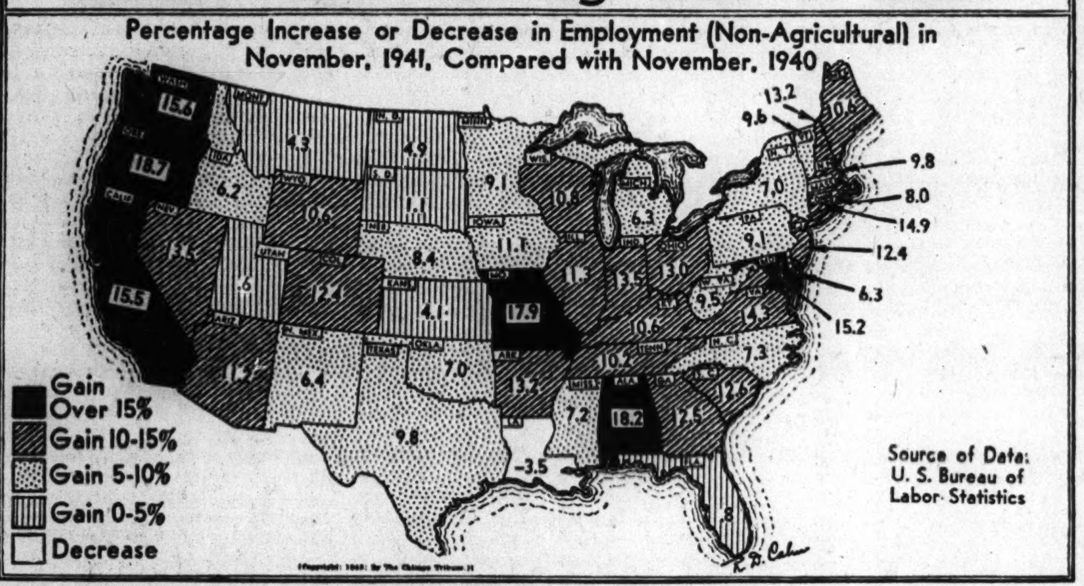
The table is computed approximately on the assumption that the taxpayer using it has deductions amounting to 10 per cent of his gross income. It is therefore not advisable to use the optional form if allowable deductions exceed that percentage.

The taxpayer's status as single or married or head of a family under the optional form is determined by his status on the last day of the taxable year. Credit for dependents is determined in the same way. Thus, there is no proration of personal exemption or credit for dependents where the status changes during the year as there is under the regular form. For example, if a person married on Dec. 31 and elected to use the optional form, he would be entitled to the $1,500 personal exemption. The $400 exemption for a dependent can be claimed for a child born on Dec. 31.

When a taxpayer makes his choice between the optional and regular forms and files his return, he is not permitted to switch methods in the same taxable year. The optional method can be used one year and the regular the next, or in the opposite order.

[Basic steps in figuring income tax and gross income will be discussed in the next article, which will appear at an early date.]

Where Were the Big Gains in 1941?



War Harried Auto Dealers Meet Tuesday

With war created problems of the automobile dealers growing more acute, a record breaking attendance is expected at the annual meeting of the National Automobile Dealers' association next week, Ben T. Wright, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, said yesterday. The Chicago association will host to the national organization, which will hold its main sessions in the Palmer House Tuesday and Wednesday.

There are about 42,000 dealers in the country who employ some 500,000 persons. Restrictions on automobile and tire sales are reported to be threatening the solvency of the dealers and loss of jobs to employés.

Face Numerous Problems.

"Private automobiles carry the bulk of workers to and from their jobs in airplane plants, arms factories, powder plants, and other military supply establishments," said Wright, who is a Ford dealer in Chicago. "Farmers need cars and trucks to enable them to do their part, while factories are seriously dependent on motor trucks to supply them with their needs.

"Dealers must keep these vehicles running if the victory program is not to be hampered. We are faced with the task of maintaining this essential transportation."

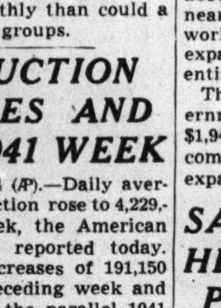
Henderson Among Speakers.

Principal speakers will include William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Production Management; Leon Henderson, in charge of prices and civilian supply, and Sen. Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.].

Topics scheduled for discussion include what dealers are going to do to meet the emergency confronting them, service work, employé-employer relations, the wage and hour law, and the federal credit regulations.

PRINTING TRADE PLEDGES ALL AID TO WAR EFFORT

John Maher, temporary chairman of the Graphic Arts Emergency council, formed a week ago in Washington, yesterday forwarded to President Roosevelt a resolution pledging the printing trade's full support in the national emergency.



John Maher.

Maher, head of the printing firm bearing his name and of the Graphic Arts Association of Illinois, said the group was formed to protect the interests of employers and of the 900,000 printing trades employés in the country. He said it was hoped that if any wide scale changes became necessary the council could function more smoothly than could a number of smaller groups.

OIL PRODUCTION INCREASES AND TOPS 1941 WEEK

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Daily average crude oil production rose to 4,229,-150 barrels last week, the American Petroleum Institute reported today. This represented increases of 191,150 barrels over the preceding week and 864,700 barrels over the parallel 1941 period.

Stocks of gasoline expanded to 94,204,000 barrels, from 92,987,000 the week before, and 85,894,000 a year ago.

Gasoline production was estimated at 13,185,000 barrels, against 13,569,000 in the week before.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum Reorganization Is Ended

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Federal Judge William Bondy today signed a decree terminating the reorganization proceedings of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation. The decree fixed 11 years as the time within which creditors might file claims and security holders surrender their securities in order to participate in the distribution of new securities provided in the reorganization plan approved in March, 1940.

Five RFC Directors Named for New Terms by F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—Five members of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were reappointed by President Roosevelt today and their nominations sent to the senate, for terms of two years starting Jan. 22. They are Charles B. Henderson, Sam Husbands, Howard J. Klossner, Henry A. Mulligan, and Charles T. Fisher Jr.

POWER PRODUCTION INCREASE EXCEEDS SEASONAL AVERAGE

Expanding beyond seasonal expectations, the nation's electric power output totaled 3,480,344,000 kilowatt hours last week, 5.8 per cent above the preceding holiday week and 15.9 per cent ahead of the parallel 1941 week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday.

Output of the Commonwealth Edison company group in the Chicago area was 175,528,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 14 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.

Says War Will Give Furniture Job to Women

A large influx of women into the business end of the furniture industry to replace men entering military and armament plant services, as well as governmental civil divisions, was predicted yesterday by George J. Lewis, managing director of the American Home Furnishings Institute in the American Furniture Mart.

Women who formerly specialized in interior decorating and designing are entering the fields of selling, buying and distribution, Lewis said.

Altho the men still are in the large majority, more women buyers are attending the National Furniture and Home Furnishing show than ever before, he declared.

Lewis said the institute has received an unusually large number of applications from women for courses in management and distribution. Already many of them are actively engaged in administrative capacities, he said.

Lewis asserted that people are becoming more furniture conscious than ever before, partly because heavy work schedules are keeping them at home during leisure hours. He said that this was a factor in maintaining the current level of buying at the furniture show now in progress.

TOOL PRODUCER BUYS BUILDINGS TO BOOST OUTPUT

United Drill and Tool corporation, producer of metal cutting tools, including types used by armament manufacturers, yesterday bought the seven story plant it occupies under lease at 411 West Ontario street, and the seven story building adjoining it on the west, for $500,000. The latter structure, used in expanding tool production, is expected to be completely occupied by May 1. The two buildings have a street frontage of 279 feet, and are 100 feet deep.

The corporation is operating six and a half days a week, three shifts daily, with a personnel said to be about 500. Plant capacity is to be nearly doubled, and the number of workers is expected to be considerably expanded when the new section is entirely occupied.

The Defense Plant corporation, government financing agency, made a $1,942,701 commitment to the tool company last month to finance the expansion program.

SAVINGS GROUP HEAD CALLS LOAN PROSPECTS GOOD

Financing of lower priced homes in war industry areas and the purchase and modernization of existing homes should provide a large volume of new business for savings and loan associations in 1942, J. S. Robson, board chairman of the Bell Savings and Loan association, said yesterday in his annual report to 21,000 members.

Assets at the end of 1941 were reported at $24,020,524, compared with $21,221,304 on Dec. 31, 1940; mortgage loans, $21,410,447, compared with $19,007,940, and general reserves, $872,114, against $687,797.

Total assets of the Harvey Federal Savings and Loan association increased almost 15 per cent last year to $3,008,959 on Dec. 31, John Bardwick, president, said yesterday in his annual report to 2,187 share account holders. Home mortgage loans made in 1941 amounted to $765,406, the largest volume in its history.

Nash-Kelvinator to Rehire All Workers to Make Arms

George W. Mason, president of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, said yesterday that the company had received sufficient orders from the army and navy to provide employment within a few months for all its Michigan and Wisconsin workers. He did not disclose the amount and type of the new orders.

Blasts Arnold for Aluminum 'Trust' Charge

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special]. —Thurman W. Arnold, assistant United States attorney general was charged today before a house investigating committee with making "unfounded statements that are destroying the morale of this country and of key men in defense production."

William Watson Smith, counsel for the Aluminum Company of America, declared that charges such as Arnold had put into the record "should have been stopped long ago."

Denounces Testimony.

Smith denounced testimony given the committee earlier this month, in which, he held, Arnold had claimed the aluminum company had maintained 100 per cent control of that metal in this country, had formed a Canadian company, and used it to violate anti-trust laws, and was involved in a cartel that allowed Hitler to produce as much aluminum as he wanted provided he did not export it.

"Every charge of wrongdoing made by Arnold is directly contrary to the opinion of Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, who tried the long drawn out suit brought by the government," Smith said.

Claims Competition.

Except during war times, Smith testified, the aluminum company has encountered active competition in the United States market from importation of foreign aluminum.

"Our report on our aluminum investigation," said Rep. Charles I. Faddis [D., Pa.], committee chairman, "stated that the aluminum company had coöperated 100 per cent in the defense program. That conclusion was drawn, not from the testimony of company representatives, but from that of government officials."

BIG HARVESTER TANK CONTRACT EXPECTED SOON

Moline, Ill., Jan. 14 [Special].—International Harvester company within a few days is expected to receive a multimillion dollar contract from the war department for the production of tanks, it was learned today.

Concerned over unemployment in this area's farm implement industry, Moline businessmen said they expect International Harvester's war work to absorb 2,500 more workers than were employed by its two Moline plants at the peak of civilian operations last year.

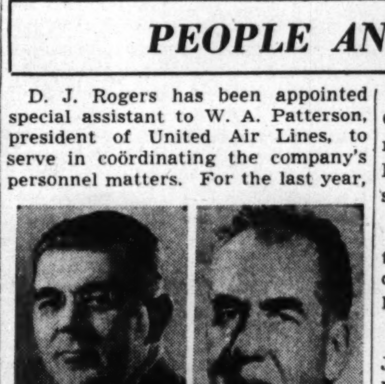
A number of other plants in this area are expected to share in the tank production program thru subcontracts.

ICC Concludes Its Hearing on Rail and Water Rates

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 14 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today concluded an eight day hearing on the request of the nation's railroads and water carriers for a general 10 per cent increase in freight and passenger rates. Closing statements were presented by shippers and producers objecting to the increases. Announcement of the commission's decision will be made in Washington later.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

D. J. Rogers has been appointed special assistant to W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, to serve in coördinating the company's personnel matters. For the last year,



D. J. Rogers (left) and A. W. Herrington, among personalities in today's business news.

Rogers has been director of the company's work analysis program.

A. W. Herrington, president of the Marmon-Herrington company, Indianapolis, has been elected president of the Society of Automotive Engineers for 1942. Herrington has designed numerous motor vehicles for specialized civilian and military service.

W. D. Nugent Jr. has been named sales manager for the Sears, Roebuck & Co. Chicago group of retail stores.

Directors of the First Trust Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago have named Lester W. Miner vice president and manager, and Lawrence J. Berry secretary and treasurer.

The engineering division of the Greater Chicago Safety council will meet this noon in the Palmer House. Municipal Judge John Gutknecht will speak.

Roger Bourland, associated with the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York since 1936, has been appointed director of sales promotion.

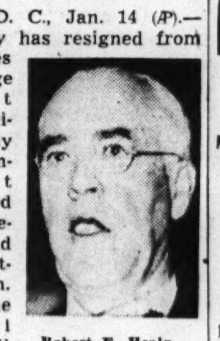
Charles L. Jones, president of the Jones-Atkinson corporation, has been made a director of the Continental Can company, New York. Jones is former vice president and director of the Socony Vacuum Oil company.

Three Chicagoans were among those named yesterday by the labor department's wage and hour division to a committee to recommend a new minimum wage for the luggage, leather goods, and women's handbags industry. They were Malcolm Sharp, a member of the University of Chicago law school faculty; Samuel Laderman, and Louis Rooney. The group is scheduled to meet in Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.

Douglas P. Bailey, formerly of Austin, Tex., yesterday was named director of refining for District 2 of the petroleum coördination office with headquarters in Chicago. The district covers Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota.

Report Healy Resigns as SEC Commissioner

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—Robert E. Healy has resigned from the Securities and Exchange commission, it was reported reliably today. Healy declined to comment, altho it was understood President Roosevelt already had received his letter of resignation.



Robert E. Healy.

Healy is the only original commissioner still with the SEC, having been appointed when the agency was established in 1934. He is 58 years old, a native of Bennington, Vt., and a Republican.

Disagrees on Policy.

In recent years he has disagreed on occasion with other SEC members over policy matters, including a persistent objection to the disposal of certain types of applications without public hearings. His latest disagreement is understood to be over the selection of Ganson Purcell as SEC chairman in anticipation of the elevation of Chairman Edward C. Eicher to be chief justice of the federal District court for the District of Columbia. A senate committee will consider Eicher's nomination soon.

Purcell, who is 36, was advanced to a commissionership last spring from director of the SEC trading and exchange division.

One of the two prospective vacancies on the commission must be filled by a member of some party other than the Democratic, since no more than three of the five members may be of the same party.

Dougherty Is Mentioned.

One name already mentioned for the minority membership is that of Edwin M. Dougherty of San Francisco, a member of the California corporation commission. Informed persons commented that it was too early to speculate on a successor to Healy, but that there was some reason to believe that the appointment would go to the far west.

It was considered likely that Robert H. O'Brien, director of the SEC public utility division, would be chosen to fill the vacancy caused when Eicher goes to the bench.

The commission has had a heavy turnover in its top personnel in its seven years of existence. Purcell will become the sixth chairman and when the two prospective vacancies are filled they will be the 15th and 16th appointments to the agency.

VINCENNES RECALLS PEDDLER FOUNDER OF LARGE STORE CHAIN

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 14 (AP).—The son and grandson of a Bavarian immigrant who entered Vincennes 100 years ago with a pack on his back returned today as the chairman and president of one of the nation's largest mercantile chains, founded by that same backwoods peddler.

The story of Adam Gimbel and of his seven sons was told in pageant as this oldest Hoosier city observed the centennial of his unspectacular arrival.

Vincennes university, in existence when Gimbel first opened his pack here, conferred honorary law degrees upon Ellis Gimbel, chairman of the board of Gimbel Brothers and only surviving son of the pioneer merchant, and third generation Bernard Gimbel, president of the department store chain. Mayor A. B. Taylor awarded them honorary citizenship.

The founder of the Gimbel corporation, which now does more than 100 million dollars of business a year, landed in New Orleans in 1840, earned money as a longshoreman to buy his first stock of merchandise, and worked his way up the Mississippi, Ohio, and Wabash rivers, stopping at Vincennes, which appeared then to have a bigger future than such an upstart town as Chicago.

Railroads ruined the river traffic and Gimbel went to Milwaukee in 1866. There he established the first of present department stores which now bear his name. Others are in New York, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh.

ODLUM REVEALS PLAN TO RESCUE LITTLE BUSINESS

Treasury and RFC Contribute Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—New proposals for rescuing America's small industries from annihilation in the war struggle were disclosed today by Floyd B. Odlum, head of the division of contract distribution of the Office of Production Management. He discussed the proposals earlier in the day with Donald M. Nelson, who yesterday was named chief of the new War Production Board.

"Measures to save small industries are needed more urgently now than before the outbreak of the Pacific war," Odlum told a house committee on small business. "They are an essential part of the America we are fighting to save.

"I recommended to my chief this morning that a separate governmental agency be established to protect the interests of small industries. There are a dozen governmental agencies that have proclaimed interest in this problem, but I've seen little action."

Outlines Rescue Program.

Odlum said he hoped to see in operation, within two or three weeks, a plan which he submitted yesterday to the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board to give small industrial plants a subsistence allotment of raw materials to keep their doors open. Committees representing each industry will prescribe minimum requirements of materials, he said.

"We need the production capacity of these small plants to meet wartime civilian requirements and wartime military requirements," Odlum continued. "We need them for the American economy after the war.

"It is my belief that all of our facilities for production can be used and should be used. We can maintain reasonable civilian economy while delivering on the President's war production program."

Odlum told congressmen that he urged Nelson to put the contract division of the OPM under the procurement offices of the army and navy.

The OPM executive also recommended creation of a board to supervise the 15 billion dollars worth of new manufacturing facilities that the government has helped finance for war production.

Use Increased Power.

Meantime the treasury and the Reconstruction Finance corporation proclaimed their interest in the small business man and announced measures to come to his aid.

The treasury said that its procurement division would use the increased purchasing power it was granted today by executive order to make the widest possible use of industries hampered by the war effort. Director Clifton E. Mack said:

"It is the aim of this division to aid the small business man wherever possible. When he is not equipped to bid on prime contracts we will point the way for him to bid on subcontracts. I have established a section in the division to assist the 'little man' in his problems"

The department announced it had been granted full wartime purchasing powers and an all-inclusive contractual authority similar to that already given the war and navy departments and the maritime commission.

RFC Outlines Loan Terms.

The RFC published a letter written by its chairman, Charles B. Henderson, to bankers thruout the country, setting forth terms on which the corporation will participate in loans to small businesses.

When the RFC actually makes all or any part of a loan to small business to help carry out war contracts it will charge 4 per cent interest on the RFC share. The bank may charge up to 6 per cent for its part of the loan.

When the RFC takes a "deferred" participation in the loan—which amounts to underwriting—it will charge the bank for this sort of insurance 1 per cent if the bank's participation is 10 to 25 per cent of the loan; ¾ per cent if it is 25 to 50 per cent, and ½ per cent if the bank advances half or more of the funds.

Haskell, Scott & Jennings Registration Is Revoked

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 [Special]. —An order revoking the registration of Haskell, Scott and Jennings, Inc., of 120 South La Salle street, Chicago, on charges of violating the securities exchange act was issued by the Securities and Exchange commission today. The firm was also expelled from membership in the National Association of Securities Dealers.

American Air Lines First to Top Million a Year Mark

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Charles A. Rheinstrom, vice president in charge of traffic of American Airlines, Inc., said today the company was the first air transport line in the world to carry a million or more passengers in any one calendar year. In 1941, Rheinstrom said, American Airlines carried 1,202,816 revenue passengers, compared with 870,930 in 1940.

PROFIT CASHING, BUYING APATHY RESTRAIN STOCKS

Few Groups Able to Hold Tuesday's Advances.

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—In the path of stock market progress today were a thin flow of profit selling and general buying apathy, resulting in an indecisive and narrow price swing.

The profit cashing rubbed out some of the Tuesday gains in steels, coppers and rails. Rubbers, also favored the day before, were relatively steady and minor improvement was recorded in some aircrafts, utilities, oils and industrial specialties.

In going against the hopes of Wall streeters who saw in Tuesday's rise a possible start of a January rally, the market appeared to be concerned again over coming tax burdens and further industrial squeezes incident to the war economy.

Applaud Nelson Move.

Plans for reorganization of the war production machinery in Washington which would make Donald M. Nelson the top man drew favorable comment in the financial district, but brokers said the development was not an immediate market factor.

Closing mark of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 38.9.

Financial quarters, watchful of inflationary trends, noted the anti-inflationary comment of President Roosevelt on certain provisions of the pending price control bill.

Two Show One Point Gains.

Stocks in the improved division included Johns-Manville and American Can, each closing up more than a point. Modestly higher were Texas company, Standard Oil of New Jersey, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Western Union, and American Telephone. Declining issues included United States Steel, Bethlehem, du Pont, Union Carbide, and Great Northern preferred.

UNEVENLY HIGHER HERE.

Prices moved unevenly higher on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in light trading totaling 21,000 shares. Of 95 issues traded, 50 advanced, 22 declined and 25 closed unchanged.

Chicago corporation, which closed ⅛ lower at 1¼, was the volume leader with 2,900 shares traded. Of other active stocks, Middle West advanced ⅛, Borg-Warner and Libby declined ⅛, and Armour was unchanged. In the half hour after the New York close Texas company declined ¼.

OFFER PANAMA BOTTLING FIRM'S SHARES TODAY

New York, Jan. 14 [Special].—What is believed to be the first equity financing in the United States for a foreign industrial concern since passage of the securities act will take place tomorrow with the offering of 33,750 shares of $1 par capital stock of the Panama Coca-Cola Bottling company at $12 a share. The financing is interpreted as a manifestation of favorable relations between United States investors and private industry in neighboring countries in recent years. The Panamanian corporation was formed in 1913.

Elder & Co., member of the New York Stock exchange, will make the offering. The shares have been registered with the Securities and Exchange commission.

Proceeds will be used to reimburse the company for capital expenditures made in 1939 and 1940 and for stock it purchased and retired.

Ford Starts Construction of Plane Workers' School

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP).—The Ford Motor company today broke ground for a $500,000 school to train its own workers for jobs in the adjacent Willow Run bomber plant now under construction.

Securities Offerings

Harriman Ripley & Co. and associated underwriters sold to the public yesterday at $100 a share about 106,000 shares of United Aircraft corporation's 5 per cent preferred stock which was left unsubscribed by stockholders. Common stockholders had taken a little more than 60 per cent of the amount available.

A. G. Becker & Co. offered 2 million dollars of Pittsburgh Steel company first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds due in 1950 at 99 and accrued interest from Dec. 1.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane offered 14,250 shares of Western Auto Supply company common stock at 14¼.

General Refractories company disclosed it has sold 3 million dollars of 3¼ per cent promissory notes, due Jan. 1, 1957, to certain insurance companies. The company has paid off outstanding 3¾ per cent sinking fund bonds.

Commodities

Most commodity futures markets were quiet yesterday as dealers awaited further action on price control legislation. Cotton rallied in the last hour to erase early losses and finish unchanged to 10 cents a bale higher. Cottonseed oil slipped .02 to .04 cent, and cocoa lost .03 to .05 cent. Santos coffee closed .01 cent a pound higher to .06 lower. Trade in both grease and wool top futures was at a standstill, no sales being made.

War Map of China and Contiguous Lands

● This is a new war map of the major part of China, Indo-China, Thailand, and Corea. Thailand, Indo-China, and that part of China shown in orange are occupied by Japanese forces. Readers are advised to retain this map as an aid in following the progress of the war in the far east.

CHINA Covering with its nominal dependencies more than four million square miles, China is approximately a fourth larger than continental United States proper. Its population is estimated at more than 450 million. Ever since the Chino-Japanese war of 47 years ago, by which the Chinese lost control of Corea, Taiwan (Formosa), and the Pescadores Islands, China has been more or less under the heel of Japan. As the result of the Manchurian war, China in 1932 and 1933 lost four provinces, which Japan organized into the puppet kingdom of Manchukuo. Since 1937 China again has been actively at war with Japan. Lacking many essentials of war, the Chinese, nevertheless, have managed to maintain a front against the aggressors. China's principal life line is the Burma road (shown on the map), which starts at Lashio, Burma, and extends to Kunming, Yunnan province, where it links with connections to Chunking, the present Chinese capital.

INDO-CHINA This French dependency, with a population of about 24 million and an area somewhat in excess of that of Texas, was invaded by the Japanese in September, 1940. Since that time the invaders have virtually taken over the country, establishing bases there for their thrust against Singapore. French influence began to be felt in Indo-China as early as 1787. The three eastern provinces of Cochin China, a part of Indo-China, were annexed by France in 1862. From time to time the control of the rest of the country was acquired by the French.

THAILAND This so-called independent monarchy, with a population of about 15 million and an area a third greater than that of Montana, has been dominated by Japan at least since last December, when the two countries signed a compact for defense and offense. Even before the signing of this document Japan had pushed troops into Thailand for the purpose, it said, "of maintaining the independency of Thailand." Known as Siam until it officially changed its name on June 24, 1939, Thailand is a backward country. It yielded readily to Japanese pressure and was taken in by Japanese propaganda.

COREA Called Chosen by the Japanese, Corea is an integral part of the Japanese empire, having been established as such by an imperial decree of 1919. Japanese influence was implanted in the country as a result of the Chino-Japanese war. In 1905 Japan took over direction of Corea's external affairs. In 1910 it officially annexed the country. There are 22 million people in Corea, which is about the size of Minnesota, and a sizable proportion of these hate the Japanese. A Corean independence movement has flourished secretly for a number of years.

(A color map of Australasian waters, somewhere in which the United States Pacific fleet will be based, will appear in all editions of tomorrow's Tribune.)
